11 KILLED IN BLAST ROCKING GEORGIA TOWN

VILLA RICA, Ga. (UP)—A shattering blast ripped through the business district of this town today. Police said at least 11 persons were killed. Rescuers feared that more bodies would be taken from the tons of brick and mortar that collapsed when five buildings were torn apart by a gas explosion.

Every town within a 50-mile radius responded to pleas for help and the roadways were soon clogged with fire engines and ambulances.

British Train Wreck Toll Soars to 89

LONDON (AP)—Rescue teams tonight completed the removal of bodies from the wreckage of a giant two-train pileup and fixed the immediate death toll at 89.

Another 174 persons were injured, 107 severely, in the crash Wednesday night of two trains packed with commuters and Christmas shoppers, police said. As fog and darkness closed in again around the scene of devastation, salvage crews broke through the panelling of a shattered coach and found no sign of dead believed previously to be there.

DEBRIS COMBED

It had been smashed in the impact of the collision and then crushed again by the mighty girders of a damaged viaduct which fell atop the wreckage. Tarpaulin screens were erected along roadways overlooking the scene in southeast London to hide the wreckage from passing motorists and the curious.

The wreck just missed being worse, for a third train almost was involved.

An 11-coach steam train drove into the rear of a 10-coach electric train halted near St. John's station. The impact shot cars into the air and brought down part of an overhead viaduct which carried another electric rail line.

The disaster came just eight days after the British national railways announced that 1,500,000 passengers were carried in the last year with no deaths and only three injuries in 1,226 rail accidents.

Queen Elizabeth issued a message of sympathy and bereavement to relatives of the dead through Transport Minister Harold Watkinson.

Pea Soup Fog Blankets England for 2nd Day

LONDON (Reuters)—Fog—deep, damp and depressing—hung over England today for the second day running.

The worst pea-souper for two years in an area used to fog, showed signs of thinning out early today, but air, land and sea transportation still suffered.

Fog was lighter in the London area but heavier in the industrial Midlands.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Response to Appeal Gladdens Sponsors

One of the many satisfactions of sponsoring a fund such as "T-bricks for Korea" is to find one's faith in the generosity of plain, ordinary people renewed.

Hundreds give to such a fund. This particular campaign is to buy bricks, at 10 cents per brick, to build a tuberculosis outpatients' pavilion at Han No Hospital in Seoul, Korea, and the chances of any of the donors seeing the results of their giving is slim.

All they get in return is the satisfaction of knowing they have helped children with whom fate has dealt harshly—children on the far side of the world who will have a chance of being nursed back to health. Well-wishers gave $382 to the

Britons Plucky In Crisis

LONDON (UP)—It takes a crisis to bring out the best in the British.

A splintering crash, a few screams and shouts from men and women—a few moans from the injured. Then silence in the fog-shrouded wreckage.

A Cockney voice breaks the deathly silence. "Let's have a cigarette all around."

A woman rushed from her nearby home balancing a tray of tea.

"You'd better watch it, Ma, a fireman warns. 'The carriage may fall over on you.'"

She ignored him, and passed the warming tea to shocked and shivering injured.

Underneath the rubble and wreckage were the bodies of a young couple. Dead.

An injured man walked into Beckenham hospital, bleeding badly. "Just clean me up," he said. "I don't want to frighten my wife."

A girl with her smashed legs pinned in the wreckage. "Don't worry about me," she told rescuers. "Please help my husband. He may be hurt."

A little boy lying dead in the wreckage. A toy drum resting on his tummy. He was still unidentified at noon today.

Nineteen-year-old girl, hanging head down with her legs pinned in the wreckage. A doctor gave her three shots of morphine to ease the pain. A fireman who was trying to free her said:

I spoke to her for an hour. I have never seen anyone so brave in my life.

Nuclear Power for Navy To Be Studied by Canada

Team to Work With British

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian naval scientists next year will begin studies of nuclear propulsion for Canadian warships, Defence Minister Pearkes announced today in the Commons.

He said the studies will be undertaken in conjunction with the Royal Navy. A Canadian team of scientists and naval officers will go to Britain next year.

Mr. Pearkes also said the defence department has ordered two new destroyer escorts, bringing this program to 16 ships. Seven already have been commissioned.

He said there will be no change in the 1957-58 defence department estimates of $1,722,000,000, prepared by the former Liberal government.

The minister also announced:

1. Auxiliary RCAF fighter squadrons gradually will be converted to transport units. The light bomber squadrons at Saskatoon and Edmonton will be converted to this new role early next year.

2. Army militia units will be grouped together into some 45 or 50 mobile columns for civil defence duties.

3. The headquarters of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division will be disbanded. The army's three infantry brigades in Canada will be able to operate independently as brigade groups.

4. Four Bay class minesweepers will be supplied free to Turkey as well as the 10 Bangor class escort vessels now being transferred to that NATO partner.

5. One battalion of each of the three brigade groups in Canada will have a parachute element and be air portable.

6. There will be some reduction in strength of the 5,500-man naval reserve.

7. Aim of the RCAF auxiliary squadrons will be to contribute to the relief of civil emergency requirements in peace or war.

$34 Million in Pay Hikes

Mr. Pearkes said pay increases for the forces and defence department civilian employees will amount to $34,000,000 this year. The Mid-Canada Warning Line had cost $7,000,000 more than expected—$207,000,000.

Savings had been made to allow for these increases. The bureau of current affairs, which publishes pamphlets for the forces, would be disbanded.

Advertising expenditures for recruiting had been cut by one-third and curtailment of travelling expenses had been ordered. A number of "lower-priority" items in the construction field had been deferred. Mr. Pearkes added:

"It now is clear that these various savings will adequately take care of the additions caused by the salary increases. It is hoped that continued efforts will accomplish further savings before the close of the fiscal year." The year ends next March 31.

Mr. Pearkes warned, however, that defence expenditures in future may go up. He said: "The fact remains that, if we are to continue to play our part in the defence alliance, we must see to it that our forces are equipped with modern weapons. These weapons, on account of their increasing complexity, are becoming more and more costly."

B.C. Shipyards, which have long sought additional naval contracts, believe the allocation of the two new DDE's has not yet been set.

Harold Husband, president of the Canadian Ship Building and Ship Repairing Association, said he did not believe decision had been reached on which yards would be awarded the contracts.

U.S. Pilots Can Blast Hostile Craft—Pearkes

OTTAWA (BUP)—General Earl Partridge, commander of the North American Air Defence Command, has the power to order any hostile aircraft shot down over this continent without prior consultation with the governments of Canada and the United States, Defence Minister George Pearkes said today.

Speaking on the $1.7 billion defence department estimates, Pearkes added, however, that such action would not constitute a declaration of war and that this final power still remains with the Canadian government.

The minister told the Commons that NORAD will operate under the same regulations set up to govern the RCAF air defence command in 1951. Under these rules, he said, Gen. Partridge will have the power to:

Authorize the interception of any aircraft for identification purposes.

If an aircraft is hostile, order "its engagement by fighters or other means."

If an aircraft cannot be identified, authorize action to force it to land or engage it with fighters or other means.

"It is these rules which will govern the activities of the air defence forces controlled by the commander-in-chief North American Air Defence Command," Pearkes said. "These rules are Canadian government policy and therefore, North American Air Defence command will be operating within approved government policy."

Pearkes emphasized that, while the entry into Canadian territory by any hostile aircraft would be "an act of aggression," the use of force to deny further passage in this country "is not in itself an act which commits this country to war."

"Only the Canadian government can commit this country to war," he said. "Every precaution has been taken and will continue to be taken to ensure that the Canadian government is consulted before any act is undertaken which would commit this country to war."

PEARSON ALONE IN RACE

Candidates 'Mum'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Hon. Lester Pearson, who Wednesday announced he would be a candidate for the Liberal party leadership, today remained alone in the race.

Two other Liberals, mentioned as possible successors to former prime minister Louis St. Laurent, refused to commit themselves while attending the annual convention of the Manitoba Liberal-Progressive party. They were Hon. Walter Harris, former finance minister, and Hon. Paul Martin, former health minister.

Mr. Harris said he had no comment on Mr. Pearson's statement or on the possibility he (Mr. Harris) would seek the leadership.

Mr. Martin said: "The leadership of the Liberal party is an honor and trust which any man dedicated to the Liberal way would regard as the greatest challenge and opportunity to promote the nation's interest."

He added: "I am not entering the race, he said 'no comment.'"

GRISLY MONUMENT TO DEATH

Bridge girder rests atop smashed telescoped passenger coaches as rescuers press their search today in St. John's station, in southeast London, for bodies of more victims in Wednesday's two-train crash.

The disaster occurred in heavy fog during the rush-hour traffic, augmented by early Yule shoppers.

Moon Firing Early Friday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A new attempt to launch a tiny test satellite was ordered today. The new try will get under way in "daylight hours" Friday.

The announcement came from defence department information chief C. H. Schooley at the outset of a press conference.

Schooley said the launching attempt will be made some time after 7 a.m., EST (4 a.m. PST).

A valve leak and a cumulation of lesser troubles, along with winds of an unusual shearing effect possibly capable of twisting or toppling the rocket, forced abandonment of the proposed test launching of the 6.4-inch "gamma" baby moon Wednesday night, only 50 minutes short of the target hour assigned to it.

Walsh said there is no sure-fire guarantee the Vanguard will be fired Friday.

"There is a chance we will scrub," he said.

Israeli Gas Convoy Crosses Into Jordan

JERUSALEM (AP)—The first Israeli convoy to Mount Scopus in two weeks crossed Jordanian territory today carrying 14 barrels of gasoline and other supplies.

Easing of Rules For NHA Loans Widely Approved

Contractors here today were quick to praise new government regulations which would make loans available for home building for persons in lower income groups.

Victor L. Leigh, Canadian Construction Association housing chairman, said the association had been fighting to bring about reduced loan requirements for two years.

"It is bringing back the original intention of the National Housing Act which has been lost," he said. Mr. Leigh added that the act had been originally drafted to help persons who could not otherwise afford to own a home.

"If you have $1,000 and need a home, get it started now when contractors are available," he advised.

President of the Victoria Builders' Exchange, Gilbert Brown, said the move would be better for the industry.

H. J. Bowering, city builder, said the move would be of great assistance to lower income persons "providing the mortgages are amortized over a longer period of time. It fills a great need."

Mr. Bowering said the announcement from Ottawa would mean a great boost to the contracting business.

"We have been building mostly the more expensive houses in the past, for people who could afford them. But

Housing Loan Boon to Lower Income Group

VANCOUVER (CP)—Thomas B. Pickersgill, regional supervisor of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said today the effect of the federal government's new housing loan bill "would certainly be good for the lower income group now waiting to start houses."

"Works Minister Green has not only reduced the loan equity, but raised the debt service, which is just what the lower income bracket needs."

James Don, president of the Vancouver Metropolitan House-builders Association, said the builders welcome the move.

"It will help relieve unemployment eventually," he said, "but not at the present. These things take time."

Sparks Fly As CCF Replies to Fleming

Angry words flew Wednesday as the House debated for 4½ hours before voting the government $281,600,000 as an interim money supply to pay its December bills.

Some of the heat was generated by Finance Minister Donald Fleming's attempts to prod the opposition into more speed. The rest came from CCF party charges that the government is doing nothing about unemployment.

Allister Stewart (CCF, Winnipeg North) said the government has shown "complete and utter bankruptcy" in the situation.

The usually soft-spoken H. W. Herdridge (CCF, Kootenay West) said some cabinet members "have such an antiquated viewpoint they would have made good village councillors in the reign of George III."

'Complete Violation' Says Minister

Mr. Fleming's strongest criticism was directed at the CCF party, whose members had spoken most. Their speeches had been "a complete violation" of House practice. They had been "abusing the rights of the House and trespassing on the rights of other members."

If the opposition wanted to take that course, government plans for future House business "will have to take account of that fact and be guided accordingly."

Mr. Stewart reacted angrily. "No minister can threaten us in any way," the CCF member said. Mr. Fleming's references to CCF members were "nothing but calculated insolence."

The government had asked the opposition to cut down its speeches.

"We're not prepared to exercise forbearance when there is growing unemployment."

Doctors Urged to Back Health Plan

Senator David Croll Wednesday urged Canada's doctors to join the movement toward national health insurance. They might as well, he said, since they could count the fight against it as lost.

Speaking in the Senate throne speech debate, the Ontario Liberal criticized a maiden speech appeal by newly-named Senator Joseph A. Sullivan (PC-Ontario) who last Thursday said Canada's medical profession "cries halt" to the advance toward "state medicine."

Senator Croll said the Toronto physician and surgeon, equates social welfare with communism. The doctor-senator had alleged that national health insurance meant malingering and wastage of public funds.

"Can anyone say," asked Senator Croll, "that the government, which is to say the Canadian people, is being fleeced through abuses in the unemployment insurance scheme?"

"Is there any appreciable malingering to milk the fund unduly of benefits? The questions need scarcely be answered. Then why should a health insurance scheme — not 'state medicine' whatever that is — permit any greater abuses?"

Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot, describing Canada's National Gallery as "a museum of horrors," protested Wednesday over government delay in answering questions he asked about it more than a month ago.

The Liberal senator from Quebec had asked for a list of recent acquisitions by the gallery and the price paid for each.

CCF whip Hazen Argue said Wednesday the government appears to be jockeying for an early election.

He referred to the heavy agenda of legislation the Progressive Conservative administration

Less Down Payments, More Loans on Homes

OTTAWA (CP) The government wants to enable more Canadians of modest means to own their own homes.

Legislation outlined Wednesday night in the Commons by federal Works Minister Howard Green would lower the down payments on new homes under the National Housing Act, provide larger loans, ease income restrictions and provide $150,000,000 more in lending money.

He spoke in presenting a resolution preliminary to a bill which will embody the changes.

LARGER LOANS

Mr. Green said that the basis of calculating NHA loans will be changed, thus allowing larger loans on low-priced homes. The maximum loan would remain at $12,800.

At present loans are calculated on the basis of 90 per cent of the first $8,000 of the lending value of a house, plus 70 per cent of the remainder up to a maximum total of $12,800.

Under the proposed amendments, the basis would be 90 per cent of the first $12,000 of lending value plus 70 per cent of the remainder up to the same maximum loan.

No maximum is set for the lending value on which such loans might be sought.

The change will affect mainly borrowers buying homes in the $10,000 to $15,000 range.

Mr. Green also informed the Commons that a change in the regulations will ease income restrictions. At present loans are approved only where mortgage

PROPOSED LOANS TABLE

OTTAWA (CP)—Tables given the Commons Wednesday night by Works Minister Green showing the effect on maximum loans and down payments for new homes under proposed amendments:

Proposed Scale
Lending Value	Loan	Down Payment
$10,000	$9,000	$1,000
$11,000	$9,900	$1,100
$12,000	$10,800	$1,200
$13,000	$11,500	$1,500
$14,000	$12,200	$1,800
$15,000	$12,800	$2,200
$16,000	$12,800	$3,200

payments do not exceed 23 per cent of the borrower's income. This percentage would be increased to 27 per cent.

Thus, he said, a borrower who now needs an income of $4,050 a year to qualify for a $9,000 loan would need only a $3,450 income.

The changes in the law would be made applicable to borrowers whose applications now are pending or whose loans have not been advanced in full. Cost of renegotiating mortgages would be borne by the borrowers.

The housing legislation also would authorize the government to advance an additional $150,000,000 for loans towards home construction authorized by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Mr. Green said a similar advance to CMHC earlier this year is expected to be used up by the end of the year.

ADLAI URGES NATO ACTION

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai Stevenson has urged State Secretary Dulles to enlist NATO aid in seeking a general political settlement in the Middle East, the New York Times said today.

A Times dispatch from Washington says Stevenson also suggested serious consideration of past Soviet proposals — previously rejected by the West — that all nations stop shipping arms to the Middle East.

Stevenson has been consulting with Dulles on foreign policy in recent weeks in preparation for the Dec. 16-18 Paris meeting of NATO heads of government. His advisory role ends next week.

Panic Is No Help

THE WORST THING WE CAN do about the unemployment problem is to exaggerate it. For if the marginal difficulties of Canadian business are made to appear, in political speeches and reckless headlines, as a grave recession, then those difficulties will increase and spread.

To undermine confidence by misrepresenting the facts is to invite, and perhaps even to assure, real trouble in a system which lives largely on confidence.

What are the facts? To hear the statements of some politicians and labor leaders, an army of Canadians is unemployed and a great part of the labor force idle. Actually a very small fraction of the labor force is idle and more men and women are at work now than ever at this time of year.

In October, the last month of public record, the total labor force (the people able and anxious to work) stood at 6,005,000. This was an increase of 233,000 workers since October, 1936, and reflected the rapid growth of Canada's population.

Of the total labor force, 5,797,000 were fully employed last month. This is a gain of 123,000 in a year.

The number seeking jobs last month stood at 208,000 or 110,000 more than in October, 1936.

Thus of the year's increase in the labor force, 233,000 persons, 123,000 had found jobs and 110,000 had not. Since the year brought us 160,000 active new immigrant workers, it is clear that without these newcomers the economy would not only have absorbed the entire natural increase in our population but would have been short of workers.

Undoubtedly the unemployment figures have worsened since October, as they were bound to do in any case with the advance of winter. But nothing like an emergency has developed.

It is necessary to distinguish here between two phenomena. One is the state of employment and the other the state of business.

If unemployment reflected a general collapse of business it would indeed be an emergency. In fact Canadian business as a whole is good and seems bad only in comparison with the peak levels of early spring.

Muddling, But Not Quite Through

WHILE CITY AND MUNICIPAL councils are faced with the embarrassing task of trying to clear the way for stores to remain open at night for the Christmas shopping season, it becomes increasingly obvious that the Provincial Government pulled a boner by rushing through the Municipal Act at the last session.

Because the legislation was not fully considered, and only partly understood, by those who dutifully voted for it, commercial firms are now faced with the dubious prospect of staying open late even though the law of the province forbids them to do so. In effect the Provincial Government has told them: disregard the law and we'll pay no attention.

Such a farcical situation can be harmful as well as amusing. If the Government can decree that the laws passed by the Legislature shall be of no effect, where will such a Three major industries, agriculture, mining and forestry, are employing fewer people than a year ago.

Agricultural employment has been declining for years and will continue to decline with new farm machinery. The drop in mining employment is small. The only serious soft spot is in forestry, due to a fall-off in exports to markets where our high costs of production make competition difficult. British Columbia, as a great forestry area, feels the impact of these changed conditions more sharply than any other part of the nation.

Things may get worse before they get better. Canada, like the United States and many other nations, is now suffering the hang-over of an inflationary boom and can certainly retard its recovery by foolish policies in government, business and labor, especially by continuing to raise its costs of production. But as of now we do not have anything resembling a crisis; we have times of very high prosperity.

Here in British Columbia, for instance, a recent economic review shows that department store sales are higher than they were last year; that the fish and apple packs are substantially increased over 1936; and that grain shipments out of the Port of Vancouver have increased by more than 6,000,000 bushels.

These facts, however, are of no comfort to the unemployed person. He cannot eat statistics. The problem of business is to provide more jobs for a growing population and the problem of government is to assist those who, for a time, cannot get jobs.

The surest way to prevent business from creating jobs is to spread fear and undermine confidence. Anyone who exaggerates the unemployment problem, discourages business from expanding and frightens the purchaser of goods is not helping the unemployed. He is assuring more unemployment.

The unemployed must be helped by every possible means, private and governmental, but in trying to help them let us not disregard the economic facts and talk ourselves into a panic. That would help nobody, least of all the unemployed.

procedure end? The Legislature is supposed to be the sovereign body in our political system. Its decrees cannot be lightly put aside, even when they were obviously unwise in the first place. How can public respect for the law survive such treatment?

This is not the first such situation the Social Credit Government has run into as a result of hastily-considered legislation. It seems to have a propensity for legislating itself into impossible corners as a result of its method of "make the law first and patch it up afterwards." The warning of Mr. George Gregory, M.L.A., at the last session has been vindicated.

Would it be too much to hope that the Government will learn from experience, and avoid these embarrassing muddles in future?

No Lack of Readers

WITH THE ADVENT OF RADIO and again that of television, there were those who predicted that the newspaper had outlived its usefulness. They saw these new media replacing the printed page. It was "thirty" for the press.

A recent compilation of newspaper circulation figures—if any such proof is needed—makes it clear that the forecasts were wrong. In 1922 the total circulation of all Canadian daily papers was 1,681,326. As radio gained popularity, so apparently did the newspapers. In 1929 the circulation was more than 2,000,000, in 1946 more than 3,000,000, and this year it stands at 3,936,834, despite the increase in television sets.

Over this 35-year period, while the population has increased by 83 per cent, daily newspaper circulation has increased by 134 per cent. Obviously the newspaper fills a need, a growing need, of the modern citizen. The necessity for a democracy to be informed on local and world events in these increasingly complex times makes more important than ever a daily written report of facts and background explanations. No other medium so far has proved equal to the job.

Tito's Restored Health

OBSERVERS OF THE INTERNATIONAL scene have had occasion in recent days to note the characteristic behavior of Marshal Tito. Early last month the president of Yugoslavia found that for "health reasons" he was unable to travel to the major Bolshevik anniversary in Moscow.

Since then Tito's health has improved to the point where he is again planning trips. Conceivably he will proceed with the program outlined several months ago. It called for visits to Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, Indonesia, Burma, Ceylon and India.

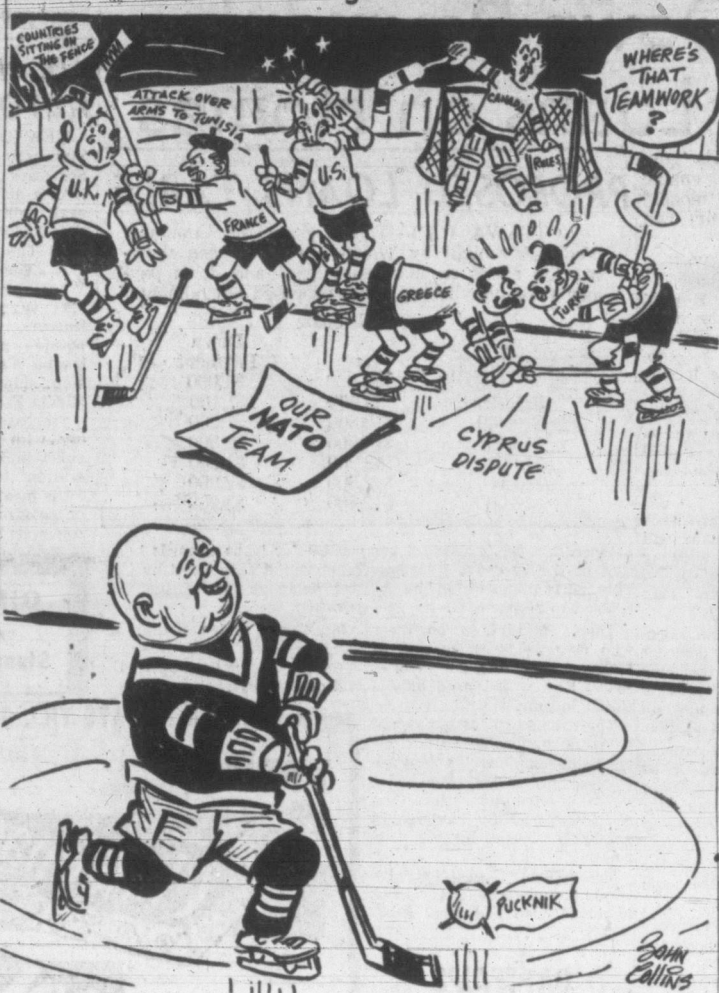

The inference is clear. Tito absented himself from the Moscow functions shortly after the Zhukov affair. The Yugoslav leader is apparently unwilling to give further personal support to Soviet Party Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev and his policies until Belgrade has a better understanding of what is going on inside the Kremlin.

That position is understandable. Tito is, of course, a Communist. But his Communism is not necessarily the type which Russia has used as a cloak for its particular form of imperialism. The Yugoslavs retain their own, independent assessment of the movement which, on other occasions, has varied substantially from that made in Moscow.

The current developments in Belgrade are not displeasing to Western world. However one point should be appreciated in any judgment of the effects of Tito's reactions to Moscow. Tito plays his cards for his own purposes. Sometimes his style of play seems favorable to the West. At all times it is favorable to Tito.

A Question of Manners

A PRIVATE and honest citizen must feel ashamed of his own manners when he reads that the manners of the British Prime Minister have recently been under bitter attack for what seems a very trifling lapse. You will recall that recently Mr. Gaitskell suggested in the British House of Commons that the Government intended to do a certain thing and Mr. Macmillan retorted: "Only the right honorable Gentleman (Mr. Gaitskell) would make so foolish an assumption." Mr. Gaitskell, his sense of propriety outraged, remarked that "the Prime minister, of course, is as usual rude and arrogant."

Hutchison

YOU might have thought, from the explosion of protest in the British press, that Mr. Macmillan had not directed a few cranky words at the leader of the opposition but had perhaps pelted him with eggs or stones.

All of Britain seems to have been as furious as Mr. Gaitskell. This was not cricket. This was not done. Not, at least, in the Mother of Parliaments, though it is done every hour of the day outside those walls and by the very people who are now so angry with poor Mr. Macmillan.

The manners of our own Canadian Parliament, offspring of the ancient Mother, are equally strict, perhaps stricter. Politically speaking, the British are a much more violent people than we are.

The manners of our provincial legislatures, which are closer to the rude stuff of common life, do not always live up to Ottawa's high standards.

FOR example, it is unlikely that Ottawa would permit the recent remark of Premier Bennett, who said of the Opposition Leader that Mr. Strachan just opens his mouth and lets the wind blow through—this observation, mark you, coming from the original Cave of the Winds, from the gusty caverns of politics immeasurable to man.

But no one seems to have been outraged by Mr. Bennett's elegant piece of wit, his almost poetic metaphor, his devastating riposte, his masterpiece of subtle sarcasm. For this is what we have learned to expect in the manly cut and thrust of provincial debate when a great fencer is at work. The public evidently likes it, as proved by the fencer's repeated victories at the polls. It likes to listen to the wind blowing through.

IN short, we have a variable set of standards in public manners—high in Ottawa, rather lower in the provincial capitals and much lower among the voters.

The latter may be outraged by Mr.

Macmillan's momentary lapse and would condemn the same words from Mr. Diefenbaker but these critics maintain no such standards among themselves. All of us use much coarser expressions every hour of the day and are constantly losing our tempers, with much less cause. Such is the cruel injustice of the democratic process.

The leader of a government, Mr. Macmillan for example, is always under great strain, usually intolerable strain, the like of which no voter has ever felt. Perhaps he is also unwell, as Mr. Macmillan was when he rebuked Mr. Gaitskell. Yet he is expected to maintain a code of behaviour which no voter could ever maintain in sickness or in health for half an hour.

WHY, if the manners of ordinary social intercourse were introduced into Parliament, if our statesmen spoke as we do, if prime ministers behaved toward oppositions as the average man customarily behaves towards his wife over the dinner table, if opposition leaders behaved like a wife over the breakfast table—if, in short, our leaders were no better-behaved than we are then parliamentary government would degenerate into a brawl probably with fist fights every afternoon.

Our expectations go much farther than manners. We expect our statesmen not only to behave well but to think well, much better than we do.

A stenographic record of Parliament presents a flow of well-constructed sentences, every verb in place, no errors of syntax and every sentence containing an idea, a piece of factual information.

If you were to take a tape recording of any private conversation, if you were to introduce into Parliament the conversation of the private dinner table or the coffee break our statesmen would appear as driveling, sometimes violent idiots.

If you were to put on Hansard the mass of complete misinformation which fills our usual conversation, if you were to attempt in Parliament the libels, slanders and absurdities that pass our lips every hour of the day, if you heard from statesmen the solemn nonsense of every street corner, every office and barber's chair—if, in short, our statesmen were no better-informed or intelligent than we are then parliamentary government would turn into a riot. It would be too like us.

NAY, if the nation's affairs were no better managed than ours the nation would dissolve before nightfall. If the nation's budget were as wasteful and inefficient as the budget of the average family Canada would be bankrupt. If public men conducted themselves like private men society itself would collapse.

But if a prime minister loses his temper once a year people who lose theirs several times a day immediately lose all sense of proportion as well.

The Waiting Oil Bomb

A NEW off-shore oil concession to Japanese interests, which closely resembles a very large time bomb, is waiting for King Saud's final approval as these words are written. The concession is important as a pattern-setter. It gives the Saudi Arabian government 56 per cent of the profits of the Japanese concession-holders. Thus it decisively alters the existing Middle Eastern pattern of a 50-50 split between governments and oil companies. Furthermore, it really shatters the existing pattern by giving King Saud's government a 56 per cent share of all the profits of the Japanese company, which promises an "integrated operation."

Alsop

This means that King Saud's participation in the profits on his oil will extend from the bowels of the earth to the Japanese company's filling stations in Tokyo, if any are established.

Anyone who doubts the explosive potential of such a new and pattern-setting oil deal in this oily and explosive part of the world should think back a few years to the famous, pioneering 50-50 contract between the Saudi government and the Arabian-American Oil Company.

New Pattern

That time, the American policy makers quietly warned the British that a new pattern was going to be set here in Saudi Arabia. The British government, nonetheless failed to bring the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company into line. The first result was the nationalization of Iranian oil. There followed the long, ugly Iranian crisis presided over by the weeping Doctor Mossadeq, which nearly ended in Iran's transformation into a Soviet satellite.

The time is about ripe, moreover, for another first-class government-oil company row here in the Middle East. Even Aramco is, now engaged in a bitter dispute with the Saudi government, and other local situations are, if anything, even more touchy.

To be sure, the weakening world market for crude oil ironically strengthens the bargaining position of the oil companies. Yet the danger has to be taken seriously.

Any prolonged row between any Western oil company and any Arab government will greatly increase the tension everywhere in the Middle East. And in this troubled region, there is more than enough tension already.

Such, then, is the real meaning of this Japanese concession which King Saud must now approve or disapprove. The concession has already passed the Japanese cabinet, which has formally undertaken to release the necessary hard currency.

Besides King Saud, the concession must also be approved by the Sheikh of Kuwait. But the Sheikh has already undertaken to approve any deal accepted by King Saud.

The Sheikh of Kuwait's approval is needed because the concessions area is located in the offshore sector of the so-called neutral zone between Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, in which the two governments hold what amounts to an undivided interest.

On shore in the neutral zone, the Getty Oil Company has now proven a fantastically rich oil field. Just to the south of the prospective Japanese concession and offshore, Aramco has also proven the great Safaniyah field.

Thus both the Saudis and the Japanese regard the venture as the opposite of speculative. This is why the Saudis have overlooked the relative smallness of the original Japanese investment fund.

Leading Consumers

This fund of under $15,000,000 has been guaranteed by a consortium of leading Japanese industrial oil consumers. These large industrial companies are in turn represented by the Japanese Oil Trading Company, formed for the purpose. The chief negotiator has been the leading Japanese businessman, Taro Yamashita.

The Saudi Arabian negotiator has been the astute and determined head of the Saudi government's department of petroleum and mines, the American-trained Sheikh Abdullah Tariki.

The agreement embodies Sheikh Abdullah Tariki's highly controversial view that the governments of the oil producing companies should be treated as world-wide partners of the oil companies, instead of taking a mere share of the oil company profits made in their own territories.

In line with this theory, the Japanese company promises the Saudi government 56 per cent of its profits, not just on crude oil production, but also on oil refining, oil transportation and oil marketing. To prevent undue inflation of costs at the expense of profits, the Saudis are given one-third of the places on the company's board of directors and one-half of the places on a committee on investments.

All in all, this is a quite unprecedented government-oil company relationship.

Dollar-Saving

The Saudi government share of the profits is to be paid in hard currency or gold; but even so, the Japanese should achieve a very great saving of dollar oil if the concession is approved and the company's operations are successful.

Getting oil paid for in yen instead of oil paid for in dollars has been the guiding Japanese motive, which makes this concession pretty special. Even so, Sheikh Abdullah Tanaki makes no secret of his conviction that it also will have far-reaching general significance.

"What we wanted from Aramco," he says cheerfully, "we just put in this agreement." (C) 1937 New York Herald Tribune Inc.

Who Invented Teenagers?

Excerpt from an address by Major Gerald Hart to the annual meeting of the Boy Scouts Association.

MY sympathies and interest are with the leaders and the boys for many reasons, but chiefly because we live in such complex times where real values are so hard to distinguish, where the popular thing is to blame everybody for one's own failures.

Local governing bodies blame the province, the provinces blame the federal government, the federal government blames world conditions, parents blame the schools, magistrates and the schools blame the parents. All are right and all are wrong.

When I ran a Cub pack and Scout troop, life was much simpler.

Some years ago, the North American manufacturers, looking for some easy money, hit on a scheme which has produced enormous returns.

They invented the teenager. Up to then, we simply had men, women, boys, girls, and infants (without special emphasis to those over 12 as being in their teens)—mark you, they were still boys and girls, just merely in a particular age group.

Now we have a positive monster in our midst who must, according to the manufacturers, radio and TV people, be catered to from dawn . . . I was going to use the metaphor and say "dawn to dusk," but it is quite often late morning to dawn.

Still Dependent

He now expects to be treated as an adult, live as an adult, spend money like an adult, but without any responsibility, on the contrary he is very often still at school and very dependent for the most part. In order to sell him goods we have accorded him a place in society that, in my opinion, is not rightly his.

Many features stress the fact he is the most important person in the home and the community, that his father is a poor misguided moron who has to have all his decision made for him by his wife, which person speaks most disparagingly of her spouse to the children.

No wonder he is bewildered and no wonder that the Scout section of the movement is numerically 50 per cent of the Cub section, I consider the boy and girl leader today a bit of a hero. Now finally a word to the layman.

Baden-Powell wrote "Scouting for Boys" for boys between 11 and 16 and he founded the movement. It was nine years before the Cub section was founded and 12 years before the Rover section came into existence.

The movement is the Boy Scout movement, and the Wolf Cubs are merely the juniors and the Rovers merely the seniors. We need men, men for leaders and men for committees.

When I attend a group committee meeting and find it constituted like a PTA meeting, one man and 20 women, I find myself wondering how it is that there are so many boys in the world, presumably without fathers.

Too Busy?

It is not a woman's place on a group committee. Every man in a community does not work every night, nor is every man a travelling salesman, or follow some avocation that takes him from home all year.

Recently a lady said to me the men were too busy. I asked her did she mean too occupied, with what, bowling, curling, hunting, fishing, golfing, dinners, luncheons, committees? There are usually very few men who cannot find two evenings a month to assist the leaders who are expected to give up much more time.

There is nothing more important in the community than the boys, nothing whatever, and surely most men can spare for, say, five years, a couple of evenings a month or a few weekends to the boys of the committee.

You will not get any medals or perfect attendance awards.

You will, however, have the satisfaction that comes with the performance of a worthwhile job, and remember when you take on a job it must not be with reluctance and to be sandwiched in between an already full schedule. You will probably have to drop something to do it. Chairmen who do not attend District Council meetings regularly, conduct committee meetings, etc., are breaking faith with the leaders and worse still with the boys.

Tax Fight

It's high time that the tax-weary voters of Victoria put some one on Council who will try at least to keep taxes from sky-rocketing higher. The Victoria ratepayers have found such a candidate in Mrs. Sally Rogers, who has promised to fight against a rising mill-rate. (MRS.) A. MONEY.

Highly Doubtful

A number of cities in the United States which have been fluoridating their public water supply have experienced widespread trouble through corrosion of domestic plumbing and supply pipes generally.

Seeing that the vast majority of modern automobiles are water-cooled, has anybody paused to consider what effect the addition of sodium fluoride to the city water supply must have on car radiators? As each fresh addition of water to the radiator becomes subject to evaporation, the sodium fluoride concentrates therein. Being a highly corrosive chemical, serious damage to the radiator core is bound to occur.

Herein lies yet another argument in the case against fluoridating the main water supply. When sodium fluoride can be purchased quite cheaply in tablet form for the benefit of those who wish to make use of it.

Fortitude

"DEATH and arrangements," she said to herself, remembering the words from a book she'd read somewhere.

Well, mercifully, Robert had taken a lot of the arrangements off her hands. But, even so, there'd been phone calls, and flowers, and letters, and telegrams, and cards of sympathy.

They'd been a help, undoubtedly. Not just the love and sympathy but the busy-ness, since she must be capable and efficient and see that everyone was thanked.

There'd been the tiredness to cope with, too—the tiredness that came as a reaction after the shock and the period of controlled emotion.

"Mother mustn't be allowed to mope," they said. "She's always been so wrapped up in Dad that we mustn't let her go to pieces. After all, there's a lot for her to do. She'll have to plan for her own future. The house, the garden, whether she'll take a boarder or move into an apartment, or try staying in turn with each of us—all these things must be decided."

"Thank Heavens, money is no difficulty," they added. "There's enough if Mother's careful."

Yes, Bertha knew exactly what they were saying. She'd heard it all so often in other people's cases. They'd be saying that Mother shouldn't stay on there by herself, alone with her memories. They'd be saying that she ought to try to get away for a little while, and that the change would do her good.

She could imagine the telephone conversations between her married children. "Well, I talked to Mother on the phone this morning. She'd taken the dog for a walk, and later, she was going down to change her library book and have her hair done. No, we can't go to see her this evening because Harold has a committee meeting, and I'm on that damned women's auxiliary."

The children meant well, thought Bertha. But if only they would give her a little period of peace, instead of trying to push her into a decision.

"I must have some time to get used to things. That's what I want," she said, for she'd developed a funny little habit of talking to herself.

It was mostly because she didn't have Tom to speak to. And, after 40 years of marriage, it seemed so silent not to have him there any more.

It seemed so strange not to see him putting out in the garden, or staring thoughtfully at his favorite flower bed.

His gardening boots, she thought suddenly. I washed his clothes, or had them cleaned, and sent them to the Salvation Army. And the upstairs shoes have all been dealt with. But the gardening boots—they must be down on the shelf behind the furnace.

"I must get a grip on myself," she said. "After all, Christmas is coming. If I forget their presents, I'll wrap a few this evening. That way, I'll be busy and not have time to think."

So she took out the gaily colored paper and the bright lengths of ribbon.

"To Bobby, with love from Gran," she wrote on the merry little tag, and never thought that she was a living example of that old-fashioned virtue, fortitude.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Longevity Affected by Stress?

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

According to the Institute of Life Insurance, in 1900 life expectancy of men was 46.3 years as against 48.3 years for women. In 1955, the corresponding figures were 66.7 and 73.6 years.

Many persons have felt that this sex difference in longevity must be due to the strenuous life that men now lead. To me, this isn't a good argument, because if the strain of life has greatly increased for men, why are they living on an average of 20 years longer than they were living 55 years ago? Also, most persons who discuss this problem do not know that the great differences in the mortality of males and females shows up even in infancy. I often read that stomach ulcers occur 3½ times more often in men than in women because of the strenuous life men lead.

But this doesn't impress me because there is a similar difference between the incidence of a disease called congenital pyloric stenosis. In this disease, children are born with such a thickening of the muscle around the outlet of the stomach that they vomit badly and commonly have to be operated on. I could fill a column with descriptions of troubles that are three times more common in boy babies than in girl babies.

Recently, Father Francis C. Madigan, S.J., of the University of North Carolina, attacked the problem in a good way. He studied Catholic brothers and sisters in monasteries and convents where he feels that the strain on the two sexes is about equal. The brothers are not subject to military service, after entering the religious life. Father Madigan studied the longevity of 9,000 brothers and 32,000 sisters living between the periods of 1900 and 1954. He found that even in these quiet communities the women were outliving the men. The evidence indicated that men and women were about equally resistant to infections and contagious diseases and that the greater longevity of the women was due to their greater resistance to the degenerative diseases, such as diseases of the arteries and heart and kidneys.

INFECTIOUS HEPATITIS

Many persons want to know how they got their infectious hepatitis. Some, probably, just caught it from some other person, but others appear to have gotten it from a transfusion. Because of the great danger in transfusions, I myself would not have one if I could possibly get out of it. In spite of every effort that doctors make to choose a donor who hasn't had jaundice, they still keep getting hold of men who carry the virus in their blood.

Another way of getting hepatitis is to be given a "shot" of something with a needle that hasn't been boiled for 30 minutes. In the old days we doctors thought it was safe enough to throw a needle into a strong alcohol and leave it there, but today we know that the virus of hepatitis is hard to kill, and hence every hypodermic needle or lancet for taking a sample of blood must be thoroughly sterilized, either by dry heat or by long boiling.

SMALL CYST AT END OF SPINE

Many people want to know what a small cyst is at the end of the spine of their newborn baby. It may be what is called a spina bifida, which is due to a failure of the two halves of the spine to come together and unite properly. In bad cases, little can be done. Sometimes in these cases there are defects in the nervous system of the legs, or there may be club feet. Expert neurologists and surgeons should be consulted.

In other cases, the little swelling is what is called a pilonidal cyst. Again, the treatment is surgical. Unfortunately, it often is difficult to get the whole thing out so it will not come back again.

A HAIRY MOLE ON THE FACE

I have never been able to understand why good-looking women will keep an ugly mole, and perhaps a hairy mole, on their face when in three minutes any good skin specialist could remove it without causing any pain. He would first inject some procaine under it, and then, with a needle attached to an electrical apparatus he would cauterize or burn away the mole with very hot sparks. In a week or so the scar would fall off and after some months the scar would be almost invisible.

NUMBNESS IN HANDS AND ARMS

Older people sometimes, and especially when they wake in the morning, complain of numbness in a hand, and arm. If this goes away in a few minutes, it does not mean much. Probably the person was lying on an arm or he had his arms in an uncomfortable position above his head. If numbness and clumsiness should stay in one hand and arm for several days, I would suspect that in the night there had been a little stroke; a little artery in the brain plugged up.

PETITION TOSSES CURVE AT DREAM PARK PLANS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A referendum petition has at least temporarily stopped Walter O'Malley's plans to build a dream stadium for his Los Angeles Dodgers in Chavez Ravine.

Signatures for the petition were collected by a group protesting the city's real estate deal with the Dodger Baseball Club of the National League.

O'Malley, president of the club which moved here from Brooklyn, had hoped to start construction immediately on the $10,000,000 ball park. The referendum means that at best his plans are sidetracked, perhaps permanently derailed.

The issue now rests with the city council, which can:

- Call a special election on the question;
- Place the matter on the ballot at the June general election;
- Rescind the ordinance covering the contract between the Dodgers and the city.

Moscow Selects, the touring Russian hockey team, will wind up their Canadian tour at Ottawa Friday with better than a 500 record regardless of what happens against the Junior Canadiens.

Their record of four wins, a tie and two losses against Canadian opponents has been compiled in impressive fashion and they have appeared almost unbeatable during their last four games.

Since Russia and Canada are expected to clash in the final of the world hockey tournament next spring, the tour has created more than passing interest across the Dominion in the question, "How good are the Russians?"

Scotty Melville, sports editor of the Regina Leader-Post, watched the Selects and was impressed by what he saw. His comments are highly interesting and worth passing on.

Here are some of Scotty's comments:

"Give the Russians a year or two under expert Canadian coaching, all other things being as they are today, and they'd lick our senior hockey teams any night in the week without working up too much sweat. That's the impression I was left with after watching the touring Moscow side lose 4-2 to Kitchener-Waterloo, Dutchmen.

"Played under European rules, which do not tolerate boarding, cross-checking and such rough stuff, the game was the third of the Russians' tour and once again it was very evident that the people in eastern Canada liked what they saw.

"To that hardened core of folks who prefer their hockey slap-bang, the game may have been sissy stuff but when the vast majority booted a Kitchener player for nearly a minute in getting the only cross-checking penalty of the night, it was yet another indication that rough-house style usually given them is not of their own choosing.

"The Russians played a pretty passing game. In fact, too pretty at times. By doing so, they neglected shots at the net. At other times, their shooting was poor but, outside of those two faults, they had plenty in their favor. The big item in their stock was condition. They skated untrippingly, and made the Dutchmen look slow and ponderous at some points in the game.

Hockey on Sport Agenda Only 10 Years

"They turned on a dime, an expression I haven't used since Elmer Lach played senior hockey in Saskatchewan, and generally played with effortless grace. Give them that little something inside the opposing blue line and they'd be dynamite to any team they faced.

"All this, and hockey had been on their sport agenda only 10 years, according to Col. Pavel Korotkov, chairman of the Soviet Hockey Federation, who is certainly a dedicated type. He claims the Reds are self-taught, changing to the Canadian game from bandy, a form of Irish shinty played on ice with a ball instead of a puck and with 11 men on each side. And that game was picked up from the Swedes.

"It was evident that the Russians learned from a book. They have yet to master the spur-of-the-moment stuff. What they do is done by rote, passing when passing is not really necessary, and, in particular, holding off plays at the net until one man is in position about 20 feet out and straight in front of the goal.

"When they pick up a little ingenuity, that's when they'll be hard to knock off.

"At an afternoon reception in a curling club, the colonel tried his hand at throwing a few rocks. Afterwards I asked if the Russians would take to curling now that he had made the first step. His answer was a chilling 'no'.

"We have much to do in hockey," he said, "We have a big program ahead."

"They have a program, all right. At present, some 230,000 youngsters, 13 and up, are playing organized hockey on outdoor rinks. There are few indoor rinks, only two in Moscow with the larger seating about 15,000. But they pack 90,000 or more in their sports stadiums outdoors and when a Canadian team goes there, the number will jump to well over 100,000.

Soccer Keeps Players in Condition

"Nearly every centre has a sport club and these engage in contests with other clubs, the teams in various age groups and grades meeting each other. The senior leagues are confined to a few main cities, with 16 teams in the A group and 32 in the B. At the end of each season, two move up from B to A, and the two low A teams are relegated, a system stemming from the English soccer leagues. All the hockey players also play soccer and this, no doubt, accounts for their superb condition. On this tour, the players practice at soccer every morning.

"At the start and finish of the game, the teams lined up then skated to meet each other and shake hands—a feature that we could copy even if we copy nothing else.

"But we should copy other things and if we do, it will mean much to hockey and to the public that, of late, has not been too interested in our national game."

Eleven Rinks Still Alive in Zone Playoffs

Eleven rinks, including two flying Navy colors, are still in the race for the right to represent Victoria Curling Club in the long playoff trail that leads to the Canadian championships.

Five of the rinks are still unbeaten in the double-knock-out competition. Third and fourth rounds, which will decide quarter-finalists in the two blocks, will be played Saturday at 6:45 and 9:30 p.m.

Foursomes skipped by Dick Brumwell, Eric Bullock, Tony Gutoski, Gar Taylor and Bill McLean have all won their first two games. At least one of these rinks will show a defeat after Saturday's play.

The luck of the draw—which often sets up extremely unusual situations—has the Brumwell and Bullock foursomes playing against each other twice Saturday.

Other rinks still alive in the event are, skipped by Wes Young and Jack Craig, the Navy entries, and Eric Smeaton, Larry Marshall, Gerry Walls and Wilkie Gardner.

Although the battle for the Brier Tankard—emblematic of the Canadian championship—will naturally be the highlight of this curling season, the Centennial Curling also promises to be a gala affair.

Some 50 rinks, including some from as far away as Toronto, have already entered. The Centennial rockfest will be staged Feb. 23-28, or the week preceding the Brier.

Sad Night for Snipers; Hall Gets Fifth Shutout

By Canadian Press

National Hockey League forwards found themselves frustrated at every turn by superb goaltending in Wednesday night's two games.

Where one team managed to score, it was a defenceman who first turned the trick.

Jacques Plante and Ed Chadwick were the goalies as Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs played a 0-0 tie.

Glen Hall turned in a league-leading fifth shutout as Chicago Black Hawks blanked New York Rangers 2-0. Defenceman Elmer Vasko scored Chicago's first goal.

The double shutout at Toronto was the first time Canadians have gone scoreless since Dec. 26, 1956. Chadwick did the job then, too, with a 1-0 victory.

TORONTO EDGES UP

The split in points moved Montreal four points ahead of second-place New York and edged fourth place Toronto to within one point of Boston Bruins.

Chicago's victory sent Hawks into fifth place, one point ahead of Detroit Red Wings and a point back of Toronto.

Chadwick and Plante came up with their third shutouts of the season. Hall's fifth was one more than he scored in 70 games last year with Detroit. Plante led the league last year with nine.

Plante, who stopped 27 shots, was exceptionally good in handling Frank Mahovlich three times. Chadwick, with 26 saves, had the most trouble with Bernie Geoffrion and Dickie Moore.

Chadwick was involved in last season's two 0-0 games, against New York and Chicago.

A key play came in the early minutes of the third period when Chadwick outguessed Bob Turner on a breakaway. Montreal was short-handed when Turner blocked a shot and had a clear path to the goal.

At New York the slumping Rangers dropped behind after 45 seconds when Vasko tipped in Nick Mikoski's shot. Eddie Litzenberger added his 10th goal midway through the third period.

It was the fifth loss in six games for New York, in which they have scored only nine goals, five of them in the lone victory.

CANADIEN'S SIXTH

It was Montreal's sixth straight game without a loss and Toronto's fifth straight.

At New York the slumping Rangers dropped behind after 45 seconds when Vasko tipped in Nick Mikoski's shot. Eddie Litzenberger added his 10th goal midway through the third period.

It was the fifth loss in six games for New York, in which they have scored only nine goals, five of them in the lone victory.

One of the first entries to reach Taylor's committee was from Toronto's Alfie Phillips, who has represented Ontario in two Brier playoffs. And the names of Edmonton's Cliff Lee, Jim Jenkinson and Earl Bourne of Regina, head the Prairie delegation.

Top-notch B.C. rinks entered include Ed Price of Port Alberni, Lloyd Harper of Quesnel, Barney Sigurdson, Fred Tingling, Arden Brown and Art Godder of Vancouver; Dave Dunn of Nanaimo; Jack Genest of Pioneer Mines; Ron COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Sweeping changes in baseball law were up for decision late today at a closed meeting of minor league executives.

They debated such issues as the bonus rule and unrestricted draft while major league officials at the annual baseball convention bargained over player trades.

The bonus rule, in effect since 1950, is expected to be scrapped.

This rule provides that any youngster who receives more than $4,000 for signing his first pro contract must remain for two years on the roster of the major league club which signs him.

Major league players claim that such untested youngsters are blocking seasoned players from major league payrolls. Most clubs also are said to oppose the rule, with New York Yankees the chief dissenters.

A proposal for unrestricted draft of four-year players in pro baseball was reported due for approval at the session.

If adopted, the rule would permit unrestricted selection of all players reserved by minor league clubs of AA classification and higher after four years service in organized baseball. The same unrestricted drafting would apply to players with three years' service on class A league rosters and after two years on class B and class C rosters.

Selection prices proposed are $25,000 at drafted by a major club, $15,000 by an open class Pacific Coast League club, $12,000 by an AAA club, $7,500 by an AA club, $4,000 by an A club, $2,500 by a B club and $1,000 by a class C club.

Doug Won't Find Old Spot Empty

Centremen Spark Cats To Third Straight Win

Cougars 6, New Westminster 3

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Doug Anderson, you might say, has already provided pre-Christmas assistance to better the fortunes of the Victoria Cougar Hockey Club, Inc.

And while it is apparent that Cougars' board of strategy did not intend to put Mr. Anderson or psychology into action against New Westminster Royals, it does seem that they could be blamed for Victoria's rather impressive 6-3 victory Wednesday night.

Just in case you were late joining us, Anderson announced his retirement from puck-chasing before this latest Western Hockey League campaign opened. He did, however, leave the door open for a possible return.

Cougar manager Colin Kilburn announced early Wednesday, after a lengthy conference with Anderson, that his one-time sidekick is willing to return. "First of all," reported Kilburn, "Doug wants to talk it all over with his employer. Secondly, he wants to take two weeks to round into shape to see if he can help us."

"So if everything goes well, it is quite possible he'll join the club shortly after Christmas." It's hard to say if Anderson's name did the trick, but the thought of another centre on hand seemed to stir Cougars' three regular pivots Wednesday night.

And the performance that Ed Dorohoy, Gordie Wilson and Gordon Haworth turned in, for the benefit of about 3,000 delighted customers, planted seeds of suspicion that Anderson may not make the club at his old spot.

Indeed, the brilliant play of the three centreman was a major factor in providing Cougars with their third straight victory. The centres must be singled out although it was an all-around team effort that disorganized, disrupted and dismembered the front-running Royals.

Regals Whip Flyers

The last-place Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals came to life Wednesday night and showed they haven't retired from the Western Hockey League's prairie division race yet.

Regals scored an upset 4-1 win over second-place, Edmonton Flyers. The game took the Regals out of last spot in their division and put them a point above Calgary Stampede, who beat them Tuesday night. The leading Winnipeg Warriors have a five and one-half game edge over the Stampede.

Lucien Duchene, all-star goalie last year in the WHL, blocked 46 shots for the Regals. Reg Primeau, a rookie from the Saskatchewan junior league, scored twice and assisted once while Vic Lynn and Les Colwell scored one each for the Regals. Chuck Holmes picked up Edmonton's lone goal.

Forward Bob Chorley of the Regals suffered a broken ankle in the second period when he went into the boards with Edmonton rookie defenceman Jack Hendrickson.

The Regals will play Winnipeg Warriors at Winnipeg in the only league action scheduled for tonight.

CAHA Pocket Money Doesn't Last Long

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The touring Russian hockey team went on a shopping spree Wednesday with pocket money provided by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Some players quickly exhausted their $100 and went back for more. Many bought suits and topcoats. Ties, shirts, socks and sweaters were also in demand. One player bought three suits.

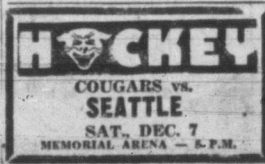

The CAHA, which is sponsoring the Russian eight-game tour, has arranged to provide an undisclosed amount of "pocket money" to the players during their two-week stay in Canada.

In Midland, George Dudley, secretary-manager of the CAHA, said he does not know how much pocket money the Russians will get. But he estimated that it will be more than the $100 a player.

Police Ready To Take Up Tripping Case

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto police are investigating the tripping of a Hamilton player in Saturday's Grey Cup game.

District Chief George Elliott, in charge of the police at the stadium, said no complaint was made at the time by any player or official and police have no reason to question the man believed responsible until a formal complaint is laid.

"If a summons is issued I'll gladly prepare a case," he said. "If a complaint had been made at the time perhaps things would have been different."

A Toronto lawyer mentioned as the person who tripped the player said Tuesday he did not trip the man.

The tripped player, Ray Bawel, was racing down the sidelines on the Winnipeg Blue Bomber 42-yard line when he fell. Referee Paul Dojack of Regina said Bawel at the time was obviously tripped by two Blue Bombers converging on him.

Little Soccer League wind-up will steal the spotlight in Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association action at the weekend.

Twelve teams will be competing in a knockout competition at Windsor Park Saturday as a part of their graduation ceremony into the higher class of play.

Aragon Freed Of Fight Fix Charges

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Welterweight boxer Art (Golden Boy) Aragon was freed Wednesday of fight-fixing charges.

The case was dismissed by Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker on recommendation of district attorney William McKesson. The prosecutor said he doubted whether a new trial would be justified because of the expense and the fact witnesses have scattered.

Last Oct. 25 the district court of appeal reversed Aragon's conviction and ordered a new trial, holding that trial judge Walker's instructions to the jury were prejudicial to Aragon.

Aragon, 29, was convicted last February and sentenced to one to five years in prison on a charge of offering welterweight Dick Goldstein $500 to take a fourth-round knockout in a bout scheduled for last Dec. 18 in San Antonio, Tex. The fight was not held because Aragon became ill.

Aragon, whose boxing licence application for 1957 had been denied by the California athletic commission while the criminal case was pending, Wednesday applied for reinstatement.

Within the past two days, the White Sox have added pitchers Early Wynn and Ray Moore to their staff in separate deals with Cleveland and Baltimore.

"We have a pitching staff that won a total of 107 games last season," says vice-president Chuck Comiskey, "and remember the Yankee pitchers won the pennant with only 98 victories."

To get Wynn and Al Smith from the Indians Wednesday, the White Sox were forced to give up their big stick man, Minnie Minoso, along with utility infielder Fred Hatfield. And in the Moore deal with the Orioles they gave up slugger Larry Doby.

SACRIFICE POWER
The consensus among baseball men at the meetings was that "the White Sox helped themselves tremendously in the pitching department but sacrificed quite a bit of power" in their deals here.

They now would like to obtain hard-hitting Ray Boone from Detroit so that they might be able to alternate him at third base with Billy Goodman, whom they acquired from the Orioles along with Moore.

Frank Lane of Cleveland, who made Wednesday's deal with the White Sox, said Chicago now has a pitching staff quite capable of winning the pennant.

"I hope this deal alerts the Yankees," said Lane, who is still trying to do business with them for a second baseman, preferably Bobby Richardson.

CASEY IMPRESSED

"That Chicago pitching staff is really going to be rough," Lane continued. "Imagine being able to pitch guys like Billy Pierce, Dick Donovan and Wynn against you in a single series?"

And don't forget, they still have fellows like Jim Wilson, Bob Keegan and Moore."

Even Casey Stengel was impressed.

"Those fellows certainly went out and got some pitching," he said. "They gotta be stronger now."

It's no secret that Stengel had an eye on the 37-year-old Wynn himself.

Wednesday's deal was the first one Lane made since taking over as Cleveland general manager three weeks ago.

WHEN THEY CALL BOXERS HEAVIES, THEY MEAN IT

BOLOGNA, Italy (UP)—Former European heavyweight champion Francesco Cavicchi of Italy knocked out Martinian Max Brianto in the ninth round Tuesday night—and busted up the ring, too.

A capacity 9,000 fans in Bologna's Sports Palace saw Cavicchi hurl his 200 pounds into a whirl of dynamite lefts to the head and rights to the body to send the 204-pound Brianto crashing to the canvas at 27 seconds of the ninth round. They heard the thud... and then the splintering of wood as the ring planks split while the referee took up the full count over the big Martinian.

The next bout on the card had to be delayed while carpenters repaired the smashed ring floor.

CROWD ATTACKS PLAYERS

'Friendly' Match Not Quite That

BELFAST, Northern Ireland—Players of the Italian national soccer team were manhandled Wednesday in one of the worst riots in recent football history.

An enraged crowd of 50,000 Irishmen broke down barriers, battled with police and mobbed the Italians at the end of the incident-ridden "friendly" game between Italy and Northern Ireland that ended in a 2-2 tie.

The two Catholic countries were marking the feast day of St. Barbara, patron saint of fireworks.

The Italian players, representing a total investment of $1,000,000, and some Irish players trying to protect them, were stoned, kicked and beaten up by the mob.

Some players had to be carried off on stretchers, but none appeared to be badly hurt.

Worst casualty was centre half Rino Ferrario, knocked unconscious with kicks that almost broke his jaw and badly bruised his ribs.

Squads of police raced on the field, pushed back the excited Irishmen with a baton charge, arrested several persons, then made a way for the Italians to return to their dressing room.

The riot started when an Italian player was sent off the field by Northern Ireland referee Tommy Mitchell for jumping with both feet at an Irishman.

The match should have been part of the World Cup. But it was turned into a "friendly" game because of the non-arrival of a Hungarian referee, fogbound in London.

Tempting Bait For Tiger-Cat

MONTREAL (CP)—Gerry McDougall, Hamilton Tiger-Cats' halfback, was reported Wednesday to have four offers from National Football League teams in the United States.

With players from the Big Four league and the Western Interprovincial Football Union gathering for Saturday's East-West all-star game, the offers were the topic of football conversation.

It was reported McDougall is seriously considering moving to the NFL but will decide after talking with officials of the Hamilton club after Saturday's game.

McDougall is particularly valuable to the Tiger-Cats because he was classed as a Canadian. His parents were born in Nova Scotia.

Points Didn't Tell Story in Title Bout

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Lightweight champion Joe Brown, fresh from blasting aside a game but over-matched Joey Lopes, today was poised for a possible February title defence against Ralph Dupas at Houston, Tex.

Brown Wednesday night scored an 11th-round technical knockout over Lopes. On points, Lopes was still very much in the Chicago Stadium fight until the champion lowered the boom in 150 of the 11th round—but in reality Brown toyed with the 4-1 underdog virtually from the start.

Brown fought a retreating fight in the early rounds, but scarcely used a right hand punch. In the seventh, the champion exploded a right to the chin which floored Lopes for a count of four.

LOPES FIGHTS BACK

The fight really was over right then. Lopes fought back gamely, but in the 10th round the scrapper from Sacramento, Calif., wandered in a daze to Brown's corner and sat on the champion's stool.

In the 11th, Brown came out for the kill. A right shot to the jaw dumped Lopes, who took a three count. Lopes righted himself, only to run into another explosive right to the chin which dropped him again. Lopes struggled to his feet once more. Brown savagely belted him and referee Joey White flew between the two to signal a TKO and save Lopes from possible serious injury.

Brown held the outcome in his right fist all the way. It was just a matter of when the champion decided to put out the lights for the busy, pursuing Lopes.

SUNDAY PUNCHES FAIR

Lopes was bleeding from cuts around both eyes and around the mouth. He shot his Sunday punches at Brown time and again, but they didn't hurt the champion.

Brown's manager, Lou Viscusi, said the champion was considering an offer for a Houston match against Dupas, Kenny Lane or Italy's Duilio Loi.

That covers the top three lightweight contenders, but although Viscusi was cagey about the whole thing, all signs pointed toward a Brown-Dupas match at Houston in February.

Brown didn't get rich by his conquest of Lopes. A crowd of 4,194 paid $9,601. Fortunately, a $200,000 TV plum fattened the purses of both fighters. Brown wound up with $15,840 and Lopes collected $9,920.

Vic High Hosts Cross-Country Run

Victoria High School will play host Friday to teams from HMCS Venture and HMCS Naden in an annual cross-country competition at Vic High.

Competition is expected to be close with Victoria High having edged the Venture squad by only one point in the Island championships at the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, two weeks ago.

Rated highly among the Vic High runners are Simon Princentburg, Monty Vanden and Jim Robertson.

Seixas, Flam Triumph

ADELAIDE, Australia (UP)—Veterans Vic Seixas and Herb Flam scored smashing straight set victories today to send the United States off to a commanding 2-0 lead over the Philippines in the Davis Cup tennis interzone semifinals.

A sparse crowd of 2,000 saw the 34-year-old Seixas from Philadelphia require only 55 minutes to down Felicissimo Ampon, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, and the 29-year-old Flam from Beverly Hills, Calif., whip Raymond Deyro, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Those two triumphs gave the United States an almost insurmountable lead in the best-of-five series which resumes Friday with the doubles match and concludes Saturday with the last two singles matches.

The United States can clinch the semi-finals and go on to meet Belgium in the interzone finals at Brisbane, Dec. 12-14, by winning the doubles match Friday.

DOGS SEEKING NEW HOMES

What Better Yule Gift?

By MONTE ROBERTS

Just about the best doggone collection of doggies ever seen at the SPCA is in residence in the Small Animal Shelter, 111 Wilson, today. Some of them are strays, waiting for their owners to claim them; but there are many who are ready for new homes.

And as far as this reporter is concerned, there isn't one I would not be proud to own. Nor is there a snapper or a snarler in the lot.

Take the nine offspring of Lady, for instance. (I'd like to take them all, and if you wonder why, see a few of them in the photo above.) They're too young to leave mother as yet, but by Christmas time—Lady would just as soon have them somewhere else. Lady herself is at the shelter because her owner hasn't the time to give her the care she needs. When the pups leave, she'll go back home.

And if you have in mind to put your name on a waiting list for one of the young fellows, be prepared to convince the SPCA you want a dog for the rest of his natural life, not a Christmas toy to be discarded when you throw out the tree.

Among the more distinguished dogs residing at the Small Animal Shelter are three Bedlington terriers—each registered and equipped with papers. They were donated to the SPCA by a Salt Spring Island kennel owner.

If you know the breed, you'll know they look more like lambs than dogs, have dainty feet, button eyes, and perfect manners. One of them can be yours if you're the type person who deserves a fine dog.

There's also a cocker spaniel with furrowed brow and coat of tan; a pair of real, honest-to-goodness springers; a 14-week-old cocker puppy; a two-month-old cross-spaniel.

And I almost forgot, a big, fat, white, tame rabbit.

I could go on, and I could take 'em all home.

But I imagine Judy Boots Streak and Little Miss Muffet might be jealous.

It's just a question of time and teeth before SPCA pups can really appreciate king-size bone.

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

A Vancouver Province columnist calling himself the Early Bird reports that Billy Tickle's Trio has "vanished" from the tea and crumpet scene at the Empress.

Where have you been, Early Bird? Fly over to Victoria any afternoon of the week and you'll find the Tickle Trio on the job as usual.

Their select background music for crumpet-munching

has been heard in the Empress lounge for 30 years past and, in the words of the maestro himself: "You'll probably be hearing it for another 30."

And there's another thing, Early Bird. In the afternoons, when classical music is played, you speak of the William Tickle Trio. It is only on the Saturday swing nights that we allow vulgarities like Billy Tickle and his Toe Ticklers.

Anticipating a strenuous session in the B.C. legislature next January, Deputy Speaker Alex Matthews of Vancouver is off to California for a few weeks in the sun.

He stopped off in Victoria Wednesday for talks with members of the government on legislative matters and called on Publicity Commissioner George Warren for a chat on tourist prospects.

Laurence C. Webb of 288 Cadillac Avenue, is all in favor of a suggestion from Victoria Chamber of Commerce that the B.C. government erect shelters to encourage hikers on Vancouver Island.

I wonder what the B.C. government had in mind when it advertised for a "tactful" librarian?

The answer may be that the successful candidate will be required to handle books and borrowers in the mighty Peace River block and "along the Alaska Highway."

He will receive $375 rising to $440 a month.

How do you go about becoming a magician?

Frank Merryfield, who has been playing conjuring tricks on Victofians for 45 years past, says it is a combination of patience, practice and know-how.

At 78, his sleight-of-hand is as deceiving as ever and he is

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A. W. Toone, secretary of the Victoria Labor Council, will attend an annual B.C. staff seminar sponsored by the Canadian Labor Congress Jan. 13-17. The seminar will be held in Manning Park, about 136 miles east of Vancouver.

Bruce Campbell Plaxton, 20, 1315 Richardson, was fined $15 in city police court today for being a minor in possession of beer.

George F. Wilson of the naval auxiliary vessel St. Anthony, HMC Dockyard, was fined $100 and told he would go to "jail without option next time," when he was sentenced in city police court today for driving while under suspension.

United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Local 1598, will hold a special meeting Monday at 7.30 p.m. in the Canadian Legion Hall, Britannia Branch.

Sixteen-year-old Kathy Foden, 2603 Prior, complained to police Wednesday she was walking with a friend in the 700 block Yates when an unidentified youth came up and slapped her face for no apparent reason.

Kathy and Olive May Knight, 16, 4433 Prospect Lake, said the young man was about 20 with brown hair and wore a navy blue suit coat and red wool vest. Police made an investigation of the assault but were not able to locate the suspect in late afternoon crowds.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group will hold a Christmas party at the Old England Inn Dec. 19. It will be a reunion for chamber members who took part in the goodwill tour through Washington, Oregon and California last winter.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island have withheld their support from a resolution calling for government action to bring about an "immediate settlement" of the pulp and paper strike. "The ACCVI decided the resolution was too controversial at the present time," Arnold Webb, secretary, said today.

Vic Van Isle Kinsmen will hold a ladies' night and business session at the Glenfield Hotel tonight at 7. Aid. Geoff Edgewood will be a guest of the group.

Naval seaman Dale F. Baker, charged in city police court with taking an auto without the owner's consent, was fined $75 Wednesday.

He was stopped en route up Island, police said. Baker was asked where he was going and told Magistrate H. C. Hall, "I don't know."

Heart Victim Dies After Attack in Car

Heart victim Harold Percy Fisher, 62, 3530 Saanich, was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday at 10.50 p.m. despite a police ambulance emergency run.

An insurance agent, he had apparently been making collections and suffered an attack in his car on Blanshard near Caledonia.

DAME FLORA

CLANS TO GATHER

MacLeod Chief Here on Dec. 23

The Clan MacLeod Society of Vancouver Island has arranged a busy 12-day program for the visit here of Dame Flora MacLeod of MacLeod, chief of the clan.

She will arrive here Dec. 23, her first visit since 1955.

Dame Flora, now 79, became chief of the clan in 1935, and in 1947 started globe-trotting to visit her clansmen and invite them home for a visit to the Isle of Skye and Dunvegan Castle.

She began her journeying at Cape Breton, has visited the United States, Hawaii, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand. In 1955 she made her first trip across Canada, culminating in a visit here.

TO READ LESSONS

On Sunday, Dec. 29, the chief will read the lessons at the morning service in Christ Church Cathedral. The clan ex-cerpting committee will meet Dame Flora at the home of Dr. Hector MacLeod Sunday evening.

She will make a television appearance on CHEK, Dec. 31, prior to a New Year celebration with clansmen.

On Jan. 2 she will be guest at a public luncheon in the Hudson's Bay Co. Olympic dining room.

A farewell dinner will be held at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel Jan. 3, and Dame Flora will leave Patricia Bay Airport for Vancouver at 11.15 a.m. Jan. 4.

Mrs. Marguerita Freemantle, 3059 Glen Lake, is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with a chin and knee injury received in an auto crash at Trans-Canada and Selwyn Road, Langford, shortly before 6 p.m. Wednesday.

Her husband Reginald was treated for a cut forehead and Mrs. May Algie, 2633 Wentwick, was treated for minor bruises. Both were discharged.

General meeting of the Ex-Service Women's Branch No. 182, will be held in Britannia auditorium, tonight at 8. Election of officers will be held and members will bring canned goods for hampers.

A family dance sponsored by the Esquimalt High School PTA will be held in the school auditorium Friday night at 8.30.

The event was announced in Wednesday's Times, in error, as being scheduled for Wednesday night.

Mrs. Stanley W. Holmes, 77, 2378 Pacific, became Oak Bay's first traffic injury since Safe-Driving Week began, when she received a fractured leg and wrist Wednesday at 3.10 p.m.

The car she was driving was in collision with an auto driven by Peter Chee Yee, 540 Yates, at Foul Bay and Oak Bay, police said. Mrs. Holmes was taken to Jubilee Hospital.

Damages totalled about $800.

CHEST DRIVE STILL SHORT BY $39,409

At noon today, officially the last day of the Community Chest "clean-up" week in the drive for $251,717, there was still $39,409 needed to reach the objective.

Contributions from Greater Victoria business, industry and individuals has reached $212,308.10.

"While this is the last day of the campaign, we hope to reach the objective from donations not yet received," said a Chest official.

It was urged that persons who had not yet donated, send their contributions "no matter how small" to the Community Chest, Spencer House, 1951 Cook.

Higher Cheques For Needy Aged Due Next Month

B.C. Ratification Likely on Friday

The provincial cabinet is expected to ratify an agreement with the federal government Friday to share the cost of $9 monthly increases for 10,000 B.C. pensioners.

Delay in drawing up the agreement meant that pensioners in the 65-70 age assistance group, disabled persons and blind welfare recipients did not receive the increase on their last pension cheques.

The increase, approved by Parliament last month, was included on the old age security cheques sent out to all persons over 70 in November.

WILL DATE BACK

It is assumed the increase for the other pensioners will be retroactive to Nov. 1 and will be on the next cheques.

Reason for the delay is that the cost of old-age assistance and other special pensions is shared 50-50 by the federal and provincial governments. Old age security is paid for entirely by Ottawa.

When the increase was announced by the new Conservative government, Premier Bennett said B.C. would "of course" pay its share.

Provincial government officials say the delay has been caused by the fact that royal assent was not given to the Federal Act proclaiming the increase until Nov. 24.

Re-Election Of Scurrah Now Assured

The re-election of Mayor Percy Scurrah for a second term, by acclamation, was assured early this afternoon.

Although nominations were not slated to close until 2 p.m. there was no indication of any candidate appearing to change the picture.

Election of a mayor by acclamation occurred last in 1947 when Percy George won that honor. Prior to that year, mayors were elected annually instead of for a two-year term as happens now.

THREE-TIME WINNER

Mayor George was elected by acclamation three times, in 1945, 1946 and 1947. Andrew McGavin who served between 1937 and 1943, also won three acclamations. David Leeming (1931 to 1935) was elected twice by acclamation and Herbert Anson (1928-1930) was elected by acclamation in 1929.

Mayor Scurrah's election would be the 10th by acclamation in 30 years.

All other elective offices will require casting of ballots to decide them.

Running for four two-year terms as aldermen are Ald. M. H. Mooney, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, Ald. G. I. Edgewood, Ald. J. Donald Smith, Mrs. Sally Rogers and Capt. D. J. Proudfoot.

Seeking election to two two-year terms on school board are trustee Kenneth Leeming, trustee A. H. Wilson and William H. Williams.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Lions: 12 noon, Empress Hotel. A. S. Harris talks on "Modern Lighting," includes short film.

Vitaflex Health Club: 7.30 p.m., Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street. Mrs. Lydia Arsens talks on "The Fluoridation Hoax."

Car Insurance Rates to Jump

Possible 10 Per Cent Boost for B.C. in 1958

A substantial increase in car insurance rates in B.C.—possibly 10 per cent—is expected in the New Year with a general increase all across Canada.

But rates in Victoria will still be lower than anywhere else in the province—about half those in Prince George.

"I don't think the new rates will affect this ratio," the spokesman for a Victoria insurance firm said. "Rates have always been highest in the Cariboo because of the road hazards involved."

REPAIRS COST MORE

Higher costs of auto repairs, higher hospital and medical costs, higher powered cars, more accidents—and the fact that judges are making higher awards in accident cases are held mainly responsible for the expected increases.

"We are going through a small cycle of inflation and insurance like everything else costs more," the Victoria spokesman said.

"We expect increases will be announced in Ontario and the prairies first—possibly within the next week. They will undoubtedly determine the scale of increases in B.C."

A spokesman for the All Canada Insurance Federation in Toronto said new rates are expected to be made some time next week.

A Toronto insurance company official said the general increase would probably be between 5 and 6 per cent.

PEAK IN 1953

Auto insurance rates rose last January and again in August after small but steady decreases since the 1953 peak. The decreases occurred as companies tried to wage rate wars.

Toronto companies say they expect rates will now return to the 1953 level.

This year they will be asked if they favor a royal commission investigation of complete or partial amalgamation with the study's cost to be shared by the provincial government and the municipalities.

Eric Charman, head of the Jaycee amalgamation committee, said a policy meeting will be held Friday to determine whether the petition should specify a referendum on a royal commission investigation to save asking the question twice.

Reeve Wurtele said the Jaycees' action was wrong on four counts; no report has been made yet by a special municipal committee on the Chamber of Commerce study of amalgamation; with no indication of the costs of a royal commission, ratepayers would be asked to give a "blank cheque"; there is not enough time to give the referendum sufficient study before Dec. 12; and the Jaycees haven't consulted the senior chamber.

Labor Minister Declines to Try Strike Mediation

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks gave a polite "no" to demands by a Victoria labor delegation Wednesday that the government try to bring the two sides of the pulp dispute together.

Jim Moffat, president of the Vancouver Island Trades Council, said today the minister intimated he would not act until both sides requested it directly.

Mr. Moffat said he was not satisfied with the answer "because there are a lot of people affected now."

About 3,000 men on Vancouver Island are not working because of the strike, which began its fourth week today. The figure includes about 1,650 strikers, 350 loggers and 1,000 construction workers.

Civil Service Asks Another Bargaining Talk

Would Speed Up Negotiations

The B.C. Government Employees' Association has written directly to Attorney-General Bohner asking for another meeting on a collective bargaining agreement for civil servants.

Ed O'Connor, association general secretary, said today he is "dissatisfied" with the exchange of correspondence with the attorney-general's department and would like a speedup of direct negotiations.

It had been expected that a meeting would be held this week.

At the request of the association, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan wrote to the attorney-general last month asking him to arrange a meeting.

It appears now the dispute may have to be aired at a public hearing of the board of reference set up by the government under Chief Justice Sloan last July.

The negotiations have been carried on privately during the past few months.

The association is insisting that the government make provision for an independent body to settle wage disputes.

Labor Sharpening Brief to Cabinet

B.C. Federation of Labor will try, out a new weapon in its annual skirmish Friday with the provincial cabinet.

Sixteen executive members met today in a closed session at the Empress Hotel polishing up their annual brief before presenting it to the cabinet.

Usually, the annual brief is a thick volume of complaints and requests that is wielded like a broad sword without putting any dents in the cabinet's thick hide.

But this year, it has been slimmed down to rapier-like proportions for quick thrusts at a few vital spots.

One of the executive members put it this way: "We've been sending big briefs to the government for years and they haven't done anything. It was like beating your head against the wall. This year we're concentrating on a few things with the hope that our points will get across."

Among the points the federation hopes to score are establishment of a comprehensive public works program to end winter unemployment; establishment of a university in Victoria; and changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act to cut down the number of applicants that are refused.

Other items, passed at the federation's convention about a month ago, are demands that the provincial government put

New, Adorable Gift Items In Children's Shop Today

By PENNY SAVER

Nearly everyone has a child on their Christmas gift list. That's why I've been browsing in a children's shop today. Right away, a snugly eldorado and pillow set of orlon caught my eye. This material has a non-allergic chemical incorporated in the fibre, so that babies who may be sensitive to synthetic fabrics will come to no harm. The set is washable too, at $9.95.

Mother is certainly spared a lot of time and work with all the modern-day infants' clothes of nylon and orlon. Why, washing looks to be a cinch!

Take the diaper set I found. It consists of a pair of pants fully lined in plastic and a top for tucking in or leaving out when baby plays. These sets are masculine-styled for a little boy and frilly styled for baby Suzy! They come in colors to please everyone and at $3.95 a set.

Rayon or nylon nighties in pinks and blues are $1.49 (rayon) and $2.95 (nylon).

I don't think that mothers realize the variety of pretty clothes there are for the little girl in the 'teen-age group. Why, I was startled to find racks and racks of the sweetest frocks for this junior, junior miss.

For the nine-year-old girl on your list the latest is a taffeta combination blouse 'n' skirt. Skirts are in navy blue taffeta and there's a dainty petit point pattern on the blouse. Built-in crinoline under the wide skirt

Teen-Age Restriction Encouraged

NEW YORK — Parents with a teen-ager or two rocking around the house may feel they are going down for the third time and are in need of a life preserver.

But what would they do when confronted with waves of problems issuing from 45,000 adolescents in the throes of growing up? If they were Dr. Ruth Fedder, they would write a book. Or, perhaps two.

Not that she hides behind a typewriter in despair. Her books for teen-agers are a result of questions they ask her about growing up.

Dr. Fedder has been working in the 12 high schools of Bucks County, Pa., for 16 years as a school psychologist and assistant superintendent of schools.

When asked to compare today's teen-ager with the teen-ager of 16 years ago, she didn't hesitate.

"Today's teen-agers are more honest, more able to see and face problems and more willing to talk about them. In fact, they are more mature in their way than many adults because they have had to grow up in a more complicated world," she pointed out.

"Take dating," she said. "It used to revolve around the home. Now cars whisk them miles away to a dance, party or movie. Teen-agers have to get there and back, and handle any situations that might arise along the way."

"And all this publicity about steady dating," she laughed. "I think it is a matter of confused terminology. Many girls say they go steady. Then they explain they go steady by telephone with one boy and date another. Or they have a steady for Saturday night dates. When I was young, 'going steady' meant an approaching marriage. Today it means someone to count on for big dates."

"Teen-agers want to know what to do," Dr. Fedder pointed out. "They want restrictions no matter how much they seem to fight them. In fact, much of their behavior is to test these limits."

"They want guidance and direction in setting limits to their behavior," she explained. "In fact, they learn to know what to expect of themselves partly as they understand . . . what their parents expect of them."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

What Do You Really Know About Exercise?

People have so many misconceptions concerning exercise and ask so many questions about it that I am going to answer some of the most usual ones in the column today. I feel sure that many readers would like to know the answers to many of these queries.

1. How are figure molding exercises different from others?

In a way all exercises are figure molding in that all of them affect the figure. However, there are some exercises which are especially effective in distributing our weight nearer to our heart's desire.

It is entirely possible to lose inches in the waist and hips and over the abdomen without losing pounds. You also can build up the chest and calf muscles so that you increase the bust measurement and the size of the calves of the legs.

So, when I say, "figure molding" exercises, I mean those which I have found to be most effective in correcting figure defects.

2. I have heard that one must do exercises for at least an hour a day in order to make a difference in one's silhouette.

This is not true. You will see a big difference if you do your exercises for 20 to 30 minutes daily. The important thing is to be regular — do not do the exercises for a few days and then miss for the next few days.

Naturally you will get results more quickly if you can do them for 30 minutes morning and night. Also, it takes longer to increase a measurement than to reduce it. In the former situation you actually are building muscle.

3. I have heard that a woman should not start exercises after the age of 40. Is this true?

You can begin regular exercises at any age unless there is some abnormality or systemic trouble which makes it unwise. Of course your exercises should suit your physical capacity. The older you are the more slowly you will have to begin, and the less strenuous the exercises should be. It is also even more important that you have a physical examination before starting exercise. However, you always should have your blood pressure and heart checked at any age, and get your doctor's permission, before beginning.

4. You say a woman can increase her bust, but my doctor says it is impossible to do.

I did not say that you can increase your bust, but you can increase the size of the chest muscles which lie underneath the bust, and therefore make that measurement larger and your bust more prominent. It is like wearing natural falsies under your bust, instead of artificial ones on top of it.

If you would like to have my bust development routine, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Toss of Coin Takes Family To Africa; Now in Canada

EDMONTON (CP) — From a mud hut in Tanganyika and weekends in Zanzibar, to house-keeping at Lonsome Watson Lake in Canada's Yukon — that's part of the adventure story of an English girl now living in Edmonton with her bush-pilot husband.

"I tossed a coin after the war to see whether I'd go to Africa or India," Mrs. Victor McGuire, a former wartime Women's Auxiliary Air Force member, says.

"It was Africa and I found it easy to get a position teaching at a government mission school at Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika."

Her first home in Africa was a mud hut or banda on government-operated Maglani camp. "With the shortage of housing, married people got homes first," said Mrs. McGuire, a native of Kent. "I had two boys to look after the hut but it was very primitive."

Her class in school was almost a little league of nations with 30 pupils. "There were Asians, Indians, Africans and Europeans and they all spoke a different language," she says. "I had to teach mostly in Kiswahili, the East African dialect. There were government classes to teach us the language and it's easy to learn."

After a week in Africa, she met her future husband, Victor McGuire, Vancouver-born flyer, was doing aerial photography and she went along when he photographed the volcanic cone of Mount Kilimanjaro, 19,321 feet high.

After nearly three years in Africa she became engaged to the airman and left to be married at his home.

"What stays in my mind after spending 2½ years in Africa is the number of beggars," Mrs. McGuire says. "There was a camp five miles out where they are fed but they still hobble or crawl into town where they can make money begging."

From the humid 120-degree temperatures of an African November, the English traveller arrived in Quebec during the chill Canadian season and "thought I'd just freeze to death." Before her travels led to Edmonton, the McGuires lived at Prince Rupert, B.C., and spent three years at Watson Lake, where temperatures drop as low as 68 below zero.

Asked about her adventures, she said: "Oh, I haven't had any really, it's my husband who has the adventures in the family."

Veteran Actress Advises

MONTREAL (CP) — Hermione Baddeley, British comedienne and movie star, says aspiring young actresses can profit by working in a foreign country.

"I never did because I was too conceited," she said. "But I've heard of some who came to America—not to do well here—but to be better received when they returned home."

Miss Baddeley is separated more than 25 years in the theatre was here to make her Canadian debut in a stage presentation.

"The theatre as an occupation has an unusual lure," she said. "One doesn't really adore it. But if you stay away you miss it. I gave it up for four years when I married and it was hard."

Miss Baddeley is separated from her husband, David Tennant, a Vancouver businessman. The couple have two children—a daughter now married, and a son.

Miss Kerrone Feted

Gilson, Mrs. P. Bridges, Mrs. E. Wilson, Mrs. L. Caldwell, Mrs. E. Briggs, Misses Elizabeth Walther, Beverly Luff, Pauline Day, Marilyn Eaton, Beverley Leach, Melita Schwalger and Gwen Rossiter.

Mrs. W. Martin entertained at her Sherman Road home in Duncan for Miss Kerrone. A corsage of pink carnations was presented to the bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. J. A. Kerrone, received a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums. Shower gifts were concealed in a decorated basket.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

WHERE TO PLACE NAPKIN I have always understood that the proper place for the table napkin is on the plate if the first course is not already there when the guests come to the table. Just recently when I was in the china department of a well-known exclusive store, there was displayed a beautifully set table with the napkins beside the plate. When I questioned the saleswoman about it, she said that the napkin is never placed on the plate. Will you tell me what is correct?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

I am afraid that the saleswoman is misinformed. The napkin does go on the place plate at a formal dinner unless the first course, such as soup or shrimp, is already on the plate as the guests come to the table, in which case, the napkin would naturally have to be placed at the left of the fork. But with informal dinners, a hostess will often close her eyes to such a rule and take conservative liberties by placing the napkin at the left even if the place plate is empty when the guests arrive. The napkin should be placed in a square, and when placed on the plate, it should have one of its points nearest the edge of the table.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

A Ragged Shirt, Mute Appeal From Lost Orphans of Korea

By Elizabeth Forbes

This is the story of a shirt. A shirt that earlier in the autumn was the garment that clothed a little orphan boy in Korea. A boy with a TB germ in his lungs. A boy that needed care and love if that germ is to be killed and his tiny emaciated body is to be returned to health.

The shirt was worn and stained, threadbare and full of holes. It sagged in the middle and the tail was shrunk and torn.

Certainly a Victoria mother would have gasped at the thought of it being used as the covering for any child.

It's winter in Korea now. The little boy is only one of 10,000 orphans existing in and around Seoul. Many of these children wear little more than a shirt. Many have the cough that speaks of tuberculosis.

The shirt was brought to my desk by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, when she made a quick visit to Victoria in the course of a cross-Canada speaking tour last month.

Dr. Lotta has seen Korea's poverty and disease at close quarters. She knows every one of those 10,000 orphans. She has heard that hacking TB cough.

"We are caring for them as best we can," she said, "but the situation in Korea is worse now than just after the war. Inflation has set in and the people are all starving. They can do nothing to help themselves since all their neighbors are in the same state."

T-Bricks to Build a Pavilion

She picked up the little shirt and ran her fingers along the ragged seams as she spoke of the Han Ho TB Hospital at Seoul. "It is filled to overflowing."

Her eyes were direct and warm when she added: "What is needed is an out-patient TB pavilion, in connection with that hospital, where these little children can be helped. Such a pavilion would help to combat this TB—which is one of Korea's greatest peace-time enemies—by providing free ambulatory service."

Dr. Lotta's love for the lost children of Korea is so deep and her faith in the Canadian people so great that she believes, by Christmas, she will have every penny of the money needed for that pavilion.

The Victoria Daily Times has opened a fund, "T-Bricks for Korea" ("brick by brick it shall be built," Dr. Lotta said) to help her make this dream come true.

Our goal is $12,000 by Christmas. The bricks are 10 cents each.

Your donations should be sent to The Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street, or The Times downtown office, Broad Street.

Gift of Bootless Skates Starts Helga on Career

MONTREAL (CP)—A Christmas gift to Helga Rosma when she was a little girl in Germany several years ago was the start of a brilliant career.

The gift was a pair of bootless skates, a far cry from the specially-made skates Miss Rosma now wears as a soloist with a touring professional ice show, Ice Capades.

"I had to fasten that first pair of skates on my shoes," she said, while here recently with the company. "But I sure had fun with them."

OLYMPIC SKATER

It was soon after she received the skates that Miss Rosma began showing signs of the form that carried her to the German woman's skating championship three times and earned her a berth on Germany's 1952 Olympic team.

She joined the company in July last year after a producer saw her skate in Garmsch, Germany.

"I had thought of teaching children to skate, but skating professionally was a long-held ambition of mine," she said.

She speaks almost perfect English. She learned the language in school at Munich, and polished it while taking skating instruction in London for several summers.

The trip here was her first to Canada and she said the country "isn't quite what we expected."

"You do not have snow all the time. In Germany, when we think of Canada we think of snow."

Lace fashions, then and now, point up both the seeming delicacy of lace and the fact that it actually is crush-resistant and long-lasting. Lace fan, for instance, is hundreds of years old (left). It's of rare hand-made Duchesse lace and is from the private collection of David E. Schwab. Flirty parasol of hand-made lace (upper centre) was the last word in fashion in the seventeenth century. Exquisite hand-made lace handkerchief (lower centre) is reportedly from the private wardrobe of the Empress, Eugenie, is valued today at four figures. Its rose-point pattern can be duplicated today by machine. 1957 fashion (right) is sheath and jacket made of peau d'ange lace shot with silver metallic thread. Jacket is collared in chinchilla. This is from Countess Alexander's collection of holiday clothes. It's a costume of great elegance.

Fashions in Airy Lace

Is there lace in your wardrobe? Do you own a lace dress or a suit, a lace-trimmed gown or robe, a lace sheath for late-day wear?

Most of us take lace for granted, liking its femininity and delicacy, knowing that it stands up well under repeated washings or dry cleanings.

But many of us don't know that lace was once a luxury fabric, confined to the nobility, made entirely by hand and almost prohibitively expensive.

In the 17th and 18th centuries, the use of lace was a mark of wealth and culture. Only the very rich could wear it. The average woman could never hope to possess so much as a scrap.

In 1957, we take lace for granted. That's because machines produce lace patterns that are very close to hand-made lace in appearance.

Designers are using it for umbrellas, raincoats lounge-wear, swimsuits and sportswear luxury even though its price tag is modest. It is still associated with grandeur, and most of us like owning it for this reason as well as for its high fashion.

Long Arctic Darkness, Not Lack of Luxuries, Creates Depression in Far North Residents

OTTAWA (CP). — Maxine Sutherland says it's not the cold nor the lack of luxuries that make life in the Arctic sometimes depressing—it's the long winter darkness.

The attractive education specialist with the federal northern affairs department made the statement as she boarded a plane recently for a one-month visit to Resolute Bay, far within the Arctic Circle.

This is something pert and petite Maxine has been doing regularly during her two years with the department. She has become an expert on the far north, going into isolated spots to inspect or set up schools for Eskimos.

Her mission to Resolute was to help a teen-age native teacher with her class of 24 Eskimo children, and to help her brush up on her English.

USED TO COLD

Resolute has little housing, and as she left Maxine faced the prospect of installing her sleeping bag on the floor of a lean-to attached to one of the Eskimo homes.

"I'm not worried about it," she told a reporter. "I have found the sleeping bag comfortable on other occasions, and the cold doesn't bother me."

But, she said, the perpetual winter darkness was depressing. Departmental officials tried to bring employees back to civilization every two years lest they become "bushed" by the long night.

One drawback of her longer stays — the current one was comparatively short — was returning to civilization ignorant of the latest hit tunes, Maxine said.

The only radio stations that could be picked up were Russian, she said. "They provide good radio coverage if you ignore the propaganda," she added. But they did not provide the hit parade features she likes to hear on Canadian stations.

Tea Set Lures Misses Into Good Grooming

Whether it's "Sara Crewe," "Alice in Wonderland" or the real thing, the tea parties of childhood are wonderful.

Be it a rainy autumn day or one in which a blizzard howls outside while everything's cosy inside, a tea party is just what small girls love. The "tea," of course, is cocoa or milk served with cookies or small sandwiches. A little girl likes to have at least one guest for her party, to make her feel really grown up.

Knowing how small girls feel about tea parties, one beauty house has packaged plastic cup, spoon and saucer in a good grooming set meant especially for the small fry. The set contains, in addition, a squishy plastic milk bottle filled with powdered bubble bath, five cookies made of soap and a soap lemon.

Oh! La! La! You Want To Be 'Chic'? Then You Watch the Accessories!

NEW YORK (AP) — The secret of that allure of French girls is merely a trick of clever accessories, says one of them. "Everybody is always talking about how chic French women look," says Monique de Nervo, a highly decorative young Parisian who has been touring the United States, giving lectures on fashion. "Actually American girls are better dressed, better groomed and more skilful with their makeup. But the French know how to wear accessories to dramatize a costume, and that makes all the difference."

Monique claims that you can always tell an American woman, because she carries her gloves instead of wearing them, and her hat, shoes and handbag are either too carefully matched or else have no relation to each other.

"In France," says Mrs. de

Nervo, "we would just as soon be caught without our shoes as without our gloves. We wear gloves as part of our costumes. Even at cocktail parties we wear the left glove and remove only the right one."

2-Cycle Engine Relies on Design

By DON INGHAM

The two-cycle engine that powers outboard motors, lawn mowers, light motorcycles and model aircraft is so simple it really should not work at all.

Automobile engines have enough shafts and gears and pulleys and gadgets to give confidence in their ability to produce. A big aircraft engine is crammed full of spinning wheels and a steam engine is loaded down with impressive parts.

The single-cylinder two-cycle engine, though, has only three moving parts. They are the piston, which slides up and down; the connecting rod, which changes the up-and-down motion of the piston into the rotary motion of the crankshaft; and the crankshaft itself, which can be considered as one part with the flywheel and ignition components.

That's all it takes—no camshaft, distributor, poppet valves, fuel pumps, injectors, or fans.

What it relies on is most ingenious design that eliminates most of the moving parts, reduces weight, and gives the advantage of one power stroke for each engine revolution. The four-cycle engine gives one power stroke for each two revolutions.

Partial Vacuum in Crank Chamber

Here briefly is what happens. As the piston rises it creates a partial vacuum in the air-tight crank chamber, and sucks gas from the carburetor into the base chamber through a one-way reed valve. The carburetor is mounted on the base, and the reed valve is nothing but a light metal flap that permits air to be drawn into the base, but will not let it out.

At the top of the stroke, the spark plug fires and the piston starts its downward course. As it descends it compresses the gas in the crank chamber, and slams the reed valve closed.

When the piston reaches the bottom of its stroke, it uncovers a hole in the cylinder wall—the exhaust port—that leads to the outdoors and permits the hot exhaust gas to escape. At the same time the piston uncovers another hole opposite the exhaust port—the transfer port—that permits the compressed gas in the crank chamber to come whistling into the firing chamber ready for a new compression stroke.

However, there is a gimmick to prevent fresh, clean gas from whistling across the cylinder and out the open exhaust port. EXHAUST SQUEEZED

This is a little ridge on top of the piston, close against the transfer port, that deflects the incoming gas upward. In so doing the gas not only stays within the cylinder, but helps squeeze out the exhaust gas.

The engine only sounds complicated because so many things happen at once, and without benefit of cams and valves. The engine is a plumber's nightmare of rushing gases, and at regular intervals in the process there is an explosion that keeps the whole thing running.

NO "KICKERS" The new motors, far from being the "kickers" of old, are reliable power packages for several reasons.

The intangibles, such as correct ration of cylinder and crank chamber volumes, and sizes of ports, have been learned and applied. Use of

Beer Price Hike To Be Discussed

Pros and cons of raising prices of beer by the glass are expected to be thrashed out Monday at the fourth annual meeting of the Hotel Operators and Innkeepers Society of B.C.

Representatives from 31 B.C. hotels will meet during the one-day convention in the Empress Hotel.

It is known that several hotel operators have been thinking seriously of trying to have the beer price raised from 10 to 15 cents a glass to cover higher wages won by beer parlor waiters this year.

Although J. E. Neely, of Victoria's Douglas Hotel and president of the society, would not confirm that the topic will be discussed, he did say "every field of the hotel business will be reviewed."

Stuart Keate, publisher of The Times, will address the meeting at a luncheon. Other speakers at the conference will be Ross Brown, Vancouver, president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, and Grace Kirkpatrick, of Spokane, Wash., executive secretary of the Pacific Northwest Travel Association.

Unemployment Talk Demanded by Labor

Victoria Labor Council Wednesday adopted a motion asking the provincial government to call immediately a conference on unemployment.

Council unemployment committee chairman Donald Douglas said there should be delegates from industry, the chamber of commerce, municipalities, churches and labor.

"I feel the church will be remiss in its obligation to mankind" if it does not take part, Douglas said.

Church representatives were asked to take part in a local winter employment committee meeting Wednesday morning, he said, and none responded.

Apparent neglect of the labor situation by church leaders led the delegate to say:

"In my opinion we should be hypocrites if we sing Christmas carols about goodwill to men in a few weeks.

IF CHRIST RETURNED

"I certainly feel that if Christ should come back to earth, he would certainly disown a lot of so-called disciples."

In his report on employment Douglas noted there are just over 4,000 men and women out of work in Victoria, a rise of 150 over last week.

"I think it is deplorable that the senior governments should take such a callous view of the employment situation."

He quoted newspaper accounts by Arthur Maloney, deputy labor minister for Canada, and finance minister Donald Fleming.

"Canadian workers never had it so good," Douglas read from a clipping about Mr. Maloney.

The finance minister was quoted as saying there is no emergency in Canadian unemployment.

MORE POPULATION

Douglas agreed with the statement there has never been a larger working force in Canada, but pointed out since the Second World War there are an additional 1,000,000 immigrants to Canada.

"We have over 4,000 unemployed in the city tonight and there are 28,000 out of work in Vancouver. Is that not serious?"

"Yet we have senior officials of the government saying 'they never had it so good.'"

"I believe they are throwing up a smoke screen," Douglas said.

In a letter to the labor council the Canadian Labor Congress backed a Victoria labor resolution asking senior and municipal governments to promote works projects to ease unemployment.

Victoria city council and Saanich council have given their support to the resolution.

LABOR CRITICAL

No Auto Dealers At Safety Meet

Victoria car dealers were sharply criticized at Victoria Labor Council meeting Wednesday for failing to have delegates at an annual meeting of Victoria District Safety Council last week.

Council delegate to the safety meeting, Edwin Haw, said, "I think the people who sell cars in this city should be condemned for not having representatives in attendance. 'The cars they sell kill the people.'"

He mentioned the Greater Victoria record of three traffic fatalities in separate accidents over a 21-hour period this week.

Two of the motorists were unionists, one a member of the International Woodworkers of America, the other of Chemical and Explosive Workers Union, he pointed out.

DRIVE SUPPORTED

The council supported him in a request to back a forthcoming safety council drive for members, agreeing to promote local unions to take part.

"We need to needle car manufacturers, salesmen and police," Haw said in his appeal to foster safer highways.

"If we are going to make roads and highways safe to drive on we are going to have to get in there and do something about it."

"It was the organized labor movement which promoted industrial safety."

"It is no use being safe on the job if we are not going to be safe on the highway," Haw said.

ALL SHOULD SHARE

Of the three main divisions of safety councils — home, industrial and highway — the second is best organized, but this does not excuse the others. "It's not fair to let someone else carry the load of safety," Haw said.

To Let Israel Convoys Pass

JERUSALEM (CP)—Tension along Israel's explosive border with Jordan eased Wednesday with the apparent success of UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's peace mission.

Both Israeli and Jordanian leaders indicated a willingness to "climb down" from mutual charges that each was strengthening its forces in Jerusalem's demilitarized zone.

Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion announced he had reached agreement with Hammarskjöld on a number of issues—including the tangled dispute over Mount Scopus, a demilitarized enclave in Jordanian territory.

After talks with the UN leader, Jordan later announced it will permit an Israeli convoy to pass through Jordanian territory on Thursday to carry supplies to Mount Scopus.

Rejection of Russian Moves By U.S. Denied

WASHINGTON (CP)—A state department spokesman has disputed the contention by Canada's External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith that "official spokesmen" and "reliable sources" here always flatly reject Soviet proposals for a big power summit conference.

Leaks Delay Atom Reactor

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Work on Denmark's first atomic reactor has been "seriously delayed" by leaks in the reactor tank, a spokesman for the Danish Atomic Energy Commission said Wednesday night.

The tank, delivered by an American firm, was tested a few days ago and several leaks were found, the spokesman said.

He did not want to appear to be "tussling" with Canada's external affairs minister. He suggested that condensed press reports might be to blame for any such impression on the part of Smith.

"On the last such Soviet proposal," the spokesman said, "we said we felt that all parties desired a productive meeting but that unless there was some assurance that the discussion would get somewhere we did not see any point in a summit conference."

"There would have to be some assurance that we were going to get somewhere and there would have to be advance preparation."

That, in the state department's view, does not constitute a rejection of the Soviet proposals, the spokesman said.

Oak Bay municipality advised city council Wednesday it will discontinue present arrangements for use of the city pound and dogcatcher at the end of this month. The municipality has entered into an agreement for pound services with the SPCA. Esquimalt adopted the SPCA service earlier and Victoria council is negotiating a similar arrangement. It is expected to be completed before the end of the month, city controller Dennis A. Young said.

ELECTION RALLY

Candidates in Victoria civic election will appear at a public meeting at Crystal Garden ballroom next Wednesday under Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsorship. Meeting starts at 8 p.m. The election takes place the following day. Polls will be open at the Market Building between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m.

DESIGNED FOR CANADA

First Atom Reactor Now Scrap

GLASGOW (CP)—The huge steel furnace designed and moulded for Canada's first commercial atomic reactor has been tossed on a scrap heap in the yards of a Glasgow boiler factory.

The five-inch-thick plates, planned for a reactor some 70 feet high and about 17 feet wide, are reported to have cost more than $1,000,000. The Glasgow company, Babcock & Wilcox, now is wondering what to do with them now that Canada has changed its specifications for the reactor.

Meanwhile, work on the Canadian reactor at the Des Champs site near the Chalk River atomic research centre in eastern Ontario is virtually at a standstill.

The power plant originally was to have been constructed by 1959. Now there is a question of whether it can be completed by 1960 or 1961.

Thus while Britain is forging ahead with commercial atomic power with one plant in operation and another one under way, Canada appears to be lagging far behind.

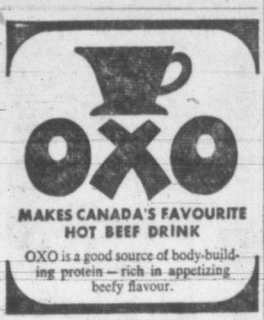

Plant officials said that as they proceeded with the job, the Canadians involved in the reactor suddenly decided to change specifications and to build a new reactor about twice as powerful as the one originally intended. That meant the steel plates had to be scrapped. The Canadians have worked out the designs of a new reactor and are in the midst of estimating costs.

NIKITA OWES $434 ON PLUSH WARDROBE

ROME (AP)—The Soviet Embassy has paid the tailor's bill for Nikita Khrushchev's new wardrobe.

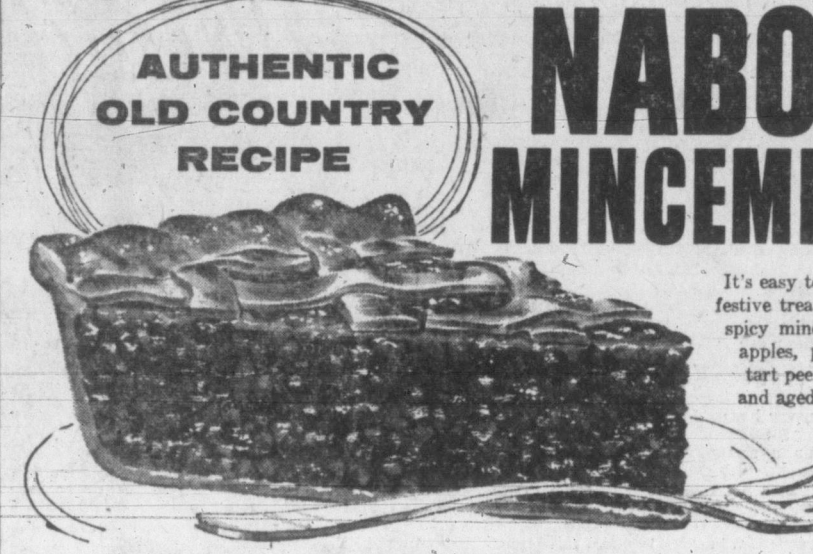

Rome tailor Angelo Litrico was a little worried that the two men who came to his shop Monday night for the two suits, two overcoats and accessories might not be the Soviet Embassy officials they claimed to be.

The Communist party boss paid $128 on account when he ordered the fashionable custom-made wardrobe from Litrico in Moscow two months ago. But the clerk who handed the items over to the embassy officials did not demand the balance of $362.

Waste in Forests Scored By CCFer

She cited "chaotic waste and mismanagement" in our forest

Youth Charged With Flag Theft

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A youth has been charged with theft following an incident Tuesday night in which a Russian flag was torn from the arena girders during an exhibition hockey game between the touring Russians and Kingston CKLCS.

Police said John Gaudaur, 17, was charged with theft.

During the game a youth shinned up into the girders and threw down the flag, "lying above the ice. He was apprehended but another person escaped into the crowds with the flag which was not recovered. The Russians won the game 4-2.

Mrs. MacInnis is the daughter of CCF founder J. S. Woods-worth, wife of veteran CCF former MP Angus MacInnis and a former provincial MLA herself.

She was in Victoria to address a general rally at Mount Tolmie CCF Hall during the party's 25th anniversary celebrations.

Public authority should take control of key resources in Canada, Mrs. MacInnis said.

"We need to protect the big resources of the country from United States interests... but we don't want our throat cut any more by a Canadian buccaneer than a Texas one."

LONGER LIFE

At one year of age, a female child in Canada may expect to live another 72 years, a male child another 68 years.

FRENCH TILT RAILROAD TO PROTECT STOMACHS

PARIS (UP) — France has a new self-tilting railroad car which officials claim can whip around curves at 80 miles an hour without spilling food in the diner or bothering passengers with sensitive stomachs.

Unveiled in a test run Wednesday the 32-passenger experimental model tilts automatically to offset exactly the centrifugal force that generally throws passengers toward the outside of the curve.

F. Collier Funeral Set for Friday

Funeral service for well-known Victoria resident Frederick Collier, 79, who died Wednesday at his home, 1430 Bay, will be held Friday from McCall Bros' funeral chapel at 3:15 p.m.

Mr. Collier was weighmaster for the city 33 years, and was perhaps even better known for his choral work and his interest in youth activities. He was past president of the Lower Island Juvenile Soccer Association.

He had lived in Victoria since 1912.

Survivors include the widow, Annie; two sons, Allan and George of Victoria; a sister, Mrs. O. T. Asprey of Victoria; five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Cremation will follow the service.

Tory Predicts Sacred Defeat

Social Credit has lost the confidence of the people and will be defeated in the next provincial election, Conservative party official Eric Charman said Tuesday.

The Tories, because they have more young people working for them than any other party in the history of B.C. will make a great comeback in the next election, he said.

Mr. Charman, president of the Victoria Progressive Conservative Federal Constituency Association, was speaking to students at Victoria College.

He said the CCF had reached its peak in B.C. politics and could only lose ground. The Liberals will elect no members next time, he said.

Mr. Charman criticized both Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner for holding down two cabinet portfolios each.

It was significant that holding down the extra portfolios enabled Mr. Bennett and Mr. Bonner to continue their dealings with such people as Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren "without having to consult with another single man in B.C."

BOY SCOUT NEWS

By FREEMAN KING

Mount Arrowsmith District: The 5th Arrowsmith Scout Group was given permission by Alberni city council to sell holly from door to door on Dec. 13, 14, 20 and 21.

Branch 55 of the Canadian Legion has taken over sponsorship of the 5th Group.

The troop has taken part in a light-weight overnight camping trip, using the new light-weight and waterproof tents. They proved successful against the heavy rains.

Woodcraft, tracking and estimations were carried out on an expedition into Qualicum Falls.

Patrick and Michael Mahoney were invested as Scouts.

Second Arrowsmith Troop, in conjunction with Beaver Creek Troop, will sell Christmas trees again this year.

The Beaver Creek boys will cut the trees and the Arrowsmith Scouts do the selling.

"C" Pack of the 5th Group will provide a turkey for a needy family.

Victoria District Notes: In the Salvation Army Group, Lawrence Grey, Roger Halfhide and Billy Nelson received their first-year service stars. Second-year stars went to Kenneth Bradley and Douglas Foster. Harry Ward, district cubmaster, visited the pack.

frisky and very agile. He is always full of fun and ready for a game. When adopted as a pet, he is a very affectionate creature, he comes when called and is always ready to nuzzle with his soft nose.

His kid days are over in about six months. By that time he is a grown goat with a pair of horns. With luck, he will live to enjoy life for another 15 years. During that time, his curiosity, his intelligence and his antics are bound to lead him into a few scrapes.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Karen Landphair, age 11, of Mt. Ayr, Iowa, for her question: How do snakes hear?

You have heard of snake charmers who make a cobra dance to the tune of a flute. Perhaps you have seen such a sideshow, real or on film. Well then you will be astonished to hear that the dancing snake is totally deaf. In fact, all snakes are deaf.

Certainly a snake has no outer ears, like yours or mine. But neither has a bird. Yet a bird hears very well with his inner ears, hidden below skin and feathers. A snake has no inner ears, either. He has no eardrums, and the bones of the inner ears are deeply buried in wads of gristle. He has no workable organs of hearing.

How does the cobra dance to the flute? The smart fellow has a pair of very sharp eyes. He is watching the movements of the snake charmer and moving in and fro to keep him in sight. Next time you see this show, watch how the snake charmer moves and how the snake sways to and fro as he watches.

Though a snake cannot hear sounds in the air, vibrations may reach him through the ground. He may turn his head at the sound of stamping feet.

For all his antics, the goat rates as one of the most valuable of all animals to mankind. He has been a domestic animal, more or less, since Bible days. He is a cud chewer, a valuable supply of meat, milk, butter and cheese. His skin is used to make leather and certain goats have valuable coats of long, silky hair.

Nowadays we have some splendid domestic breeds of goat. Mrs. Goat, called a doe, gives rich milk that is naturally homogenized. It is easier to digest than cows' milk and especially valuable because it never carries the germs of tuberculosis. Goat's milk yields rich butter and a fine white cheese.

Junior Goat, called the kid, is one of the darlings of the pet world. He is a charming little fellow on knobby legs, but by no means clumsy. He is however, Mr. Goat turns out to be a charming and a very intelligent fellow, though he will always tend to do strange things that puzzle you. He has never taken to captivity like his sheepish cousins. He loves to roam freely and he is clever enough to break out of most enclosures. When free, he is quite a menace, for he is most fond of all the things you do not want him to eat. Andy suspects that Mother Goose's Mary, Mary Quite Contrary must have been a goat.

When it comes to diet, the goat is not a choosy fellow. He can eat tough grasses and dry shrubs and thrive on poor scrubland where no cattle could survive. For some reason, the contrary fellow has a taste for glue. He can smell glue on the back of a label even when the label is pasted to a tin can.

Being a fellow who knows what he wants, he goes after it. He bites, licks and maybe kicks at the can until the label comes loose. During these antics, he seems to be eating the can. Actually, he is not. He is just working off the label. When it is free, he settles down and licks off the glue. The goat does not eat tin cans. And he would laugh at you, Bas, Bas, if you thought he did eat tin cans.

For all his antics, the goat rates as one of the most valuable of all animals to mankind. He has been a domestic animal, more or less, since Bible days. He is a cud chewer, a valuable supply of meat, milk, butter and cheese. His skin is used to make leather and certain goats have valuable coats of long, silky hair.

Nowadays we have some splendid domestic breeds of goat. Mrs. Goat, called a doe, gives rich milk that is naturally homogenized. It is easier to digest than cows' milk and especially valuable because it never carries the germs of tuberculosis. Goat's milk yields rich butter and a fine white cheese.

Junior Goat, called the kid, is one of the darlings of the pet world. He is a charming little fellow on knobby legs, but by no means clumsy. He is frisky and very agile. He is always full of fun and ready for a game. When adopted as a pet, he is a very affectionate creature, he comes when called and is always ready to nuzzle with his soft nose.

His kid days are over in about six months. By that time he is a grown goat with a pair of horns. With luck, he will live to enjoy life for another 15 years. During that time, his curiosity, his intelligence and his antics are bound to lead him into a few scrapes.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Karen Landphair, age 11, of Mt. Ayr, Iowa, for her question: How do snakes hear?

You have heard of snake charmers who make a cobra dance to the tune of a flute. Perhaps you have seen such a sideshow, real or on film. Well then you will be astonished to hear that the dancing snake is totally deaf. In fact, all snakes are deaf.

Certainly a snake has no outer ears, like yours or mine. But neither has a bird. Yet a bird hears very well with his inner ears, hidden below skin and feathers. A snake has no inner ears, either. He has no eardrums, and the bones of the inner ears are deeply buried in wads of gristle. He has no workable organs of hearing.

How does the cobra dance to the flute? The smart fellow has a pair of very sharp eyes. He is watching the movements of the snake charmer and moving in and fro to keep him in sight. Next time you see this show, watch how the snake charmer moves and how the snake sways to and fro as he watches.

Though a snake cannot hear sounds in the air, vibrations may reach him through the ground. He may turn his head at the sound of stamping feet.

The Moscow Selects, who wind up their eight-game exhibition tour against Ottawa-Hull Canadiens in Ottawa, Friday, were given $100-a-player "spending money" by the sponsoring Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

They took immediate advantage of a cancelled morning practice to investigate stores and stock up on a variety of Canadian drygoods.

Two members of the team visited a record shop in search of rock and roll music. They bought two albums of Elvis Presley, a couple of Bill Haley and one of drummer Gene Krupa, the store manager said.

More School Concerts Planned for V.I. Areas

Basis upon which a request for a grant will be made to Canada Council was explained by Director Hans Gruber at a Victoria Symphony Society board meeting Tuesday night.

Pointing out that Canada Council funds are not available to cover existing operating deficits or replace established sources of income for current schedules, Mr. Gruber said the application would be made on a basis of expansion of orchestra services and greater security for musicians in the orchestra.

It is proposed, if a grant is received, to inaugurate more concerts for school children and Vancouver Island communities. By underwriting free lessons for talented student instrument-ists, to be given by first desk musicians of the orchestra, multiple benefits are expected to accrue to students, to the orchestra's future and to the first deskmen whose position within the orchestra would be made more financially worthwhile.

PARTY PROFITS

Sum of $1,750 will be transferred to Symphony Society funds from the Women's Committee, it was announced by Mrs. Jack Gillespie. This amount represented profits from the garden party, antique dealers' fair and rummage sale.

President Jack BaracloUGH lead a discussion on ways of contacting further possible guarantors. There are now about 75 individuals and firms who pick up the deficit chit at the season's end.

It is urgently desired to build up this number to at least 100 within the next two or three months.

While it is virtually unheard of for any symphony orchestra to be entirely self-supporting—desirable ticket prices never being in accordance with operating costs—popularity of the Victoria Symphony is growing annually.

This was strongly indicated by figures that show an increase in both single and series ticket sales this season, while the Duncan concert series has gone over the top and is providing a striking profit.

Gas Overcomes Family of Five

His wife was in critical condition. A daughter also was overcome. Dead were Horace Foote, 53, Horace Jr., 16, and John, 15.

Duke Attends Dinner Ending Social Exile

LONDON (UP)—The Duke of Windsor ended his 21-year-old "social exile" Wednesday night to attend a dinner of the Prince of Wales Club of the Welsh Guards.

His surprise attendance of the annual convention set off reports of a possible reconciliation with the Royal Family.

It was the first time he had attended a Guards dinner since his abdication in 1936.

Six-foot-tall Welsh Guardsmen guarded the doors of their private dining room at the Dorchester Hotel to prevent any gate-crashing.

Welsh Guards officers said they did not know whether the duke would speak at the dinner but it was expected he would say a few words in reply to a toast, if nothing else.

The dinner was the first break in the "social exile" the duke imposed on himself until his wife, the Duchess of Windsor and former American socialite divorcee Wallis Warfield Simpson, is given the precedence and privileges of a royal duchess.

She now ranks only as an ordinary duchess, and the most newly created at that.

The duke may have accepted the invitation simply because the dinner coincided with his visit here to attend a memorial service for Major Edward Metcalfe, best man at his wedding, who died last week.

Import Curbs Boost Price Of Turkeys

Christmas turkeys will sell about five cents a pound higher than last year.

The price increase is due to import restrictions imposed on U.S. birds to protect B.C.'s turkey industry, dealers said today.

Last year turkeys sold at about 65 cents a pound for birds weighing between 8 and 12 pounds, 60 cents for 12 to 18 pounds, and 50 cents for 18 pounds and over.

HARD HIT

Dealers said turkey raisers last year were hard hit by the import of birds from the United States. Some were forced out of business when prices dropped below the cost of production.

This, they said, has resulted in a 25 per cent drop in production. On Vancouver Island the crop is about 75,000 compared with 100,000 raised last year.

Some turkeys are expected to be brought in from the Prairies to offset a possible shortage.

Police Keep Watch On Young Hoodlums

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—said none of his students was involved in the incident.

Police are investigating a disturbance involving spectators at a basketball game in efforts to prevent a recurrence of teenage gang warfare which raged here earlier this year.

Officers were called to the senior high school Friday when a fracas broke out after a game there between Prince George and Dawson Creek teams. A youth struck over the head was treated in hospital and given seven stitches to close a scalp wound.

Students Busy Planning Yuletide Show

Creative work by students of Central Junior High School will provide a full program for the Yuletide Varieties and Nativity play to be presented in the school auditorium Dec. 19 at 8 p.m.

With Mrs. Karel Logan as consulting director of dances and general co-ordinator, the youngsters have their own student directors, and call and conduct rehearsals entirely on their own time, either after school or during lunch break.

Under direction of Byron Barker, shepherds, choirs and angels are putting in many outside-school-hours rehearsals on the Nativity play.

Jean Davidson, student director of stage settings, is busy with paints and brushes at every available opportunity. She and her crew will be responsible for settings both in the Varieties and Nativity.

Included in the Varieties portion of the program will be original interpretive dance numbers, solo tap, Irish jig, ensemble singing and a Christmas in Hawaii number complete with Hula dancers and a high-stepping accordion line.

Bank Bandit Gets $2,300 At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A lone bandit walked into a downtown branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce just before closing time Wednesday and was handed $2,300 in cash by the teller.

He walked out of the building before bank officials realized the robbery had taken place. He indicated he had a gun in his pocket, but never showed a weapon.

The man demanded "big bills" from teller Mrs. Tina Plenert. She handed him a packet of $10 and $20 bills and as he walked from the bank, she crossed to the next wicket and sounded the alarm. Her own wicket, a temporary structure, had no alarm signal.

First police reports said Mrs. Plenert had fainted after turning over the money, but she later denied this.

The same branch was held up and robbed of $2,500—again minutes before closing time—June 7, 1955. The lone bandit was captured soon afterwards when he went on a spending spree. He was sentenced to six years in prison.

Record Crop Of Apples Parley Topic

KELOWNA (CP)—Two B.C. executives are in Ottawa this week to discuss the disposition of Canada's bumper apple crop—the largest since 1950.

R. P. Walrod and J. B. Lagder, general manager and general sales manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., are Okanagan representatives on the apple committee of the Canadian Horticultural Council.

The Canadian apple supply situation will be discussed, along with the merchandising problems involved, in what has been described as one of the most difficult years from an apple-selling standpoint.

This has been attributed largely to chaotic conditions on competitive markets in the U.S., a spokesman said here.

In addition to the horticultural council meetings, the B.C. delegates will confer with government officials, emphasizing the pressing problems facing Okanagan growers.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Yves Pommélet, 883 Wollaston, $5 for not having a red flag on a projecting load.

Knud George Harboe, 1318 Ivy, $25 for being a learner driving unaccompanied by an adult licence holder.

Bruce Campbell Plaxton, 1315 Richardson, $75 for driving under suspension and $15 for using another person's driver's licence.

Brian Allan Watson, 421 Durban, $15 for allowing another person to use his driver's licence.

David R. Foster, 916 Johnson, and Ernest W. Cookshaw, RCN, $25 each for driving without a licence.

Michael James Bennett, Island Tug and Barge Ltd., $25 for violation of driver's licence restriction and $10 for driving through a red traffic light.

Murray Blannin, 429 Queen Anne Heights, $10 for failing to notify motor vehicles branch of a change of address.

Tommy Wayne Sampson, Brentwood Bay, $10 for not having a rear licence-plate light.

Quon Yip Jung, 734 Pembroke, $10 for failing to carry auto registration in a conspicuous place.

Walter G. Everall, 3936 Quadra, $35 and licence suspension for careless driving.

ON REDUCED SCALE

Fulton Still Hopeful Mine to Stay Open

OTTAWA (CP)—Hope that the big copper mine at Britannia Beach, B.C., will be able to continue operations, although on a reduced scale, was voiced in the Commons today by Justice Minister Davie Fulton.

He was replying to James Sinclair (L-Coast-Capilano) who referred to an announcement Wednesday night at Britannia Beach by the mine manager that the mine employing 800 men would close Dec. 17 because of falling copper prices.

Tiny 'Clean' H-Bombs Object of U.S. Experts

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States designers are working at development of "clean" H-bombs, relatively "clean" of radioactivity, for use in battlefield warfare.

The primary objective is not so much to use the powerful kick of hydrogen explosives—huge amounts of radioactive material; fusion much less.

Mr. Fulton said he checked by phone this morning with New York officials of the Howe Sound Company, which owns the mine. He did not say what was discussed.

However, he said that as a result of a previous phone conversation Tuesday with company officials in New York he believes "there is still hope that an arrangement might be reached which would enable the mine to continue operations, but on a reduced scale."

can be packaged in an ordinary atomic explosion—but to reduce the fall-out.

The problem has been to provide a trigger for the fusion process of thermonuclear explosion without using fission.

RIOT QUELLED AT DARTMOOR

LONDON (AP)—Wardens at Dartmoor Prison, England's toughest penitentiary cracked down tonight on a convict resistance movement after finding escape ladders and incendiary equipment.

Extra police were sent to the prison.

Forty-three prisoners were put in Dartmoor's punishment cells tonight. These were described as the ring-leaders of a no-lunch strike which started the trouble among the 600 prisoners.

All prisoners were kept locked in their cells today, while an official investigation of the trouble got under way.

Two Generals First Casualties In Kilt vs. Trews Controversy

LONDON (CP)—Two distinguished British generals have become the first casualties in the battle of the kilt versus the trews.

But the Highland Light Infantry, newcomers of 1777, never have been seen in anything but the kilt.

The war office, seeking to save money with a slashed defence budget, told the two regiments to amalgamate or be disbanded. For five months, they have been fighting the order, marching in the streets, raising questions in Parliament and using every channel of protest.

LONGER LIFE

Average life expectancy of women in Norway now is 74 years, compared with 71 years for men.

Their resignations were demanded by the army council after the two officers were unable to agree on a common uniform for their regiments, which have been ordered to amalgamate into a single unit under the army reorganization plan announced last summer.

Saanich Candidates Fight on Indemnity

A surprise hot potato was thrown into the Saanich election fire Wednesday night when candidates roared both sides of the council honorarium question.

Coun. George Chatterton, who was absent but sent a letter to a meeting sponsored by the Saanich Voters' Association, started the blaze.

The letter told 50 persons attending the meeting in the Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall that present indemnities of $1,800 for the reeve and $600 for councillors should be "at least doubled" to give recognition to the "important status of a reeve or councillor."

During the question period, which followed a running battle between the candidates over investigation of amalgamation and the purpose of the December 12 Group, Reeve Arthur Ash was asked whether he would move to raise his salary if elected.

"I will not make any such motion because that sort of thing is up to council," he said. "But I will say that I think the honorarium should be raised to $3,000 for reeve and $2,000 for councillors."

Grant 'Satisfied With Expenses'

Ronald Grant said he, too, had four children, but "I'd be satisfied with expenses and I would not favor any increases in the honorarium."

Candidates Gregory Cook and Harold Todd both said they would not favor any change in the indemnity schedule, but reeve candidate Eugene Diespecker and council candidate Charles Nelles did not give their views.

The candidates also quarrelled over the sponsorship of Reeve Ash, and candidates Nelles, Murphy and Todd by the Dec. 12 group.

Vote on Library Service Planned in Ladysmith Area

LADYSMITH—Ratepayers in the rural areas of School District 67 will have an opportunity to vote on a library service next year, it was announced at a meeting of the Saltair Ratepayers' Association.

Trustee Ray Chamberlin reported that the Mount Brenton PTA had circulated a petition in the Saltair area and had obtained the signatures of more than 10 per cent of the total of the rural ratepayers.

He told the meeting that where such a petition is obtained, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may order a plebiscite.

The Saltair petition has been checked by the provincial assessor in Nanaimo and has been forwarded to the Lieutenant-Governor.

ORDER EXPECTED

Mr. Chamberlin said he expected that an order for the plebiscite to be taken would be received shortly.

He told the meeting that Saltair had received the bookmobile service of the Vancouver Island Regional Library for a number of years free of charge due to an oversight on the part of the library staff.

When it was discovered that the school district was not paying for the service, the service was discontinued.

Cost of the service is $1.10 per capita per year and it is estimated that this would add an average of slightly more than $2 per year to the school taxes paid by the rural ratepayers.

BOOKMOBILE SERVICE

In return the areas would receive a visit from the bookmobile at least once every two weeks. The van would stop at convenient points throughout the area with a constantly changing selection of 2,000 books. In addition residents of the area would be able to use the Ladysmith branch of the library with no extra charge.

The library also would put a collection of suitable books in each of the schools in the rural area and would change them three times each year.

The provincial highways department has reimbursed the Veterans' Land Act administration $500 for damage caused to a farm drainage system at Cobble Hill.

The VLA property is located just south of the Island Highway and when the highway was relocated the drains were clogged because of improper ditching.

The government granted the full amount of the claim made by the local VLA director.

ASSESSMENTS INCREASED

Good Progress Made By Qualicum Beach

QUALICUM BEACH—Steady progress during 1957 was reported to ratepayers at the annual meeting in the community hall here.

Report presented by J. Craig Reid, village commission chairman, stated that total assessments have risen to $1,899,412, an increase of $192,541 over 1956. During the year 33 building permits were issued, valued at $158,382, of which 10 were for new dwellings. Tax rate has been 15.34 mills for municipal purposes, and school rate was 14.66 mills. Mr. Reid said 95 per cent of taxes had been collected to Oct. 30.

Public works expenditures for the year totalled an estimated $15,845, and there will be an estimated surplus of $9,000, which will give a capital carry-over to help with many projects next year.

Water system functioned excellently, with water level in the wells remaining high during the dry season. The Volunteer Fire Department has been performing efficiently, and comments were heard on its excellent speed in answering calls.

"We've been lucky," commented fire chief Glen Naylor. "All our fires so far have been before midnight."

Parks board recommendations include provision of water at the recreation ground and cemetery, and building of new dressing rooms and concession stand at the former location. Proceeds of timber sales from the park will finance necessary improvements. Undergrowth along the approach to the park has been cleared, field drainage has been improved, and a new rail fence built.

Council has allotted $4,000 for Centennial year projects, such as boulevarding of municipal roads and planting trees along them.

Saltair Area Plans Centennial Canvass

LADYSMITH—A New Year's Eve dance, an old-timers' banquet and a program of water sports are planned as part of Saltair District Centennial celebration, Bud Platt, chairman of the Saltair centennial committee, announced this week.

Mr. Platt said a canvass of the district has realized approximately $200 for the project fund. As the provincial government will grant up to $540 for the project on a matching basis, the committee hopes to raise another $340. A canvass of the merchants in Ladysmith and Chemalvus is planned with this in mind.

The project is a recreation area to be constructed on the Mount Brenton School grounds, with facilities for tennis, shuffleboard, open air checkers, and horseshoes. It has been endorsed by Saltair Ratepayers' Association.

Mr. Platt said that in order to get the provincial grant, the committee must have the sponsorship of an organization which represents the whole community. He said that such sponsorship would not commit the ratepayers to any expenditure because of the province to give a matching grant.

'UNIQUE' SAYS JOHN D.

Ex-Tory PM Meighen Honored at Banquet

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker paid tribute Tuesday night to one of his predecessors, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, as a great statesman and literary figure.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke at a Canadian Club testimonial dinner honoring Mr. Meighen, past president of the club.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Meighen's literary contribution is "unique among the public men of Canada." He predicted that posterity would "discover and rediscover Mr. Meighen from the record of his recorded utterances."

As a statesman, Mr. Meighen had helped lay the basis of unity between the Commonwealth and the United States through his work in bringing about the Anglo-Japanese treaty at the Imperial Conference in 1921.

Mr. Meighen, at 83, the oldest living former prime minister of Canada, spoke briefly, recalling his early days in the Commons. "I was fortunate in the fine men who stood with me and the fine men who stood against me," he said.

Tributes to Mr. Meighen were received from Sir Winston Churchill, who referred to him as "this most distinguished Canadian statesman," and former prime minister St. Laurent, who said he was "distinguished as a patriotic citizen with a high sense of public duty." Others came from Social Credit Leader Low and Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled that Mr. Meighen was the only man to hold all four of the top positions in the federal government. He was at various times prime minister, leader of the Opposition, government leader in the Senate and Opposition leader in the Senate.

VLC to Continue Backing Strikers

Pulp, Paper Workers Action to Halt Construction Work Held Justified

A bid to have Victoria Labor Council support withdrawn from a three-week-old strike of pulp, sulphite and paper workers in B.C. was defeated Wednesday.

Electrician's delegate Jack Driscoll said in reply to the striking union's request for financial and moral aid he would have voiced support if the request had been a week earlier.

"But there has been a drastic change in the situation this week," he said.

(Strikers' picket lines have closed down pulp mill construction projects.)

"Numbers of our people have been shut out of their jobs and are losing their pay packets. Under these circumstances I feel we should not support them (the strikers)."

"I rise to support them," said International Woodworkers of America delegate Edwin Haw. "I don't think any organized labor can do otherwise. We in the organized labor movement must always support workers when they hit the bricks."

TOKEN DONATION
Council delegates voted to donate a token $10 contribution in aid of the striking union.

A letter outlining the strike story to date from the union point of view was read to council.

It said newspaper accounts had partly conveyed the impression the union's demands were unrealistic.

Actually, the letter said, the union's demands for a wage increase had been revised downward twice.

The union sought a 12 per cent increase on a basic wage of $1.72 an hour, three weeks' vacation after five years' employment and an increase to at least $2.55 on the rate for journeymen mechanics.

"NO CONFIDENCE"

Major recommendation of the conciliation board was a 7½ per cent wage increase. John Sherman, vice-president of pulp-sul-phite workers, said the unions have no confidence in the board chairman, F. J. Lynn.

"In 1953 Mr. Lynn was chairman of a conciliation board which came in with a recommendation of four cents, after we had actually negotiated five cents," he said.

A letter from management to union representatives last week said if the union policy committee wished to talk about "more money than is set forth in the majority report of the conciliation board," the executive committee could see no useful purpose in meeting with it.

'CONNOISSEUR AND PERFORMER'

Margaret Gets Music Award

LONDON (Reuters) — The public orator of London University answered criticisms of Princess Margaret's musical ability by declaring she is "a connoisseur and a performer—though alas in private—of skill and distinction."

Orator J. R. Sutherland, speaking at the presentation to Margaret of the university's honorary degree of doctor of music, added the honor was awarded in the full knowledge of her abilities.

The Daily Mirror Tuesday criticized the award, saying that "someone more vitally concerned with serious music" should have received the honor. Sutherland said that it was characteristic of the princess that whatever she did she did well.

He added: "She brings to all her appearances on the stage of public life the finish and perfection of an actress who has completely mastered her part."

But it is perhaps in music that she herself finds her greatest satisfaction and delight. Her musical taste is catholic, ranging from Mozart to the Cypso, and from opera to the songs of Miss Beatrice Lillie and Tom Lehrer.

Margaret received her honorary degree from her mother, Queen Mother Elizabeth, chancellor of the university.

11 KILLED IN BLAST ROCKING GEORGIA TOWN

VILLA RICA, Ga. (UP)—A shattering blast ripped through the business district of this town today. Police said at least 11 persons were killed. Rescuers feared that more bodies would be taken from the tons of brick and mortar that collapsed when five buildings were torn apart by a gas explosion.

Every town within a 50-mile radius responded to pleas for help and the roadways were soon clogged with fire engines and ambulances.

LONDON (AP)—Rescue teams tonight completed the removal of bodies from the wreckage of a giant two-train pileup and fixed the immediate death toll at 89.

Another 174 persons were injured, 107 severely, in the crash Wednesday night of two trains packed with commuters and Christmas shoppers, police said.

As fog and darkness closed in again around the scene of devastation, salvage crews broke through the panelling of a shattered coach and found no sign of dead believed previously to be there.

DEBRIS COMBED

It had been smashed in the impact of the collision and then crushed again by the mighty girders of a damaged viaduct which fell atop the wreckage.

Tarpaulin screens were erected along roadways overlooking the scene in southeast London to hide the wreckage from passing motorists and the curious.

The wreck just missed being worse, for a third train almost was involved.

An 11-coach steam train drove into the rear of a 10-coach electric train halted near St. John's station. The impact shot cars into the air and brought down part of an overhead viaduct which carried another electric train line.

The disaster came just eight days after (the British national railways announced that 1,500,000 passengers were carried in the last year with no deaths and only three injuries in 1,226 rail accidents.

Queen Elizabeth issued a message of sympathy and bereavement to relatives of the dead through Transport Minister Harold Watkinson.

Pea Soup Fog Blankets England for 2nd Day

LONDON (Reuters)—Fog—deep, damp and depressing—hung over England today for the second day running.

The worst pea-souper for two years in an area used to fog, showed signs of thinning out early today, but air, land and sea transportation still suffered.

Fog was lighter in the London area but heavier in the industrial Midlands.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Response to Appeal Gladdens Sponsors

One of the many satisfactions of sponsoring a fund such as "T-bricks for Korea" is to find one's faith in the generosity of plain, ordinary people renewed.

Hundreds give to such a fund. This particular campaign is to buy bricks, at 10 cents per brick, to build a tuberculosis outpatients' pavilion at Han No Hospital in Seoul, Korea, and the chances of any of the donors seeing the results of their giving is slim.

All they get in return is the satisfaction of knowing they have helped children with whom fate has dealt harshly—children on the far side of the world who are victims of war, and who will have a chance of being nursed back to health.

Well-wishers gave $382 to the fund Wednesday, with the following notes:

"More T-bricks for Korea," wrote "A. Friend." "May the walls of the pavilion rise to be a sanctuary, an aid to recovery and happiness to many."

M. L. wrote in a letter: "I'm sorry it isn't more, but I am an old age pensioner and so don't have much to give."

"This need was particularly brought home to our hearts through the report of Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova's address up Island," wrote another.

Dr. Hirschmanova is executive director of the Unitarian Services Committee that will ensure the building of the pavilion. Donations to the fund may be sent to The Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street, or to The Times downtown office on Broad Street.

Britons Plucky In Crisis

LONDON (UP)—It takes a crisis to bring out the best in the British.

A splintering crash, a few screams and shouts from men and women—a few moans from the injured. Then silence in the fog-shrouded wreckage.

A Cockney voice breaks the deadly silence. "Let's have a cigarette all around."

A woman rushed from her nearby home balancing a tray of tea.

"You'd better watch it, Ma, a fireman warns, 'The carriage may fall over on you.'"

She ignored him, and passed the warming tea to shocked and shivering injured.

Underneath the rubble and wreckage were the bodies of a young couple. They were holding hands. Dead.

An injured man walked into Beckenham hospital, bleeding badly. "Just clean me up," he said, "I don't want to frighten my wife."

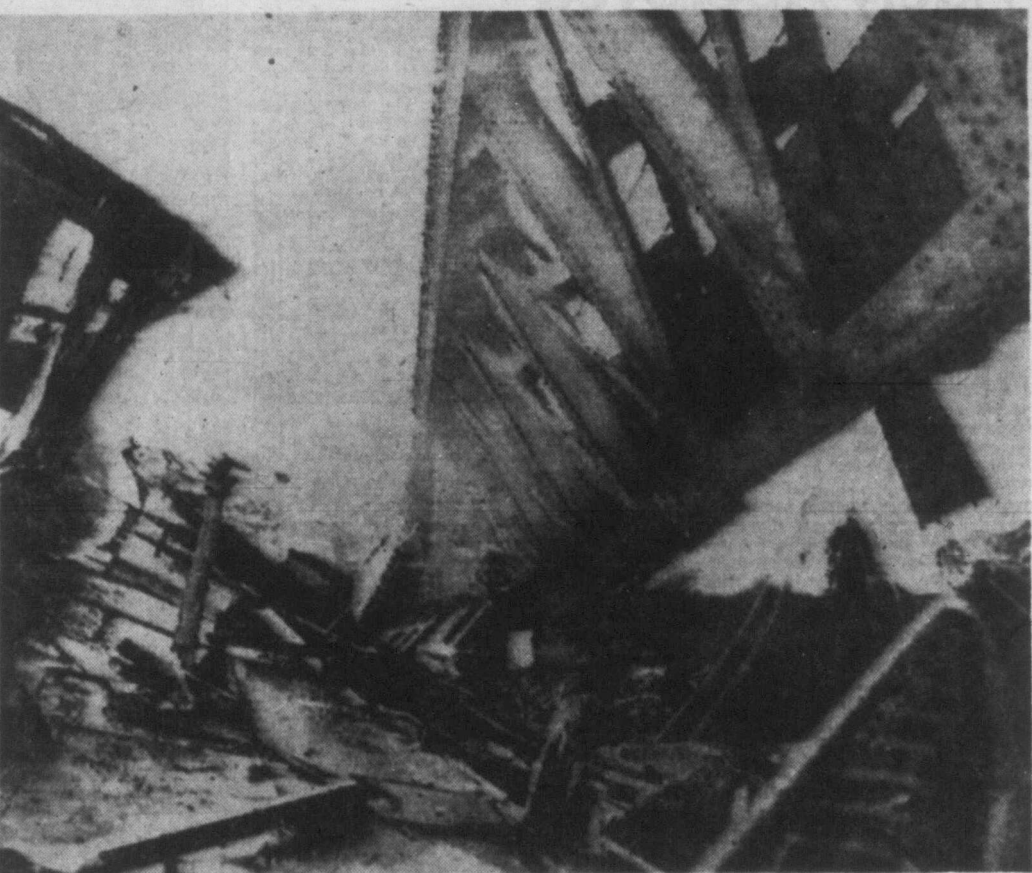

A girl with her smashed legs pinned in the wreckage. "Don't worry about me," she told rescuers. "Please help my husband. He may be hurt."

A little boy lying dead in the wreckage. A toy drum resting on his tummy. He was still unidentified at noon today.

Nineteen-year-old girl, hanging head down with her legs pinned in the wreckage. A doctor gave her three shots of morphine to ease the pain. A fireman who was trying to free her said:

"I spoke to her for an hour. I have never seen anyone so brave in my life."

GRISLY MONUMENT TO DEATH

Bridge girder rests atop smashed telescoped passenger coaches as rescuers press their search today in St. John's station, in southeast London, for bodies of more victims in Wednesday's two-train crash. The disaster occurred in heavy fog during the rush-hour traffic, augmented by early Yule shoppers.

UNOPPOSED

A second term in office in an unopposed election appeared certain at press time for Mayor Percy Scurrell of Victoria. Although nominations did not close until 2 p.m., there were no dark horse candidates in sight an hour earlier.

Moon Firing Early Friday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A new attempt to launch a tiny test satellite was ordered today. The new try will get under way in "daylight hours" Friday.

AFL-CIO War On Corruption Stands -- Meany

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—AFL-CIO president George Meany told the opening session of the federation's convention today there will be no deals in the federation's drive to eliminate labor corruption.

Meany flatly denied reports the AFL-CIO high command is in any way willing to water down its cleanup demands on the teamsters and other AFL-CIO unions accused of corrupt leadership.

There had been some speculation Meany was willing to let James Hoffa remain in a subordinate position in the Teamsters Union and escape an AFL-CIO convention expulsion move, if only Hoffa would quit as teamsters' president-elect.

In the past Meany had said Hoffa's ouster from any sort of post in the teamsters was the prime requisite to the trucking union's staying in the federation. The teamsters, already under AFL-CIO suspension, have one-tenth of the AFL-CIO's 15,000,000 members. The United Textile Workers Union was suspended Wednesday night.

The announcement came from defence department information chief C. H. Schooley at the outset of a press conference.

Schooley said the launching attempt will be made some time after 7 a.m., EST (4 a.m. PST).

A valve leak and a cumulation of lesser troubles, along with winds of an unusual shearing effect possibly capable of twisting or toppling the rocket, forced abandonment of the proposed test launching of the 6.4-inch "gamma" baby moon Wednesday night, only 50 minutes short of the target hour assigned to it.

Walsh said there is no sure-fire guarantee the Vanguard will be fired Friday.

"There is a chance we will scrub," he said.

Second Close Call For Expedition Leader

LONDON (Reuters)—A snow tractor carrying Vivian Fuchs, leader of the Commonwealth trans-Antarctic expedition, slipped into a crevasse Wednesday, a message received at the London expedition headquarters said today.

It was the second time that Fuchs' vehicle had been in trouble. Last week it was damaged when it hung perilously for five hours over the lip of a 60-foot crevasse.

It was recovered safely again Wednesday with minor damage.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

God of our fathers, Thou hast called us to walk in Thy sight, to do Thy will, and to be Thy children by adoption through Christ Jesus. Help us to walk faithfully in the paths of righteousness. Forgive us when we fail Thee as Thy children and renew the bonds that bind us to Thee. In the name of Thy Son we pray. Amen.

ALL VOTING ON ONE DAY THIS YEAR

All Greater Victoria municipalities vote on the same day this year—Thursday, Dec. 12.

In past years Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt have voted on a Saturday but they were brought in line with Victoria's private act with adoption of the new Municipal Act last July. In Central Saanich there are no elections to be held. All candidates were placed in office by acclamation.

Polling hours differ. In Victoria polls will be open between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. In Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt voters may cast ballots between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

SAME TAX FORMS, BUT...

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 16,000,000 income tax forms, with rates unchanged from last year, have been printed and shipped across the country—but this doesn't mean the tax can't be cut this year.

A revenue department official said today that the forms were sent out as a matter of routine and if the tax is cut further instructions will be sent out to go with the forms.

Heavy Toll In Brazil Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—Many passengers were killed when a speeding train plunged over an embankment at Pique Carneiro, in the Brazilian state of Ceara, first reports reaching here tonight said.

First reports put the number of dead at 200, but it was expected further details would bring this total down considerably.

PEARSON ALONE IN RACE

WINNIPEG (CP)—Hon. Lester Pearson, who Wednesday announced he would be a candidate for the Liberal party leadership, today remained alone in the race.

Two other Liberals, mentioned as possible successors to former prime minister Louis St. Laurent, refused to commit themselves while attending the annual convention of the Manitoba Liberal-Progressive party. They were Hon. Walter Harris, former finance minister, and Hon. Paul Martin, former health minister.

Mr. Harris said he had no comment on Mr. Pearson's statement or on the possibility he (Mr. Harris) would seek the leadership.

Mr. Martin said: "The leadership of the Liberal party is an honor and trust which any man dedicated to the Liberal party would regard as the greatest challenge and opportunity to promote the nation's interest."

Asked by reporters if this meant he was formally entering the race, he said "no comment."

Russ Launch First Atom-Powered Ship

LONDON (AP)—Russia scored another first today, launching the first atom-powered surface ship.

The 16,000-ton icebreaker Lenin slid down the ways in Leningrad, Moscow radio announced.

The broadcast said the ship will be capable of breaking through ice more than six feet thick, will use only a "few grams of its atomic fuel" every 24 hours and will be able to remain at sea for "several months."

The first United States atom-powered surface ship, the 21,000-ton merchantman Savannah, is scheduled to begin next year and be completed in 1960 at a cost of $42,000,000. The U.S. navy has been operating atom-powered submarines for several years.

Seems th' U.S. satellite just sat.

When it comes t' ships, atoms are somethin' I'd rather be powered by than blown to.

Th' NHA slogan seems t' be: Bigger loans for smaller people.

Court Ruling Under Study

VANCOUVER (CP)—A judgment by the British Columbia Court of Appeal that religious beliefs do not give parents the right to keep their children out of school may be challenged before the Supreme Court of Canada. Lawyer Pat Hogan said today it is "very likely" that the judgment will be contested. In Victoria Wednesday the appeal court rejected an application by Anna and Bill Perepolkin of Nelson that their son was illegally committed to the New Denver school because he habitually played truant. The Perepolkin family are Freedomites, members of an extremist Doukhobor sect which claims public schools train children for war in defiance of their Pacifist beliefs.

Gaillard Wins Vote

PARIS (AP)—Premier Felix Gaillard today won a fifth confidence vote from Parliament on second reading of his economic powers bill. First unofficial figures gave the count as 222 in favor of the government and 185—mainly Communists and extreme right Poujadists—against.

Smoke Wakes Guests

MONTREAL (CP)—Smoke billowed through 12-storey Windsor Hotel today waking 500 guests as a small fire broke out in the basement. It soon was quelled.

Train Crash Killed 13 In U.K. 2 Years Ago

LONDON (Reuters)—The last British train wreck with a high death toll occurred almost exactly two years ago, Dec. 3, 1955, when an electric train crashed into the rear of a freight train near Barnes, Southwest London, killing 13 persons and injuring more than 40. The worst recent train wreck in Britain was Oct. 8, 1952, when 112 persons were killed and 349 injured in a triple col-

POLICY RE-EXAMINATION HOPE OF LIBERAL PARTY

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal party hopes its leadership convention next month will produce—besides a new leader—"a pretty vital re-examination of Liberal policy."

Duncan K. McTavish, president of the party's national federation, made that statement today at a press conference as he outlined plans for the three-day convention Jan. 14-16.

Easing of Rules For NHA Loans Widely Approved

(See Story, Page 3) Contractors here today were quick to praise new government regulations which would make loans available for home building for persons in lower income groups.

Victor L. Leigh, Canadian Construction Association housing chairman, said the association had been fighting to bring about reduced loan requirements for two years.

"It is bringing back the original intention of the National Housing Act which has been lost," he said. Mr. Leigh added that the act had been originally drafted to help persons who could not otherwise afford to own a home.

"If you have $1,000 and need a home, get it started now when contractors are available," he advised.

President of the Victoria Builders' Exchange, Gilbert Brown, said the move would better the industry.

H. J. Bowring, city builder, said the move would be of great assistance to lower income persons "providing the mortgages are amortized over a longer period of time. It fills a great need."

Mr. Bowring said the announcement from Ottawa would mean a great boost to the contracting business.

"We have been building mostly the more expensive houses in the past, for people who could afford them. But

Housing Loan Boon to Lower Income Group

VANCOUVER (CP)—Thomas B. Pickersgill, regional supervisor of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said today the effect of the federal government's new housing loan bill "would certainly be good for the lower income group now waiting to start houses."

"Works Minister Green has not only reduced the loan equity, but raised the debt service, which is just what the lower income bracket needs," James Don, president of the Vancouver Metropolitan House-builders Association, said the builders welcome the move.

"It will help relieve unemployment eventually," he said, "but not at the present. These things take time."

Fortitude

"DEATH and arrangements," she said to herself, remembering the words from a book she'd read somewhere.

Well, mercifully, Robert had taken a lot of the arrangements off her hands. But, even so, there'd been phone calls, and flowers, and letters, and telegrams, and cards of sympathy.

They'd been a help, undoubtedly. Not just the love and sympathy but the business, since she must be capable and efficient and see that everyone was thanked.

There'd been the tiredness to cope with, too—the tiredness that came as a reaction after the shock and the period of controlled emotion.

"Mother mustn't be allowed to mope," they said. "She's always been so wrapped up in Dad that we mustn't let her go to pieces. After all, there's a lot for her to do. She'll have to plan for her own future. The house, the garden, whether she'll take a boarder or move into an apartment, or try staying in turn with each of us—all these things must be decided."

"Thank Heaven, money is no difficulty," they added. "There's enough if Mother's careful."

Yes, Bertha knew exactly what they were saying. She'd heard it all so often in other people's cases. They'd be saying that Mother shouldn't stay on there by herself, alone with her memories. They'd be saying that she ought to try to get away for a little while, and that the change would do her good.

She could imagine the telephone conversations between her married children. "Well, I talked to Mother on the phone this morning. She'd taken the dog for a walk, and later, she was going down to change her library book and have her hair done. No, we can't go to see her this evening because Harold has a committee meeting, and I'm on that damned women's auxiliary."

The children meant well, thought Bertha. But if only they would give her a little period of peace, instead of trying to push her into a decision.

"I must have some time to get used to things. That's what I want," she said, for she'd developed a funny little habit of talking to herself.

It was mostly because she didn't have Tom to speak to. And, after 40 years of marriage, it seemed so silent not to have him there any more.

It seemed so strange not to see him putting out in the garden, or staring thoughtfully at his favorite flower bed.

His gardening boots, she thought suddenly, I washed his clothes, or had them cleaned, and sent them to the Salvation Army. And the upstairs shoes have all been dealt with. But the gardening boots—they must be down on the shelf behind the furnace.

"I must get a grip on myself," she said. "After all, Christmas is coming. The grandchildren would never understand if I forgot their presents. I'll wrap a few this evening. That way, I'll be busy and not have time to think."

So she took out the gaily colored paper and the bright lengths of ribbon.

"To Bobby, with love from Gran," she wrote on the merry little tag, and never thought that she was a living example of that old-fashioned virtue, fortitude.

YOUR HEALTH

Longevity Affected by Stress?

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

According to the Institute of Life Insurance, in 1900 life-expectancy of men was 46.3 years as against 48.3 years for women. In 1955, the corresponding figures were 66.7 and 73.6 years.

Many persons have felt that this sex difference in longevity must be due to the strenuous life that men now lead. To me, this isn't a good argument, because if the strain of life has greatly increased for men, why are they living on an average of 20 years longer than they were living 55 years ago? Also, most persons who discuss this problem do not know that the great differences in the mortality of males and females shows up even in infancy. I often read that stomach ulcers occur 3½ times more often in men than in women because of the strenuous life men lead.

But this doesn't impress me because there is a similar difference between the incidence of a disease called congenital pyloric stenosis. In this disease, children are born with such a thickening of the muscle around the outlet of the stomach that they vomit badly and commonly have to be operated on. I could fill a column with descriptions of troubles that are three times more common in boy babies than in girl babies.

Recently, Father Francis C. Madigan, S.J., of the University of North Carolina, attacked the problem in a good way. He studied Catholic brothers and sisters in monasteries and convents where he feels that the strain on the two sexes is about equal. The brothers are not subject to military service, after entering the religious life. Father Madigan studied the longevity of 9,000 brothers and 32,000 sisters living between the periods of 1900 and 1954. He found that even in these quiet communities the women were outliving the men. The evidence indicated that men and women were about equally resistant to infections and contagious diseases and that the greater longevity of the women was due to their greater resistance to the degenerative diseases, such as diseases of the arteries and heart and kidneys.

INFECTIOUS HEPATITIS

Many persons want to know how they got their infectious hepatitis. Some, probably, just caught it from some other person, but others appear to have gotten it from a transfusion. Because of the great danger in transfusions, I myself would not have one if I could possibly get out of it. In spite of every effort that doctors make to choose a donor who hasn't had jaundice, they still keep getting hold of men who carry the virus in their blood.

Another way of getting hepatitis is to be given a "shot" of something with a needle that hasn't been boiled for 30 minutes. In the old days, we doctors thought it was safe enough to throw a needle into a strong alcohol and leave it there, but today we know that the virus of hepatitis is hard to kill, and hence every hypodermic needle or lancet for taking a sample of blood must be thoroughly sterilized, either by dry heat or by long boiling.

SMALL CYST AT END OF SPINE

Many people want to know what a small cyst is at the end of the spine of their newborn baby. It may be what is called a spina bifida, which is due to a failure of the two halves of the spine to come together and unite properly. In bad cases, little can be done. Sometimes in these cases there are defects in the nervous system of the legs, or there may be club feet. Expert neurologists and surgeons should be consulted.

In other cases, the little swelling is what is called a pilonidal cyst. Again, the treatment is surgical. Unfortunately, it often is difficult to get the whole thing out so it will not come back again.

A HAIRY MOLE ON THE FACE

I have never been able to understand why good-looking women will keep an ugly mole, and perhaps a hairy mole, on their face when in three minutes any good skin specialist could remove it without causing any pain. He would first inject some procaine under it, and then, with a needle attached to an electrical apparatus he would desiccate or burn away the mole with very hot sparks. In a week or so the scar would fall off and after some months the scar would be almost invisible.

NUMBNESS IN HANDS AND ARMS

Older people sometimes, and especially when they wake in the morning, complain of numbness in a hand and arm. If this goes away in a few minutes, it does not mean much. Probably the person was lying on an arm or he had his arms in an uncomfortable position above his head. If numbness and clumsiness should stay in one hand and arm for several days, I would suspect that in the night there had been a little stroke; a little artery in the brain plugged up.

Bombers Beat Air Defences Says Canadian

OTTAWA (CP)—Wing Cmdr.

J. I. Jackson, DFC, of the RCAF Staff College, says there is no longer any effective air defence against modern bombers.

"We can say with certainty that intercontinental bomber forces could not be stopped from destroying utterly any nation they attack," the Staff College professor writes in the college's 1957 Annual Journal.

Journal articles do not necessarily reflect official air force views and Prof. Jackson's article certainly does not.

The official RCAF view is that the North American air defence system could so blunt any Russian transpolar bomber attack that the Soviet blow would not be decisive in a global war.

Prof. Jackson, who has written previously on military affairs, says it would require only 50 or so bombers carrying hydrogen bombs to destroy the civilized order of a major power such as Russia or the United States.

"The air defence weapons can at best interfere and harry; they no longer defend to any effect."

The real air defence is the thermuclear retaliatory or counter force, supported by the radar warning system that will allow it to take off before it can be destroyed on the ground.

NATO Urged For Joint Air Defence

NEW YORK (CP)—Alastair Buchanan, son of the late Lord Tweedsmuir, says that the joint Canadian-United States continental air defence command should be incorporated under NATO.

In an article in the magazine Reporter, which is published in New York but nationally circulated, Buchanan adds that there is a growing body of opinion, fostered principally by Canada, that "nothing would do more to improve public relations on both sides of the Atlantic" than such a conversion.

Under the present setup, the whole of continental North America is outside the NATO command system, although there are close working links between the two.

Buchanan is diplomatic correspondent for the London Observer. His father was governor-general of Canada from 1935 to 1940.

Buchanan suggests that a NATO commander be named for Europe, North America and the Atlantic and that European officers serve on the North American staff.

"Properly presented, the inclusion of North America in the actual framework of NATO planning and co-ordination could do a great deal, not only to produce a better sense of proportion, but to destroy a dangerous myth that still lingers in Europe, to the effect that the inviolate Americans are prepared to fight to the last German or Dane."

Martin Charges Tory Mistakes

SASKATOON (CP)—Former health minister Paul Martin said Wednesday the Progressive Conservative government now is making mistakes "just as mistakes were made in 1932" and these are aggravating the country's economic problems.

Addressing a public meeting here, Mr. Martin said Canada now faces "certain disquieting" economic situations, particularly unemployment, which he said will be higher this season than it has been since 1934 if present trends continue.

"I'm not saying the Progressive Conservative government is responsible for the economic distress that now is making its head apparent," Mr. Martin said.

However, he added that he hoped Canada is not beginning to see "a repetition of the kind of experience" that resulted in 1932 under the Conservative government of the day.

BOOK OF PROMISES

Mr. Martin, beginning a western speaking tour, said it is in Canada's interests that the new Conservative government be given an opportunity to fulfill election promises.

He said those promises are listed in a Liberal party "red book."

"Mr. Diefenbaker has so far fulfilled six pages of promises but there are 280 pages that still have to be met," Mr. Martin said. "And we're going to hold him to them."

Referring to hospital insurance, Mr. Martin said the Diefenbaker government has done nothing about implementing the act which he, Mr. Martin, introduced in the last parliament.

"If we had been returned to office," Mr. Martin said, "we would have concluded hospitalization agreements with British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Ontario."

United Europe Dream Given Boost By Pacts

PARIS (AP)—The ancient dream of a United States of Europe moved nearer reality Wednesday.

The Dutch Parliament approved the common market and Euratom treaties, completing the long process of ratification by six countries.

This means that the six countries, embracing 160,000,000 persons, will start moving down the road to full economic union—and possibly eventual political federation—probably on New Year's Day.

The two treaties will sweep aside all tariff and quota barriers within the six countries and place the development of nuclear power for industry under a joint European atomic energy commission.

The members, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, foreshadowed Wednesday's historic step seven years ago. They agreed then to pool their coal and steel production in a limited common market.

Toronto Eases Off Under Light Trading

The Toronto stock market, in general, was a shade easier today in light trading. Western oils had more than two losses for each gain. Senior stocks moved off fractionally while lower-priced oil were down in a 10-cent range with only the odd lightly-traded stock off more.

The New York market backed down from its best levels and turned mixed in late trading today. Shipbuilding shares were the best performers, scoring gains running to three points.

AT TORONTO senior base metals had an equal number of gains and losses but the declines moved in a wider range. Most losses were confined to 1/2 point. Uranium were firm as buying appeared in this section after steadily declining prices ruled in the three previous sessions. Coppers were weaker.

AT MONTREAL prices were mixed in light trading today on the stock exchange.

AT LONDON the stock market had a satisfactory under-tone today although business remained small. Gilt-edged securities improved on small investment buying.

In foreigners, the demand for German bonds found the market short of stock. Japanese issues made further progress. Dollar stocks improved on the overnight recovery on Wall Street.

Industrials were irregular with price movements small. Shipping shares were dull. Coppers ruled quietly firm. Oils opened dull but rallied later to finish higher on balance.

AT VANCOUVER there was an active market in the low price field with little change in prices. Valley Explorations moved 100,000 at 3. Trojan sold 11,500 at 25. Silver Standard sold 3,000 at 12. Vantor sold 2,700 at $13.30.

GRAIN MOVEMENTS
WINNIPEG (CP) — Grain movement Dec. 4 (1956 bracketed) at western country elevators.
Deliveries: wheat (CNR) 922,000 bushels (1,536,000); coarse grains 483,000 (848,000); boxcars, loaded: wheat 1,028 (697); coarse grains 397 (427).

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, futures prices were mixed in and prices again scored new mostly light sellings on the seasonal highs. Other grains board of trade today.

Old crop wheat held about steady but the deferred months declined on mostly favorable weather over the southwest winter wheat belt and continued prospects for a big crop in 1958. December rye was in demand most of the session while the deferred contracts were under selling pressure. Oats were steady. Soybeans eased, reflecting weakness in vegetable oils.

What Better Yule Gift?

By MONTE ROBERTS

Just about the best doggone collection of doggies ever seen at the SPCA is in residence in the Small Animal Shelter, 111 Wilson, today.

Some of them are strays, waiting for their owners to claim them; but there are many who are ready for new homes.

And as far as this reporter is concerned, there isn't one I would not be proud to own.

Nor is there a snapper or a snarler in the lot.

Take the nine offspring of Lady, for instance. (I'd like to take them all, and if you wonder why, see a few of them in the photo above.)

They're too young to leave mother as yet, but by Christmas time—Lady would just as soon have them somewhere else. Lady herself is at the shelter because her owner hasn't the time to give her the care she needs. When the pups leave, she'll go back home.

And if you have in mind to put your name on a waiting list for one of the young fellers, be prepared to convince the SPCA you want a dog for the rest of his natural life, not a Christmas toy to be discarded when you throw out the tree.

Among the more distinguished doggies residing at the Small Animal Shelter are three Bedlington terriers—each registered and equipped with papers. They were donated to the SPCA by a Salt Spring Island kennel owner.

If you know the breed, you'll know they look more like lambs than dogs, have dainty feet, button eyes, and perfect manners. One of them can be yours if you're the type person who deserves a fine dog.

There's also a cocker spaniel with furrowed brow and coat of tan; a pair of real, honest-to-goodness springers; a 14-week-old cocker puppy; a two-month-old cross-spaniel...

And I almost forgot, a big, fat, white tame rabbit.

I could go on, and I could take 'em all home.

But I imagine Judy Boots Streak and Little Miss Muffet might be jealous.

It's just a question of time and teeth before SPCA pups can really appreciate king-size bone.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1957 17

... HERE
With NORMAN CRIBBENS

A Vancouver Province columnist calling himself the Early Bird reports that Billy Tickle's Trio has "vanished" from the tea and crumpet scene at the Empress.

Where have you been, Early Bird? Fly over to Victoria any afternoon of the week—and you'll find the Tickle Trio on the job as usual.

Their select background music for crumpet-munching

Anticipating a strenuous session in the B.C. legislature next January, Deputy Speaker Alex Matthew of Vancouver is off to California for a few weeks in the sun.

He stopped off in Victoria Wednesday for talks with members of the government on legislative matters and called on Publicity Commissioner George Warren for a chat on tourist prospects.

Laurence C. Webb of 288 Cadillac Avenue, is all in favor of a suggestion from Victoria Chamber of Commerce that the B.C. government erect shelters to encourage hikers on Vancouver Island.

I wonder what the B.C. government had in mind when it advertised for a "tacitful" librarian?

The answer may be that the successful candidate will be required to handle books and borrowers in the mighty Peace River block and "along the Alaska Highway."

He will receive $375 rising to $440 a month.

How do you go about becoming a magician?

Frank Merryfield, who has been playing conjuring tricks on Victorians for 45 years past, says it is a combination of patience, practice and know-how.

At 78, his sleight-of-hand is as deceiving as ever and he is

has been heard in the Empress lounge for 30 years past and, in the words of the maestro himself: "You'll probably be hearing it for another 30."

And there's another thing, Early Bird. In the afternoon, when classical music is played, you speak of the William Tickle Trio. It is only on the Saturday swing nights that we allow vulgarities like Billy Tickle and his Toe Ticklers.

DAME FLORA

CLANS TO GATHER

MacLeod Chief Here on Dec. 23

The Clan MacLeod Society of Vancouver Island has arranged a busy 12-day program for the visit here of Dame Flora MacLeod of MacLeod, chief of the clan.

She will arrive here Dec. 23, her first visit since 1955. Dame Flora, now 79, became chief of the clan in 1935, and in 1947 started globe-trotting to visit her clansmen and invite them home for a visit to the Isle of Skye and Dunvegan Castle.

AROUND WORLD

She began her journeying at Cape Breton, has visited the United States, Hawaii, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand. In 1955 she made her first trip across Canada, culminating in a visit here.

CHEST DRIVE STILL SHORT BY $39,409

At noon today, officially the last day of the Community Chest "clean-up" week in the drive for $251,717, there was still $39,409 needed to reach the objective.

Contributions from Greater Victoria business, industry and individuals have reached $212,308.10.

"While this is the last day of the campaign, we hope to reach the objective from donations not yet received," said a Chest official.

It was urged that persons who had not yet donated, send their contributions "no matter how small" to the Community Chest, Spencerhouse, 1951 Cook.

Higher Cheques For Needy Aged Due Next Month

B.C. Ratification Likely on Friday

The provincial cabinet is expected to ratify an agreement with the federal government Friday to share the cost of $9 monthly increases for 10,000 B.C. pensioners.

Delay in drawing up the agreement meant that pensioners in the 65-70 old age assistance group, disabled persons and blind welfare recipients did not receive the increase on their last pension cheques.

The increase, approved by Parliament last month, was included on the old age security cheques sent out to all persons over 70 in November.

WILL DATE BACK

It is assumed the increase for the other pensioners will be retroactive to Nov. 1 and will be on the next cheques.

Reason for the delay is that the cost of old-age assistance and other special pensions is shared 50-50 by the federal and provincial governments. Old age security is paid for entirely by Ottawa.

When the increase was announced by the new Conservative government, Premier Bennett said B.C. would "of course" pay its share.

Provincial government officials say the delay has been caused by the fact that royal assent was not given to the Federal Act proclaiming the increase until Nov. 24.

Re-Election Of Scurrah Now Assured

The re-election of Mayor Percy Scurrah for a second term, by acclamation, was assured early this afternoon.

Although nominations were not slated to close until 2 p.m. there was no indication of any candidate appearing to change the picture.

Election of a mayor by acclamation occurred last in 1947 when Percy George won that honor. Prior to that year, mayors were elected annually instead of for a two-year term as happens now.

THREE-TIME WINNER

Mayor George was elected by acclamation three times, in 1945, 1946 and 1947. Andrew McGavin who served between 1937 and 1943, also won two acclamations. David Leeming (1931 to 1935) was elected twice by acclamation and Herbert Anscomb (1928-1930) was elected by acclamation in 1929.

Mayor Scurrah's election would be the 10th by acclamation in 30 years.

All other elective offices will require casting of ballots to decide them.

Running for four two-year terms as aldermen are Ald. M. H. Mooney, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, Ald. G. I. Edgell, Ald. J. Donald Smith, Mrs. Sally Rogers and Capt. D. J. Proudfoot.

Seeking election to two two-year terms on school board are trustee Kenneth Leeming, trustee A. H. Wilson and William H. Williams.

No Rents Found Raised Because Of Pension Boost

None of the 200 members of Old Age Pensioners Group No. 5 meeting here Wednesday apparently have had their rents raised following the $9 federal increase in pensions.

The president, R. H. French at the monthly meeting in the Knights of Pythias Hall asked pensioners whose rents were raised to stand up. There was no response.

Recent reports in Victoria indicated that some pensioners could expect to pay another $9 in rent because of the federal increase.

Car Insurance Rates to Jump

Possible 10 Per Cent Boost for B.C. in 1958

A substantial increase in car insurance rates in B.C.—possibly 10 per cent—is expected in the New Year with a general increase all across Canada.

But rates in Victoria will still be lower than anywhere else in the province—about half those in Prince George.

"I don't think the new rates will affect this ratio," the spokesman for a Victoria insurance firm said. "Rates have always been highest in the Cariboo because of the road hazards involved."

Reeve Scores Jaycee Drive For Merger

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele today criticized a Junior Chamber of Commerce decision to launch petitions in Esquimalt and Oak Bay calling for council agreement to a referendum on investigation of amalgamation.

"I think the Jaycees are ill-advised in making this decision," he said. However, he added that "it's up to them what they do."

The Jaycees voted Wednesday to circulate petitions in the two municipalities because their councils have turned down requests for the referendum. Victoria city has agreed to the referendum for Dec. 12. Saanich council supports a royal commission investigation without a referendum.

AFFIRMATIVE FORECAST

Meanwhile, a four-to-one yes vote was forecast by city hall officials on the referendum. The "guesstimate" is based on results of a similar question last year.

Voters were asked if they favored investigation of a joint municipal hall by Saanich and Victoria and pooling selected municipal services. The answer was: yes, 4,879; no, 1,205.

This year they will be asked if they favor a royal commission investigation of complete or partial amalgamation with the study's cost to be shared by the provincial government and the municipalities.

Eric Charman, head of the Jaycee amalgamation committee, said a policy meeting will be held Friday to determine whether the petition should specify a referendum on a royal commission investigation to save asking the question twice.

Labor Minister Declines to Try Strike Mediation

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks gave a polite "no" to demands by a Victoria labor delegation Wednesday that the government try to bring the two sides of the pulp dispute together.

Jim Moffat, president of the Vancouver Island Trades Council, said today the minister intimated he would not act until both sides requested it directly.

Mr. Moffat said he was not satisfied with the answer "because there are a lot of people affected now."

About 3,000 men on Vancouver Island are not working because of the strike, which began its fourth week today. The figure includes about 1,650 strikers, 350 loggers and 1,000 construction workers.

Other items, passed at the federation's convention about a month ago, are demands that the provincial government put public works program to end winter unemployment, establishment of a university in Victoria, and changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act to cut down the number of applicants that are refused.

Auto insurance rates rose last January and again in August after small but steady decreases since the 1953 peak. The decreases occurred as companies tried to ease rate wars.

Toronto companies say they expect rates will now return to the 1953 level.

A Toronto insurance company official said the general increase would probably be between 5 and 6 per cent.

PEAK IN 1953

Auto insurance rates rose last January and again in August after small but steady decreases since the 1953 peak. The decreases occurred as companies tried to ease rate wars.

Toronto companies say they expect rates will now return to the 1953 level.

Eric Charman, head of the Jaycee amalgamation committee, said a policy meeting will be held Friday to determine whether the petition should specify a referendum on a royal commission investigation to save asking the question twice.

Reeve Wurtele said the Jaycees' action was wrong on four counts; no report has been made yet by a special municipal committee on the Chamber of Commerce study of amalgamation; with no indication of the costs of a royal commission, ratepayers would be asked to give a "blank cheque"; there is not enough time to give the referendum sufficient study before Dec. 12; and the Jaycees haven't consulted the senior chamber.

But this year, it has been slimmed down to rapier-like proportions for quick thrusts at a few vital spots.

One of the executive members put it this way:

"We've been sending big briefs to the government for years and they haven't done anything. It was like beating your head against the wall. This year we're concentrating on a few things with the hope that our points will get across."

Among the points the federation hopes to score are establishment of a comprehensive public works program to end winter unemployment, establishment of a university in Victoria, and changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act to cut down the number of applicants that are refused.

Other items, passed at the federation's convention about a month ago, are demands that the provincial government put

Civil Service Asks Another Bargaining Talk

Would Speed Up Negotiations

The B.C. Government Employees' Association has written directly to Attorney-General Bonner asking for another meeting on a collective bargaining agreement for civil servants.

Ed O'Connor, association general secretary, said today he is "dissatisfied" with the exchange of correspondence with the attorney-general's department and would like a speedup of direct negotiations.

It had been expected that a meeting would be held this week.

At the request of the association, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan wrote to the attorney-general last month asking him to arrange a meeting.

It appears now the dispute may have to be aired at a public hearing of the board of reference set up by the government under Chief Justice Sloan last July.

The negotiations have been carried on privately during the past few months.

The association is insisting that the government make provision for an independent board to settle wage disputes.

Labor Sharpening Brief to Cabinet

B.C. Federation of Labor will try out a new weapon in its annual skirmish Friday with the provincial cabinet.

Sixteen executive members met today in a closed session at the Empress Hotel polishing up their annual brief before presenting it to the cabinet.

Usually, the annual brief is a thick volume of complaints and requests that is wielded like a broad sword without putting any dents in the cabinet's thick hide.

But this year, it has been slimmed down to rapier-like proportions for quick thrusts at a few vital spots.

One of the executive members put it this way:

"We've been sending big briefs to the government for years and they haven't done anything. It was like beating your head against the wall. This year we're concentrating on a few things with the hope that our points will get across."

New, Adorable Gift Items In Children's Shop Today

By PENNY SAVER

Nearly everyone has a child on their Christmas gift list. That's why I've been browsing in a children's shop today. Right away, a snugly elderdown and pillow set of orlon caught my eye. This material has a non-allergic chemical incorporated in the fibre, so that babies who may be sensitive to synthetic fabrics will come to no harm. The set is washable too, at $9.95.

Mother is certainly spared a lot of time and work with all the modern-day infants' clothes of nylon and orlon. Why, washing looks to be a cinch!

Take the diaper set I found. It consists of a pair of panties fully lined in plastic and a top for tucking in or leaving out when baby plays. These sets are masculine-styled for a little boy and frilly styled for baby Suzy! They come in colors to please everyone and at $3.95 a set.

Rayon or nylon nighties in pinks and blues are $1.49 (rayon) and $2.95 (nylon).

I don't think that mothers realize the variety of pretty clothes there are for the little girl in the 'teen-age group. Why, I was startled to find racks and racks of the sweetest frocks for this junior, junior miss.

For the nine-year-old girl on your list the latest is a taffeta combination blouse 'n' skirt. Skirts are in navy blue taffeta and there's a dainty petit point pattern on the blouse. Built-in crinoline under the wide skirt.

The important thing about exercise is to do it regularly. Do not do the exercises for a few days and then miss for the next few days. Results are gratifying.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

What Do You Really Know About Exercise?

People have so many misconceptions concerning exercise and ask so many questions about it that I am going to answer some of the most usual ones in the column today. I feel sure that many readers would like to know the answers to many of these queries.

1. How are figure molding exercises different from others?

In a way all exercises are figure molding in that all of them affect the figure. However, there are some exercises which are especially effective in distributing our weight nearer to our heart's desire.

It is entirely possible to lose inches in the waist and hips and over the abdomen without losing pounds. You also can build up the chest and calf muscles so that you increase the bust measurement and the size of the calves of the legs.

So, when I say, "figure molding" exercises, I mean those which I have found to be most effective in correcting figure defects.

2. I have heard that one must do exercises for at least an hour a day in order to make a difference in one's silhouette. This is not true. You will see a big difference if you do your exercises for 20 to 30 minutes daily. The important thing is to be regular—do not do the exercises for a few days and then miss for the next few days.

Naturally you will get results more quickly if you can do them for 30 minutes morning and night. Also, it takes longer to increase a measurement than to reduce it. In the former situation you actually are building muscle.

3. I have heard that a woman should not start exercises after the age of 40. Is this true?

You can begin regular exercises at any age unless there is some abnormality or systemic trouble which makes it unwise. Of course your exercises should suit your physical capacity. The older you are the more slowly you will have to begin, and the less strenuous the exercises should be. It is also even more important that you have a physical examination before starting exercise. However, you always should have your blood pressure and heart checked at any age, and get your doctor's permission, before beginning.

4. You say a woman can increase her bust, but my doctor says it is impossible to do.

I did not say that you can increase your bust measurement. But this I mean that you can increase the size of the chest muscles which lie underneath the bust, and therefore make that measurement larger and your bust more prominent. It is like wearing natural falsies under your hair, instead of artificial ones on top of it.

If you would like to have my bust development routine, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

5. I never did because I was too conceited," she said. "But I've heard of some who came to America—not to do well here—but to be better received when they returned home."

Miss Baddeley is separated more than 25 years in the theatre was here to make her Canadian debut in a stage presentation.

"Oh, I haven't had any really. It's my husband who has the adventures in the family."

Her first home in Africa was a mud hut on banda on government-operated Mlani camp.

"With the shortage of housing, married people got homes first," said Mrs. McGuire, a native of Kent. "I had two boys to look after the hut but it was very primitive."

Her class in school was almost a little league of nations with 30 pupils. "There were Asians, Indians, Africans and Europeans and they all spoke a different language," she says. "I had to teach mostly in Kiswahili, the East African dialect. There were government classes to teach us the language and it's easy to learn."

After a week in Africa, she met her future husband, Victor McGuire, Vancouver-born flyer, was doing aerial photography and she went along when he photographed the volcanic cone of Mount Kilimanjaro, 19,321 feet high.

After nearly three years in Africa she became engaged to the airman and left to be married at his home.

"What stays in my mind after spending 2½ years in Africa is the number of beggars," Mrs. McGuire says. "There was a camp five miles out where they are fed but they still hobble or crawl into town where they can make money begging."

From the humid 120-degree temperatures of an African November, the English traveller arrived in Quebec during the chill Canadian season and "thought I'd just freeze to death." Before her travels led to Edmonton, the McGuire lived at Prince Rupert, B.C., and spent three years at Watson Lake, where temperatures drop as low as 68 below zero.

Asked about her adventures, she said:

"Oh, I haven't had any really. It's my husband who has the adventures in the family."

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

WHERE TO PLACE NAPKIN I have always understood that the proper place for the table napkin is on the plate if the first course is not already there when the guests come to the table. Just recently when I was in the china department of a well-known exclusive store, there was displayed a beautifully set table with the napkins beside the plate. When I questioned the saleswoman about it, she said that the napkin is never placed on the plate. Will you tell me what is correct?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

I am afraid that the saleswoman is misinformed. The napkin does go on the place plate at a formal dinner unless the first course, such as soup or shrimp, is already on the plate as the guests come to the table, in which case, the napkin would naturally have to be placed at the left of the fork. But with informal dinners, a hostess will often close her eyes to such a rule and take conservative liberties by placing the napkin at the left even if the place plate is empty when the guests arrive. The napkin should be folded in a square, and when placed on the plate, it should have one of its points nearest the edge of the table.

AFL-CIO War
On Corruption Stands -- Meany

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—AFL-CIO president George Meany told the opening session of the federation's convention today there will be no deals in the federation's drive to eliminate labor corruption.

Meany flatly denied reports the AFL-CIO high command is in any way willing to water down its cleanup demands on the teamsters and other AFL-CIO unions accused of corrupt leadership.

There had been some speculation Meany was willing to let James Hoffa remain in a subordinate position in the Teamsters Union and escape an AFL-CIO convention expulsion move, if only Hoffa would quit as teamsters' president-elect. In the past, Meany had said Hoffa's ouster from any sort of post in the teamsters was the prime requisite to the trucking union's staying in the federation. The teamsters, already under AFL-CIO suspension, have one-tenth of the AFL-CIO's 15,000,000 members. The United Textile Workers Union was suspended Wednesday night.

Second Close Call For Expedition Leader

LONDON (Reuters)—A snow tractor carrying Vivian Fuchs, leader of the Commonwealth trans-Antarctic expedition, slipped into a crevasse Wednesday, a message received at the London expedition headquarters said today.

It was the second time that Fuchs' vehicle had been in trouble. Last week it was damaged when it hung perilously for five hours over the lip of a 60-foot crevasse.

It was recovered safely again Wednesday with minor damage. The message said the nine members of the expedition covered 65 miles Wednesday.

LONDON (Reuters)—The crippled British survey ship Shackleton—holed by ice in Antarctica—has been safely reached port safely after struggling 600 miles to the South Atlantic island of South Georgia, the admiralty reported today.

Mayor Re-Elected
For Second Term

Mayor Percy Scurrell was re-elected to a second term in office today by acclamation.

Nominations closed at City Hall at 2 without any last-minute entries in the civic election race.

There are six candidates for four two-year terms on city council and three candidates for two two-year seats representing the city on Greater Victoria School Board.

Mayor Scurrell's election was the first mayoralty to be decided without a contest since 1947. It was the 10th acclamation for a Victoria mayor in 30 years.

Notified of his success, Mayor Scurrell thanked the residents of Victoria for their "kind gesture of confidence." He promised, "I will continue to work my best for the welfare of this city."

LISTS PROJECTS

He said the first project to claim his attention in the new year will be the erection of the new main fire hall. Second, he said, would be "final disposal of the garbage question." He said he favors adoption of the recent public works plan for improved sea burial, with a new garbage wharf, incinerator and machinery for compacting all refuse into nuggets to ensure it will sink.

"The Woodward Stores deal for purchase of City Hall is still in the air, but if that goes

"What we have accomplished so far has only been possible due to the teamwork of the present council. Its members have been hard-working, sincere, and co-operative; with the exception of one member," the mayor stated.

He did not indicate whether he referred to Ald. J. Donald Smith who has opposed him in council on many occasions in the last two years.

Joint Effort With British Scientists

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian naval scientists next year will begin studies of nuclear propulsion for Canadian warships, Defence Minister Pearkes announced today in the Commons.

He said the studies will be undertaken in conjunction with the Royal Navy. A Canadian team of scientists and naval officers will go to Britain next year.

Mr. Pearkes also said the defence department has ordered two new destroyer escorts, bringing this program to 16 ships. Seven already have been commissioned.

He said there will be no change in the 1957-58 defence department estimates of $1,722,000,000, prepared by the former Liberal government.

The minister also announced: 1. Auxiliary RCAF fighter squadrons gradually will be converted to transport units. The light bomber squadrons at Saskatoon and Edmonton will be converted to this new role early next year.

2. Army militia units will be grouped together into some 45 or 50 mobile columns for civil defence duties.

3. The headquarters of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division will be disbanded. The army's three infantry brigades in Canada will be able to operate independently as brigade groups.

4. Four Bay class minesweepers will be supplied free to Turkey as well as the 10 Bangor class escort vessels now being transferred to that NATO partner.

5. One battalion of each of the three brigade groups in Canada will have a parachute element and be air portable.

6. There will be some reduction in strength of the 5,500-man naval reserve.

7. Aim of the RCAF auxiliary squadrons will be to contribute to the relief of civil emergency requirements in peace or war.

$34 Million in Pay Hikes

Mr. Pearkes said pay increases for the forces and defence department civilian employees will amount to $34,000,000 this year. The Mid-Canada Warning Line had cost $7,000,000 more than expected—$207,000,000.

Savings had been made to allow for these increases. The bureau of current affairs, which publishes pamphlets for the forces, would be disbanded.

Advertising expenditures for recruiting had been cut by one-third and curtailment of travelling expenses had been ordered.

A number of "lower-priority" items in the construction field had been deferred. Mr. Pearkes added:

"It now is clear that these various savings will adequately take care of the additions caused by the salary increases. It is hoped that continued efforts will accomplish further savings before the close of the fiscal year." The year ends next March 31.

Mr. Pearkes warned, however, that defence expenditures in future may go up. He said:

"The fact remains that, if we are to continue to play our part in the defence alliance, we must see to it that our forces are equipped with modern weapons. These weapons, on account of their increasing complexity, are becoming more and more costly."

B.C. Shipyards, which have long sought additional naval contracts, believe the allocation of the two new DDE's has not yet been set.

Harold Husband, president of the Canadian Ship Building and Ship Repairing Association, said he did not believe decision had been reached on which yards would be awarded the contracts.

U.K. Train Wreck
Death Toll 89

LONDON (AP)—Rescue teams tonight completed the removal of bodies from the wreckage of a giant two-train pileup and fixed the immediate death toll at 89.

Another 174 persons were injured, 107 severely, in the crash Wednesday night of two trains packed with commuters and Christmas shoppers, police said.

As fog and darkness closed in again around the scene of devastation, salvage crews broke through the piling of a shattered coach and found no sign of dead believed previously to be there.

It had been smashed in the impact of the collision and then crushed again by the mighty girders of a damaged viaduct which fell atop the wreckage.

Tarpaulin screens were erected along roadways overlooking the scene in southeast London to hide the wreckage from passing motorists and the curious.

The wreck just missed being worse, for a third train almost was involved.

An 11-coach steam train drove into the rear of a 10-coach electric train halted near St. John's station. The impact shot cars into the air and brought down part of an overhead viaduct which carried another electric rail line.

An eight-coach electric train above was left with the front wheels of its engine hanging over the edge. Salvage teams early this morning finally removed the train above.

The disaster came just eight days after the British national railways announced that 1,500,000 passengers were carried in the last year with no deaths and only three injuries in 1,226 rail accidents.

Queen Elizabeth issued a message of sympathy and bereavement to relatives of the dead through Transport Minister Harold Watkinson.

POLICY RE-EXAMINATION HOPE OF LIBERAL PARTY

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal party hopes its leadership convention next month will produce—besides a new leader—"a pretty vital re-examination of Liberal policy."

Easing of Rules For NHA Loans Widely Approved

Contractors here today were quick to praise new government regulations which would make loans available for home building for persons in lower income groups.

Victor L. Leigh, Canadian Construction Association housing chairman, said the association had been fighting to bring about reduced loan requirements for two years.

"It is bringing back the original intention of the National Housing Act which has been lost," he said. Mr. Leigh added that the act had been originally drafted to help persons who could not otherwise afford to own a home.

"If you have $1,000 and need a home, get it started now when contractors are available," he advised.

President of the Victoria Builders' Exchange, Gilbert Brown, said the move would better the industry.

H. J. Bowring, city builder, said the move would be of great assistance to lower income persons "providing the mortgages are amortized over a longer period of time. It fills a great need."

Mr. Bowring said the announcement from Ottawa would mean a great boost to the contracting business.

"We have been building mostly the more expensive houses in the past, for people who could afford them. But

Housing Loan Boon to Lower Income Group

VANCOUVER (CP)—Thomas B. Pickersill, regional supervisor of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said today the effect of the federal government's new housing loan bill "would certainly be good for the lower income group now waiting to start houses."

"Works Minister Green has not only reduced the loan equity, but raised the debt service, which is just what the lower income bracket needs."

James Don, president of the Vancouver Metropolitan Housebuilders Association, said the builders welcome the move. "It will help relieve unemployment eventually," he said, "but not at the present. These things take time."

DOGS SEEKING NEW HOMES

What Better Yule Gift?

By MONTE ROBERTS

Just about the best doggone collection of doggies ever seen at the SPCA is in residence in the Small Animal Shelter, 111 Wilson, today. Some of them are strays, waiting for their owners to claim them; but there are many who are ready for new homes.

And as far as this reporter is concerned, there isn't one I would not be proud to own. Nor is there a snapper or a snarler in the lot.

Take the nine offspring of Lady, for instance. I'd like to take them all, and if you wonder why, see a few of them in the photo above.

They're too young to leave mother as yet, but by Christmas time—Lady would just as soon have them somewhere else. Lady herself is at the shelter because her owner hasn't the time to give her the care she needs. When the pups leave, she'll go back home.

And if you have in mind to put your name on a waiting list for one of the young fella's, be prepared to convince the SPCA you want a dog for the rest of his natural life, not a Christmas toy to be discarded when you throw out the tree.

Among the more distinguished dogs residing at the Small Animal Shelter are three Bedlington terriers—each registered and equipped with papers. They were donated to the SPCA by a Salt Spring Island kennel owner.

If you know the breed, you'll know they look more like lambs than dogs, have dainty feet, button eyes, and perfect manners. One of them can be yours if you're the type person who deserves a fine dog.

There's also a cocker spaniel with furrowed brow and coat of tan; a pair of real, honest-to-goodness springers; a 14-week-old cocker puppy, a two-month-old cross-spaniel.

And I almost forgot, a big, fat, white tame rabbit.

I could go on, and I could take 'em all home.

But I imagine Judy Boots Streak and Little Miss Muffet might be jealous.

It's just a question of time and teeth before SPCA pups can really appreciate king-size bone.

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

A Vancouver Province columnist calling himself the Early Bird reports that Billy Tickle's Trio has "vanished" from the tea and crumpet scene at the Empress.

Where have you been, Early Bird? Fly over to Victoria any afternoon of the week and you'll find the Tickle Trio on the job as usual.

Their select background music for crumpet-munching

has been heard in the Empress lounge for 30 years past and in the words of the maestro himself: "You'll probably be hearing it for another 30."

And there's another thing, Early Bird. In the afternoons, when classical music is played, you speak of the William Tickle Trio. It is only on the Saturday swing nights that we allow vulgarities like Billy Tickle and his Toe Ticklers.

Anticipating a strenuous session in the B.C. legislature next January, Deputy Speaker Alex Matthews of Vancouver is off to California for a few weeks in the sun.

He stopped off in Victoria Wednesday for talks with members of the government on legislative matters and called on Publicity Commissioner George Warren for a chat on tourist prospects.

Laurence C. Webb of 288 Cadillac Avenue, is all in favor of a suggestion from Victoria Chamber of Commerce that the B.C. government erect shelters to encourage hikers on Vancouver Island.

"Hiking and more hiking is needed in this automobile age," writes Mr. Webb. "A good stretching of the legs, with time to absorb the beauties of nature, would go a long way towards keeping young—and not so young—people out of trouble."

I wonder what the B.C. government had in mind when it advertised for a "tactful" librarian?

The answer may be that the successful candidate will be required to handle books and borrowers in the mighty Peace River block and "along the Alaska Highway."

He will receive $375 rising to $440 a month.

How do you go about becoming a magician?

Frank Merryfield, who has been playing conjuring tricks on Victorians for 45 years past, says it is a combination of patience, practice and know-how.

At 78, his sleight-of-hand is as deceiving as ever and he is in regular demand at parties for young and old.

Frank came to Victoria in 1880 and served 22 years with the city fire brigade besides earning his living as a baker.

His parents came from Cornwall—hence his professional title, "The Cornish Wizard."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A. W. Toone, secretary of the Victoria Labor Council, will attend an annual B.C. staff seminar sponsored by the Canadian Labor Congress Jan. 13-17. The seminar will be held in Manning Park, about 136 miles east of Vancouver.

Bruce Campbell Plaxton, 20, 1315 Richardson, was fined $15 in city police court today for being a minor in possession of beer.

George F. Wilson of the naval auxiliary vessel St. Anthony, HMC Dockyard, was fined $100 and told he would go to "jail" without option next time, when he was sentenced in city police court today for driving while under suspension.

United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Local 1598, will hold a special meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Canadian Legion Hall, Britannia Branch.

Sixteen-year-old Kathy Fogden, 2603 Prior, complained to police Wednesday she was walking with a friend in the 700 block Yates when an unidentified youth came up and slapped her face for no apparent reason.

Kathy and Olive May Knight, 16, 4433 Prospect Lake, said the young man was about 20 with brown hair and wore a navy blue suit coat and red wool vest. Police made an investigation of the assault but were not able to locate the suspect in late afternoon.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group will hold a Christmas party at the Old England Inn Dec. 19. It will be a reunion for chamber members who took part in the goodwill tour through Washington, Oregon and California last winter.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island have withheld their support from a resolution calling for government action to bring about an "immediate settlement" of the pulp and paper strike. "The ACCVI decided the resolution was too controversial at the present time," Arnold Webb, secretary, said today.

Vic Van Isle Kinsmen will hold a ladies' night and business session at the Glenahol Hotel tonight at 7. Ald. Geoff Edgewood will be a guest of the group.

Naval seaman Dale F. Baker, charged in city police court with taking an auto without the owner's consent, was fined $75 Wednesday.

He was stopped en route up Island, police said. Baker was asked where he was going and told Magistrate H. C. Hall, "I don't know."

Heart Victim Dies After Attack in Car

Heart victim Harold Percy Fisher, 62, 3550 Saanich, was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday at 10:50 p.m. despite a police ambulance emergency run.

An insurance agent, he had apparently been making collections and suffered an attack in his car on Blanshard near Caledonia.

DAME FLORA

CLANS TO GATHER

MacLeod Chief Here on Dec. 23

The Clan MacLeod Society of Vancouver Island has arranged a busy 12-day program for the visit here of Dame Flora MacLeod of MacLeod, chief of the clan.

She will arrive here Dec. 23, her first visit since 1955.

Dame Flora, now 79, became chief of the clan in 1935, and in 1947 started globe-trotting to visit her clansmen and invite them home for a visit to the Isle of Skye and Dunvegan Castle.

AROUND WORLD

She began her journeying at Cape Breton, has visited the United States, Hawaii, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand. In 1955 she made her first trip across Canada, culminating in a visit here.

CHEST DRIVE STILL SHORT BY $39,409

At noon today, officially the last day of the Community Chest "clean-up" week in the drive for $251,717, there was still $39,409 needed to reach the objective.

Contributions from Greater Victoria business, industry and individuals have reached $212,308.10.

"While this is the last day of the campaign, we hope to reach the objective from donations not yet received," said a Chest official.

It was urged that persons who had not yet donated, send their contributions "no matter how small" to the Community Chest, Spencerhouse, 1951 Cook.

Higher Cheques For Needy Aged Due Next Month

B.C. Ratification Likely on Friday

The provincial cabinet is expected to ratify an agreement with the federal government Friday to share the cost of $9 monthly increases for 10,000 B.C. pensioners.

Delay in drawing up the agreement meant that pensioners in the 65-70 old age assistance group, disabled persons and blind welfare recipients did not receive the increase on their last pension cheques.

The increase, approved by Parliament last month, was included on the old age security cheques sent out to all persons over 70 in November.

WILL DATE BACK

It is assumed the increase for the other pensioners will be retroactive to Nov. 1 and will be on the next cheques.

Reason for the delay is that the cost of old-age assistance and other special pensions is shared 50-50 by the federal and provincial governments. Old age security is paid for entirely by Ottawa.

When the increase was announced by the new Conservative government, Premier Bennett said "B.C. would of course" pay its share.

Miniature Music Genius Off to U.K.

NEW YORK (CP)—Paul Albert Anka, a chubby little whirlwind from Ottawa, flew to Britain today in hopes of a new musical conquest.

Anka, at 16 a smash hit as a composer-singer, stopped in New York only for a business visit preparatory to a British tour. He recently finished a 91-city tour of the United States and the Canadian West.

"Life is really moving for me," said the five-foot-three singer.

"Life is really moving for me," said the five-foot-three singer.

Anka, black-haired and bouncy, hit the big time in the popular music field last May when he recorded his song, Diana, which now has sold 2,500,000 records. He estimates that by next May he will have earned $100,000 on recordings and personal appearances.

"I'm saving my money and I hope to go back to school, a private school maybe," Anka said. He quit the classroom after grade 10.

A new Anka song, "Destiny," is being released today by ABC-Paramount.

"I wouldn't describe my stuff as rock 'n' roll," he said. "It's medium pop. My songs are about love—it's a pretty popular subject."

No Rents Found Raised Because Of Pension Boost

None of the 200 members of Old Age Pensioners Group No. 3 meeting here Wednesday apparently have had their rents raised following the $9 federal increase in pensions.

The president, R. H. French at the monthly meeting in the Knights of Pythias Hall asked pensioners whose rents were raised to stand up. There was no response.

Recent reports in Victoria indicated that some pensioners could expect to pay another $9 in rent because of the federal increase.

Car Insurance Rates to Jump

Possible 10 Per Cent Boost for B.C. in 1958

A substantial increase in car insurance rates in B.C.—possibly 10 per cent—is expected in the New Year with a general increase all across Canada.

Reeve Scores Jaycee Drive For Merger

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele today criticized a Junior Chamber of Commerce decision to launch petitions in Esquimalt and Oak Bay calling for council agreement to a referendum on investigation of amalgamation.

"I think the Jaycees are ill advised in making this decision," he said. However, he added that "it's up to them what they do."

The Jaycees voted Wednesday to circulate petitions in the two municipalities because their councils have turned down requests for the referendum. Victoria city has agreed to the referendum for Dec. 12. Saanich council supports a royal commission investigation without a referendum.

AFFIRMATIVE FORECAST

Meanwhile, a four-to-one vote was forecast by city hall officials on the referendum. The "guesstimate" is based on results of a similar question last year.

Voters were asked if they favored investigation of a joint municipal hall by Saanich and Victoria and pooling selected municipal services. The answer was: yes, 4,879; no, 1,205.

This year they will be asked if they favor a royal commission investigation of complete or partial amalgamation with the study's cost to be shared by the provincial government and the municipalities.

Eric Charman, head of the Jaycee amalgamation committee, said a policy meeting will be held Friday to determine whether the petition should specify a referendum on a royal commission investigation to save asking the question twice.

Reeve Wurtele said the Jaycees' action was wrong on four counts; no report has been made yet by a special municipal committee on the Chamber of Commerce study of amalgamation; with no indication of the costs of a royal commission, ratepayers would be asked to give a "blank cheque"; there is not enough time to give the referendum sufficient study before Dec. 12; and the Jaycees haven't consulted the senior chamber.

Labor Minister Declines to Try Strike Mediation

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks gave a polite "no" to demands by a Victoria labor delegation Wednesday that the government try to bring the two sides of the pulp dispute together.

Jim Moffat, president of the Vancouver Island Trades Council, said today the minister intended he would not act until both sides requested it directly.

Mr. Moffat said he was not satisfied with the answer "because there are a lot of people affected now."

About 3,000 men on Vancouver Island are not working because of the strike, which began its fourth week today. The figure includes about 1,650 strikers, 350 loggers and 1,000 construction workers.

Civil Service Asks Another Bargaining Talk

Would Speed Up Negotiations

The B.C. Government Employees' Association has written directly to Attorney-General Bonner asking for another meeting on a collective bargaining agreement for civil servants.

Ed O'Connor, association general secretary, said today he is "dissatisfied" with the exchange of correspondence with the attorney-general's department and would like a speedup of direct negotiations.

It had been expected that a meeting would be held this week.

At the request of the association, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan wrote to the attorney-general last month asking him to arrange a meeting.

It appears now the dispute may have to be aired at a public hearing of the board of reference set up by the government under Chief Justice Sloan last July.

The negotiations have been carried on privately during the past few months.

The association is insisting that the government make provision for an independent board to settle wage disputes.

Labor Sharpening Brief to Cabinet

B.C. Federation of Labor will try out a new weapon in its annual skirmish Friday with the provincial cabinet.

Sixteen executive members met today in a closed session at the Empress Hotel polishing up their annual brief before presenting it to the cabinet.

Usually, the annual brief is a thick volume of complaints and requests that is wielded like a broad sword without putting any dents in the cabinet's thick hide.

But this year, it has been slimmed down to rapier-like proportions for quick thrusts at a few vital spots.

One of the executive members put it this way:

"We've been sending big briefs to the government for years and they haven't done anything. It was like beating your head against the wall. This year we're concentrating on a few things with the hope that our points will get across."

Among the points the federation hopes to score are establishment of a comprehensive public works program to end winter unemployment, establishment of a university in Victoria, and changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act to cut down the number of applicants that are refused.

Other items, passed at the federation's convention about a month ago, are demands that the provincial government put

New, Adorable Gift Items In Children's Shop Today

By PENNY SAVER

Nearly everyone has a child on their Christmas gift list. That's why I've been browsing in a children's shop today. Right away, a snugly elderdown and pillow set of orlon caught my eye. This material has a non-allergic chemical incorporated in the fibre, so that babies who may be sensitive to synthetic fabrics will come to no harm. The set is washable too, at $9.95.

Mother is certainly spared a lot of time and work with all the modern-day infants' clothes of nylon and orlon. Why, washing looks to be a cinch!

Take the diaper set I found. It consists of a pair of panties fully lined in plastic and a top for tucking in or leaving out when baby plays. These sets are masculine-styled for a little boy and frilly styled for baby Suzy! They come in colors to please everyone and at $3.95 a set.

Rayon or nylon nighties in pinks and blues are $1.49 (rayon) and $2.95 (nylon).

I don't think that mothers realize the variety of pretty clothes there are for the little girl in the 'teen-age group. Why, I was startled to find racks and racks of the sweetest frocks for this junior, junior miss.

For the nine-year-old girl on your list the latest is a taffeta combination blouse 'n' skirt. Skirts are in navy blue taffeta and there's a dainty pett point pattern on the blouse. Built-in crinoline under the wide skirt

Teen-Age Restriction Encouraged

NEW YORK — Parents with a teen-ager or two rocking around the house may feel they are going down for the third time and are in need of a life preserver.

But what would they do when confronted with waves of problems issuing from 45,000 adolescents in the throes of growing up? If they were Dr. Ruth Fedder, they would write a book. Or, perhaps two.

Not that she hides behind a typewriter in despair. Her books for teen-agers are a result of questions they ask her about growing up.

Dr. Fedder has been working in the 12 high schools of Bucks County, Pa., for 16 years as a school psychologist and assistant superintendent of schools.

When asked to compare today's teen-ager with the teen-ager of 16 years ago, she didn't hesitate.

"Today's teen-agers are more honest, more able to see and face problems and more willing to talk about them. In fact, they are more mature in their way than many adults because they have had to grow up in a more complicated world," she pointed out.

"Take dating," she said. "It used to revolve around the home. Now cars whisk them miles away to a dance, party or movie. Teen-agers have to get there and back, and handle any situations that might arise along the way."

"And all this publicity about steady dating," she laughed. "I think it is a matter of confused terminology. Many girls say they go steady. Then they explain they go steady by telephone with one boy and date another. Or they have a steady for Saturday night dates. When I was young, 'going steady' meant an approaching marriage. Today it means someone to count on for big dates."

"Teen-agers want to know what to do," Dr. Fedder pointed out. "They want restrictions no matter how much they seem to fight them. In fact, much of their behavior is to test these limits."

"They want guidance and direction in setting limits to their behavior," she explained. "In fact, they learn to know what to expect of themselves partly as they understand . . . what their parents expect of them."

The important thing about exercise is to do it regularly. Do not do the exercises for a few days, and then miss for the next few days. Results are gratifying.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

What Do You Really Know About Exercise?

People have so many misconceptions concerning exercise and ask so many questions about it that I am going to answer some of the most usual ones in the column today. I feel sure that many readers would like to know the answers to many of these queries.

1. How are figure molding exercises different from others?

In a way all exercises are figure molding in that all of them affect the figure. However, there are some exercises which are especially effective in distributing our weight nearer to our heart's desire.

It is entirely possible to lose inches in the waist and hips and over the abdomen without losing pounds. You also can build up the chest and calf muscles so that you increase the bust measurement and the size of the calves of the legs.

So, when I say, "figure molding" exercises, I mean those which I have found to be most effective in correcting figure defects.

2. I have heard that one must do exercises for at least an hour a day in order to make a difference in one's silhouette. This is not true. You will see a big difference if you do your exercises for 20 to 30 minutes daily. The important thing is to be regular—do not do the exercises for a few days and then miss for the next few.

Naturally you will get results more quickly if you can do them for 30 minutes morning and night. Also, it takes longer to increase a measurement than to reduce it. In the former situation you actually are building muscle.

3. I have heard that a woman should not start exercises after the age of 40. Is this true?

You can begin regular exercises at any age unless there is some abnormality or systemic trouble which makes it unwise. Of course your exercises should suit your physical capacity. The older you are the more slowly you will have to begin, and the less strenuous the exercises should be. It is also even more important that you have a physical examination before starting exercise. However, you always should have your blood pressure and heart checked at any age, and get your doctor's permission, before beginning.

4. You say a woman can increase her bust, but my doctor says it is impossible to do.

I did not say that you can increase your bust, but you can increase the size of the chest muscles which lie underneath the bust, and therefore make that measurement larger and your bust more prominent. It is like wearing natural falsies under your bust, instead of artificial ones on top of it.

If you would like to have my bust development routine, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Response to Appeal Gladdens Sponsors

One of the many satisfactions of sponsoring a fund such as "T-bricks for Korea" is to find one's faith in the generosity of plain, ordinary people renewed.

Hundreds give to such a fund. This particular campaign is to buy bricks, at 10 cents per brick, to build a tuberculosis outpatients' pavilion at Han No Hospital in Seoul, Korea, and the chances of any of the donors seeing the results of their giving is slim.

All they get in return is the satisfaction of knowing they have helped children with whom fate has dealt harshly—children on the far side of the world who are victims of war, and who will have a chance of being nursed back to health.

Well-wishers gave $582 to the fund Wednesday, with the following notes.

"More T-bricks for Korea," wrote "A Friend." "May the walls of the pavilion rise to be a sanctuary, an aid to recovery and happiness to many."

M. L. wrote in a letter: "I'm sorry it isn't more, but I am an old age pensioner and so don't have much to give."

"This need was particularly brought home to our hearts through the report of Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova's address up-Island," wrote another.

"Dr. Hirschmanova is executive director of the Unitarian Services Committee that will ensure the building of the pavilion. Donations to the fund may be sent to The Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street, or to The Times downtown office on Broad Street.

PEARSON ALONE IN RACE

Candidates 'Mum'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Hon. Lester Pearson, who Wednesday announced he would be a candidate for the Liberal party, leadership, today remained alone in the race.

Two other Liberals, mentioned as possible successors to former prime minister Louis St. Laurent, refused to commit themselves while attending the annual convention of the Manitoba Liberal-Progressive party.

They were Hon. Walter Harris, former finance minister, and Hon. Paul Martin, former health minister.

Mr. Harris said he had no comment on Mr. Pearson's statement or on the possibility he (Mr. Harris) would seek the leadership.

Mr. Martin said: "The leadership of the Liberal party is an honor and trust which any man dedicated to the Liberal would regard as the greatest challenge and opportunity to promote the nation's interest."

Asked by reporters if this meant he was formally entering the race, he said "no comment."

HON. WALTER HARRIS ... nothing to say

U.S. Pilots Can Blast Hostile Craft—Pearkes

OTTAWA (BUP)—General Earl Partridge, commander of the North American Air Defence Command, has the power to order any hostile aircraft shot down over this continent without prior consultation with the governments of Canada and the United States, Defence Minister George Pearkes said today.

Speaking on the $1.7 billion defence department estimates, Pearkes added, however, that such action would not constitute a declaration of war and that this final power still remains with the Canadian government.

The minister told the Commons that NORAD will operate under the same regulations set up to govern the RCAF air defence command in 1951. Under these rules, he said, General Partridge will have the power to:

Authorize the interception of any aircraft for identification purposes.

If an aircraft is hostile, order "its engagement by fighters or other means."

If an aircraft cannot be identified, authorize action to force it to land or engage it with fighters or other means.

"It is these rules which will govern the activities of the air defence forces controlled by the commander-in-chief North American Air Defence Command," Pearkes said. "These rules are Canadian government policy and therefore, North American Air Defence command will be operating within approved government policy."

Pearkes emphasized that, while the entry into Canadian territory by any hostile aircraft would be "an act of aggression," the use of force to deny further passage in this country "is not in itself an act which commits this country to war."

"Only the Canadian government can commit this country to war," he said. "Every precaution has been taken and will continue to be taken to ensure that the Canadian government is consulted before any act is undertaken which would commit this country to war."

A woman rushed from her nearby home balancing a tray of tea.

"You'd better watch it, Ma, a fireman warns. 'The carriage may fall over on you.'"

She ignored him, and passed the warming tea to shocked and shivering injured.

Underneath the rubble and wreckage were the bodies of a young couple. They were holding hands. Dead.

An injured man walked into Beckenham hospital, bleeding badly. "Just clean me up," he said. "I don't want to frighten my wife."

A girl with her smashed legs pinned in the wreckage. "Don't worry about me," she told rescuers. "Please help my husband. He may be hurt."

A little boy lying dead in the wreckage. A toy drum resting on his tummy. He was still unidentified at noon today.

Nineteen-year-old girl, hanging head down with her legs pinned in the wreckage. A doctor gave her three shots of morphine to ease the pain. A fireman who was trying to free her said:

"I spoke to her for an hour. I have never seen anyone so brave in my life."

230 WORKERS LAID OFF AT BAMBERTON

BAMBERTON—B.C. Cement Co. Ltd. will close its large plant here between Dec. 20 and Jan. 20, and will lay off 230 hourly employees.

"The company announced its decision was based on a slackening demand for the product at this time."

Coming at the same time as the layoff will be a $100 payment representing a pay increase coming into force this week, and retroactive to Aug. 1.

ALBURNI (CP)—Three young boys, who admitted a total of eight charges Tuesday—including breaking, entry, petty theft and wilful damage—were each sentenced to nine months definite and six months indefinite Wednesday.

The boys, transferred from juvenile court to ordinary court, are Raymond Boucher and John G. Polier, both 15, and Walter D. Coss.

The charges included a break-in by Coss and Polier into the elementary school here in which a telephone was ripped off the wall, ink splattered about and other damage done.

Safe Blowing Case Hoisted

PORT ALBURNI (CP)—Edward Charles Wilson of Lady-smith was charged Wednesday before Magistrate J. M. Patterson in connection with the blowing of a safe here Monday and theft from it of $650 in cash, still missing, and $1,300 in cheques which were later recovered.

He was remanded in custody without plea. RCMP said it is believed three persons were involved in the crime but there was no indication whether further arrests are pending.

St. Stephen's WA Plans Fall Bazaar

QUALICUM BEACH—Re-elected president of the W.A. of St. Stephen's United Church here at its annual meeting was Mrs. Victor Cannings.

Also elected were: honorary president, Mrs. R. Moses; vice-presidents, Mrs. J. C. Reid and Mrs. H. Dougan; secretary, Mrs. E. Sanders; treasurer, Mrs. F. G. Heard.

Arrangements for the fall bazaar Friday evening were completed.

22 Whist Tables At Legion Drive

QUALICUM BEACH—A good turnout of 22 tables attended the Canadian Legion whist drive in the community hall here, first of the annual series of pre-Christmas activities of the local branch.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Crichton held the two highest hands. There will be a bingo party Saturday, and the following week an old-time and modern dance.

Saanich Candidates Fight on Indemnity

A surprise hot potato was thrown into the Saanich election fire Wednesday night when candidates roared both sides of the council honorarium question.

Coun. George Chatterton, who was absent but sent a letter to a meeting sponsored by the Saanich Voters' Association, started the blaze.

The letter told 50 persons attending the meeting in the Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall that present indemnities of $1,800 for the reeve and $600 for councillors should be "at least doubled" to give recognition to the "important status of a reeve or councillor."

During the question period, which followed a running battle between the candidates over investigation of amalgamation and the purpose of the December 12 Group, Reeve Arthur Ash was asked whether he would move to raise his salary if elected.

"I will not make any such motion because that sort of thing is up to council," he said. "But I will say that I think the honorarium should be raised to $3,000 for reeve and $2,000 for councillors."

Coun. Passmore and candidate Grant charged that strings were attached to the sponsorship and that first loyalty of the men would automatically go to the group behind them, not ratepayers.

This was denied by the sponsored candidates.

During the intermittent duel over amalgamation, most candidates repeated previous arguments as they divided over the question.

Candidate for a seat on School District 61 (Saanich) Board, George McWilliam charged the department of education "hasn't got the guts to come out and set a province-wide salary scale for teachers to prevent them from playing one school board against another."

Grant 'Satisfied With Expenses'

Ronald Grant said he, too, had four children, but "I'd be satisfied with expenses and I would not favor any increases in the honorarium."

Candidates Gregory Cook and Harold Todd both said they would not favor any change in the indemnity schedule, but reeveship candidate Eugene Diespecker and council candidate Charles Nelles did not give their views.

The candidates also quarrelled over the sponsorship of Reeve Ash, and candidates Nelles, Murphy and Todd by the Dec. 12 group.

Arrowsmith Scouts Name Year's Slate

Strength of the movement in the district is now five Cub packs with 122 Cubs; four Scout troops with 43 Scouts; 15 leaders, and a Rover crew in formation.

RCAF RITES FOR VICTIM OF ELECTROCUTION

COURTENAY (CP)—A military funeral was held today at Wainwright, Alta., for RCAF Sgt. William Douglas MacKay, electrocuted when his car struck a power pole near here Saturday night.

An RCAF detachment from Comox, where Sgt. MacKay was stationed, escorted the funeral procession. He had served 11 years in the air force.

An inquest jury this week found no blame attached in Sgt. MacKay's death. It is believed he touched wires carrying 13,000 volts as he climbed out of his wrecked car.

Ex-Tory PM Meighen Honored at Banquet

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker paid tribute Tuesday night to one of his predecessors, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, as a great statesman and literary figure.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke at a Canadian Club testimonial dinner honoring Mr. Meighen, past president of the club.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Meighen's literary contribution is "unique among the public men of Canada." He predicted that posterity would "discover and rediscover Mr. Meighen from the record of his recorded utterances."

As a statesman, Mr. Meighen had helped lay the basis of unity between the Commonwealth and the United States through his work in bringing about the Anglo-Japanese treaty at the Imperial Conference in 1921.

Mr. Meighen, at 83, the oldest living former prime minister of Canada, spoke briefly, recalling his early days in the Commons. "I was fortunate in the fine men who stood with me and the fine men who stood against me," he said.

Tributes to Mr. Meighen were received from Sir Winston Churchill, who referred to him as "this most distinguished Canadian statesman," and former prime minister St. Laurent, who said he was "distinguished as a patriotic citizen with a high sense of public duty." Others came from Social Credit Leader Low and Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled that Mr. Meighen was the only man to hold all four of the top positions in the federal government. He was at various times prime minister, leader of the Opposition, government leader in the Senate and Opposition leader in the Senate.

— Mrs. Harry Drover of Clarendville, Nfld., started a controversy when she polled the highest number of votes cast in a recent municipal election. Tradition is that she would become mayor, but council voted 6-3 in favor of Boyce Smith. A citizens' committee presented a petition asking that Mrs. Drover be named mayor and Mr. Smith and five councillors resigned. The matter was then referred to the municipal affairs department. (CP.)

Centennial Museum Plan Backed

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council decided Tuesday to proceed with a scaled-down version of the museum rather than follow up on suggestions for a RCMP patrol vessel St. Roch in the Kitsilano beach area of the city as Vancouver's centennial project.

The revised plan will cost an estimated $470,000 compared with the original $1,117,000. The peak in numbers of Canadian divorces was 8,199 in 1947, despite a public subscription at $366,000.
